OPENING of NEW FOOT HOSPITAL IN DUBLIN

HEARTY WELCOME EXTENDED TO ALL FOOT SUFFERERS

Foot Sufferers will be pleased to hear that a Foot Hospital has been opened in the centre of the city, in D'Olier street, next door to the Red Bank and two doors from the Gas Offices.

This ideal spot has been decided upon on account of being so well known and so conveniently situated.

It is amazing to think that the Dublin people and those from the surrounding districts suffer from such terrible foot troubles, and it will be a boon to them to learn that there is now a Foot Hospital which will treat all foot ailments. The Specialist in attendance, who was the originator of three London Foot Hospitals, where he and his staff treated hundreds of patients a day, extends a hearty welcome to all those suffering from foot ailments of any description.

This Foot Hospital is the finest and best equipped of its kind, and is on the same scientific basis as in London and New York, and there is no doubt that this is a great step in the progress of the Irish Free State. Treatment is given for corns, hard skin, ingrown toenails, thick nails, bunions, crooked toes, corns between the toes, and hard skin under the nails, for a very nominal fee.

It is impossible to enjoy the pleasures of dancing, shopping, walking, and the hundred-and-one other activities so eagerly anticipated during the summer months, if one's feet hurt.

Often patients imagine that they have rheumatism or gout, when they are really suffering from neuralgia of the feet. There is no longer any need to suffer when there is a Foot Hospital in Dublin where one may be treated by a qualified Foot Specialist, lady or gentleman, in a private cubicle. Patients may call at any time during the day between the hours of 11 till 1 and 2 till 5. Treatment is given during the day for 3s. 6d. a foot; both feet 6s 6d., and patients will walk out after treatment with amazing comfort. In order to help those who are standing on their feet all day, and who are working until 6 at night, The Foot Specialist has arranged Special late hours, so that treatment may be given between 6 and 8 p.m. The charge will be lessened between these hours to 2s. 6d. a foot, or 4s. both feet. Not only is Chiropody given at this Hospital, but treatment is given to all those suffering from Fallen Arches, Flat Feet, Painful Joints, muscular weakness in the legs, and numberless other Foot and Leg Troubles.

There is no further need to hobble along on sticks and crutches, or taking the risk of becoming a cripple owing to painful feet and lack of exercise. It is amazing to think that 9 in 10 people in Dublin suffer with bad feet. What an opportunity there is for Dublin Foot Sufferers at this Foot Hospital, which has been opened just at the right time, before the Summer heat ruins and cripples the feet!

CALL IMMEDIATELY AT THE NEW FOOT HOSPITAL D'OLIER STREET

Next door to the Red Bank, and two doors from the Gas Offices, and walk away after treatment in ABSOLUTE COMFORT.

Hours: 11 till 1, 2 till 5.
Special late hours: 6 till 8 p.m.

CIRCUIT (CRIMINAL) COURT

IMPRISONMENT FOR CORONER'S CLERK

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

Sentence of fifteen months' imprisonment with hard labour was imposed on Joseph P. Maher, who pleaded guilty to certain counts charging him with having, whilst acting as Clerk to the Coroner of the City of Dublin, forged and uttered certain cheques, the property of the Dublin Corporation, and demanding money on certain cheques.

In reply to Mr. J. V. Nolan Whelan (instructed by Mr. E. B. Healy, solicitor), who defended, Maher said that he was 41 years of age, and a native of Dublin. For the last few years as Coroner's Clerk he was in receipt of £2 10s. a week, and although he made six applications for an increase, he was not successful. His work had grown considerably in recent years.

Judge Davitt commented on the fact that there were a dozen charges of forgery, and a dozen charges of demanding money on forged documents.

Maher said "Thank you" when sentence was passed on him.

Mr. M. J. Connolly, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted.

ILLEGAL POSSESSION OF £112

Joseph Carroll (37), alias J. J. Kennedy, of no business, and with an address in Belfast, who had been found guilty of being in the illegal possession of about £112, alleged to have been the proceeds of the robbery of a safe in the Laundry and Dye Works, Dunmurray, Lisburn, Belfast, in 1934, came up for sentence.

Judge Davitt referred to the fact that at present the accused man was serving a sentence for another offence. He was anxious to know if Carroll gave up all claim to the money found in his possession.

The accused man answered in the affirmative.

Judge Davitt imposed sentence of eighteen months, to commence at the unfinished portion of the other term.

The accused man—I have to do eighteen months for all?

Judge Davitt—Yes.

Accused man—Thanks.

ILLEGAL POSSESSION OF MOTOR CAR

Hugh Lewis, Seville place, who had been employed in the garage of the Great Northern Railway Company, Amiens street, Dublin, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with being in illegal possession of a motor car, value £100, which he took from Ormond quay on the night of the 8th-9th May.

Mr. J. J. O'Connor, solicitor, who appeared for Lewis, said that the car in question was the property of Mr. George Warren, who said that no damage had been done to the vehicle. Lewis had some drink taken at the time, and seeing the motor car unattended he took it for a run to Lucan. In consequence of the vigilance of the Guards he was arrested. He had borne a good character previous to this, and substantial bail would be given for his future good behaviour.

Mr. M. J. Connolly, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) who prosecuted, said that the practice of stealing motor cars had been causing a great deal of trouble to Civic Guards. In this case the accused man had given a wrong address when arrested, and had no driving licence.

Inspector Flanagan said that prior to the charge, Lewis had borne a good character.

Judge Davitt ordered the accused man to pay £5 towards the expenses of the prosecution (giving him three months in which to pay), and bound him over to keep the peace for two years.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT

DUBLIN CORPORATION SUED

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

James Roberts, a minor, suing by his father, Richard Roberts, Mount Pleasant Buildings, Ranelagh, claimed damages from the Dublin Corporation for personal injuries which he sustained through the alleged negligence of the Corporation servants in the control and management of a dust cart, in the Corporation yard, Rathmines, on September 21st, 1934.

The defence was that the plaintiff, who was six years of age, was a trespasser on the premises, and that he was one of a group of children who were playing in the yard. Some of the children, it was stated, were on the dust carts, and someone shouted at them to get down, and, in getting off, the plaintiff fell to the ground and broke his collar-bone.

It was stated in evidence that children played in the yard, which was a kind of public passage. After some few trifling accidents, a notice was put up prohibiting children from playing there.

Mr. Roberts, the father of the child, said that another child of his broke his arm while playing there three years ago. Having seen the Corporation notice, he warned this child (plaintiff) not to play there.

The Judge said that the Corporation was legally liable because they had kept the yard open to children. He held that the cart was in an inherently dangerous position. He gave a decree for £30 and costs.

A stay of execution for fourteen days was granted.

Mr. E. Wood (instructed by Mr. James Fagan) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. G. Burke (instructed by the Law Agent) appeared for the Corporation.

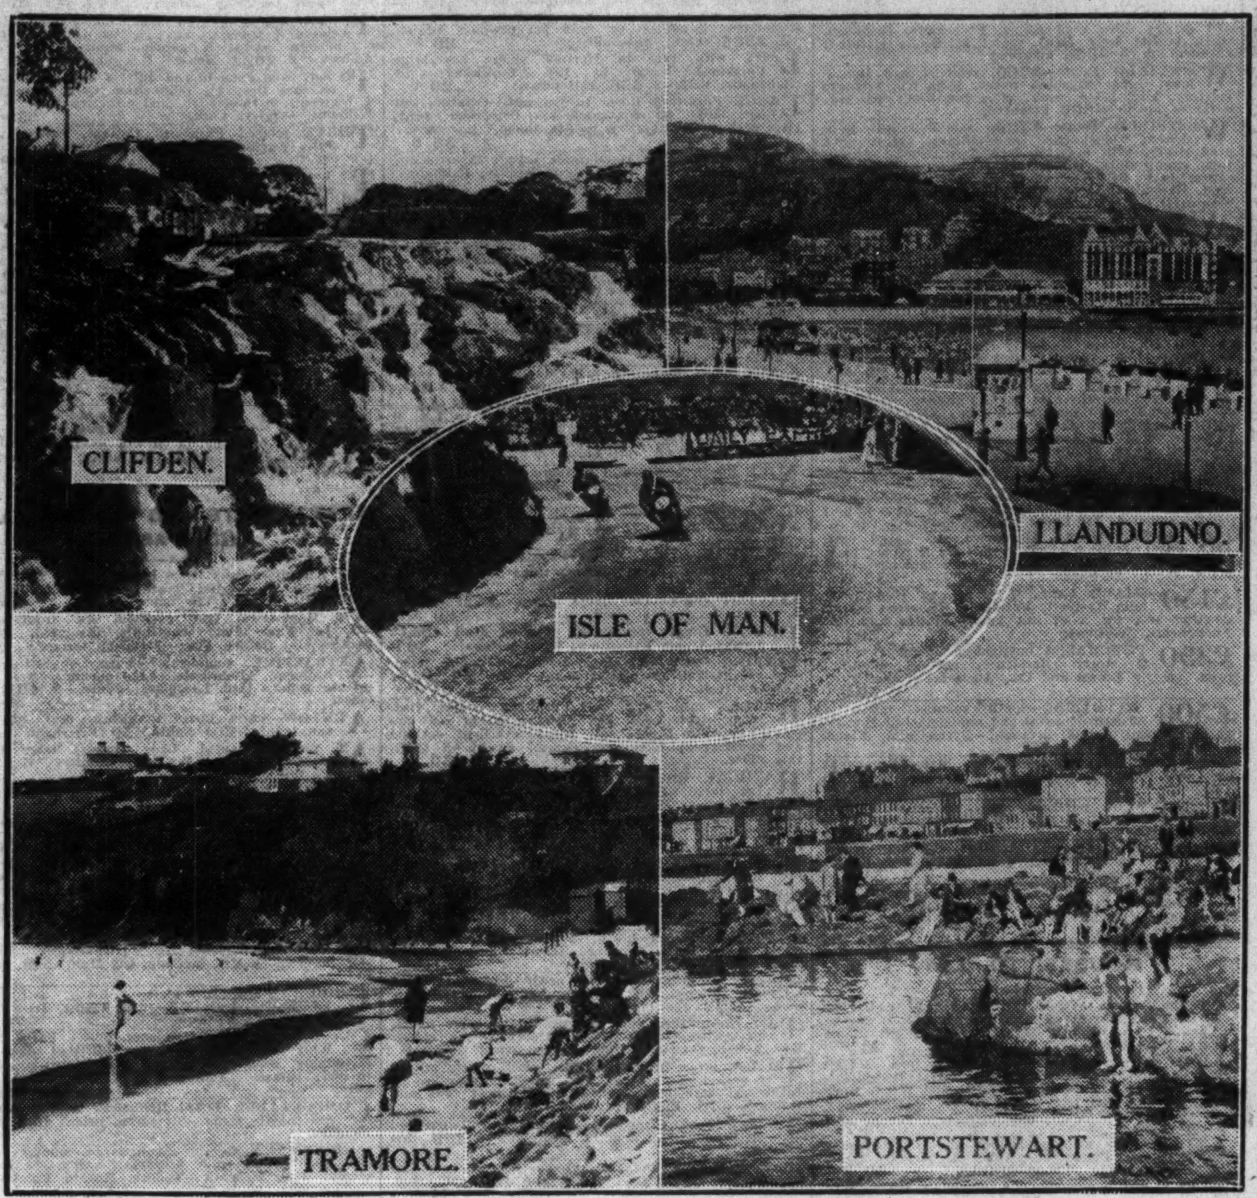
Plan Your VACATION now!



THE WHITSUNTIDE APPEAL

WHITSUN only a week away! Well, if anyone had been doubting the fact that the holiday season has begun, the arrival of Whitsun must certainly dispel those doubts. Here we are in the month of June, one of the best of the summer months for a holiday to get rid of the tiredness and pastiness of a winter spent working in the cities and towns.

Already the week-end trains and boats leaving Dublin are becoming crowded with holiday-makers, and at all hours of the day one finds the railway booking offices and tourist agency offices busy answering inquiries. In the middle of all these inquiries, of course, is the staff of the Irish Tourist Association, who have found themselves increasingly busy for months past telling people how, when and where to spend a really good holiday in Ireland, for it is certain that this year, more than ever before, people are taking the slogan, "See Ireland First," really seriously.

FORTUNATE DUBLIN

When one speaks of a week-end holiday it is nice to remember that Dublin is very well off for seaside resorts within easy reach of the city. Take the South side, for instance. You have Dun Laoghaire, Bray and Greystones, and, a little further south, Arklow and Wicklow. All of them are within easy reach of the city, and are well served by the Great Southern Railway Company's trains. If you are keen on golf there are facilities for the sport at every one of these resorts. Then, on the North side, there is Howth, with its great Head affording a wonderful view of Dublin Bay; Malahide (golf again), Skerries and Balbriggan. There is plenty of sand for the children and great bathing to be had along the Leinster coast, and particularly the coast of County Dublin.

Although these have been suggested for a week-end, if you have not spent a longer holiday in one of them it is well worth doing so. Just another word about Whit week-end before talking about some of the other holiday resorts. Most of the hotels have arranged special attractions for Whitsun, and anyone who spent last Christmas or Easter in a hotel in Ireland knows what good fun these special attractions can be. Certainly Irish hotel proprietors have learned a great deal about the full entertainment of their guests during the last couple of years.

ROSSLARE AND TRAMORE

Rosslare is a nice little place to spend a holiday. It has eight miles of strand and plenty of bathing, boating and tennis, as well as an eighteen-hole golf links. Even George Bernard Shaw, hardened cynic though he is, had to make a comment on Rosslare, and remarked: "I was lost in dreams; one cannot work in a place where there is such infinite peace." And who wants to work on a holiday, anyway? Off the south coast of Wexford, from the village of Kilmore Quay, one can see—and visit—those oddly-shaped rocks known as the Saltee Islands, the haunt of the guillemots, which are nesting there about this time of the year, and many species of wild fowl and rabbits. Incidentally, Kilmore Quay has been acquiring fame lately as a resort for sea-anglers, and is one of the best places around the Irish coast for bass and pollock.

Everybody has heard about Tramore. It is one of the jolliest places in Ireland for a holiday. A long stretch of firm sand stretches away round Tramore Bay to the "Burrows," natural hills of sand towards Brownstown Head. Here in Tramore one finds some good examples of organised facilities for holiday enjoyment. The golf course—without which no resort in Ireland appears to be complete—is supplemented by good tennis courts, a dance hall and an amusement park. What else does anybody want? But if you happen to be interested in botany, there are some rare plants up on the "Burrows." Quite a number of drives can be taken from Tramore to such places as Dunmore East and along the shore of Waterford Harbour to Passage East and Checkpoint. On the west of the town the coastline presents a whole series of interesting features, as the cliffs alternate with sandy stretches. Dungarvan is another County Waterford resort worth a visit. Situated at the mouth of the River Colligan and set between the mountains and the sea, it is a good health resort and has fine bathing facilities. From an historical point of view, it is interesting, since some traces of the old walls remain, together with a castle built by King John, a thirteenth-century Augustinian Abbey at Abbeyside, and the keep of another old castle. Some splendid views are to be had from the high ground bordering the sea.

IN COUNTY CORK

Youghal, in County Cork, can be divided into two parts—ancient and modern. The modern town has grown up beside the fine strand which stretches away for nearly five miles to Knockadoon Head and overlooks the bay. The historic part is tucked away in between a steeply rising hill and the harbour. But, to return to the strand. There is one favourite bathing place between the lighthouse and Clay Castle, which is safe at all stages of the tide. If you wish to travel around a bit it is quite easy to get a ferry boat across to Monatrea, on the Waterford side of the harbour, or run up to Lismore, where the Duke of Devonshire has his home, and Cappoquin, which is only a few miles away from the famous Mount Melleray Abbey. During the Desmond Rebellion Youghal was a fortified town, and parts of the old walls still remain. St. Mary's Church is a fifteenth-century building, while St. John's Abbey belonged to the Benedictines a century earlier. Of course, all visitors to Youghal must remember Sir Walter Raleigh's associations with the town, for he was its mayor in 1588-'89, and it was in the garden of Myrtle Grove that he planted the first potatoes grown in Ireland and introduced tobacco, with the results that always made us snigger when we came to that part in our history books at school.

From Cork there are two routes to Glengariff—one through Bandon and Bantry, and the other via Macroom and the Pass of Keimaneigh. There is only a few miles in the difference between the two routes, the former being 68 miles and the latter 61. It matters little, however, which of them you take if you are going by road as long as you eventually reach Glengariff—"the craggy glen"—that deep valley with big boulders strewn around the mountain-tops as if by some giant's hand. Strange to say, the main impression Glengariff gives is not of this roughness, but of the thick foliage of the valley, and, beyond it all, Bantry Bay. The climate of the district is worth a comment, because it is genial and soft without being either enervating or relaxing, and there is plenty of sport of all kinds to be had in the neighbourhood.

THE "KINGDOM"

Mention of the "Kingdom of Kerry" promptly brings Killarney to the mind of the prospective holiday-maker. But everyone has heard of Killarney, and it would really take a whole volume to talk about the sights to be seen in the vicinity of the town. There is the tour through the Gap of Dunloe, the Upper Lake, Long Range, the Middle and Lower Lakes to Ross Castle. Then there is Muckross Abbey, Dinis Island, Torc Waterfall, the Deer Park, and dozens of other places. Really, the visitor to Killarney, if he wishes to see all the attractions of the neighbourhood, will have a very busy time.

But Killarney is not the only holiday resort in Kerry, for there are such places as Ballybunion and Parknasilla—a sort of sub-tropical garden dropped on the Atlantic seaboard as if by mistake. Parknasilla is not a conventional sort of seaside resort, however, but it is one of the nicest spots in the whole country for a holiday. Nine miles from Listowel is Ballybunion, on the north-west coast of the county, just where the Shannon meets the Atlantic Ocean. It is one of the most popular resorts along the west coast, mainly because of its long stretch of sand, running along beneath the cliffs. Besides bathing from the beach, one can get some real fun in the natural swimming pools in the rocks. From a scenic point of view, it would be hard to beat the great cliffs stretching out into the Shannon estuary, and for the sportsman there is an 18-hole golf course of championship standard.

WESTERN SEABOARD

The western counties of Ireland can offer a wide variety of resorts. For instance, there is Lisdoonvarna Spa, in County Clare. The sulphur spa there is claimed to be one of the best in the world, and the climate of Lisdoonvarna is both mild and invigorating, since the air combines the qualities of the sea, moorland and mountains.

Of course, Ireland has another important spa—at Lucan, quite close to the City of Dublin. During the last year or two the spa has been brought right up to date, and all the latest treatments can be obtained under qualified supervision. Some people have the idea that one should only go to a spa when they are run down and in need of treatment, but that is not so; one can have a really good time at this sort of place and feel all the better for it afterwards.

Let us go back to County Clare again. Kilkee faces out on to the Atlantic, and from its semi-circular beach of firm sand bathing in the ocean is perfectly safe. For expert swimmers there are places beneath the cliffs on the south side where the diver can plunge into the water from any height he likes up to about fifty feet. Some fine walks are to be taken along this part of the coast, and the cliffs are undermined by caves in several places. There is a very nice drive, too, along the coast northwards to Spanish Point, Miltown-Malbay, Lahinch, and the Cliffs of Moher.

THE NORTH-WEST

If you are looking for a resort somewhat further to the north, there are three worth a visit in County Sligo. Rosse's Point, for example, is one of the places every golfer has heard about, even if he has not been there yet. Besides the golf, however, there is a safe, sandy beach, stretching for about three miles along the coast to the west of the village. Strandhill, like Rosse's Point, lies only five miles from the town of Sligo itself. It rests at the foot of Knocknarea Hill, and is particularly popular by reason of the bathing from the fine sandy beach. The third resort which is favoured very largely is Enniscrone, on Killala Bay. Here another stretch of firm sand affords excellent bathing facilities, and, in addition, there are well-equipped baths.

Just up in County Donegal is Bundoran, which in the variety of its attractions resembles Tramore. If you really want to compare Bundoran or Tramore with a cross-Channel resort the best comparison is with Brighton—a better Brighton, however. Bundoran boasts one of the finest hotels in the country and it is not a vain boast. The town faces the broad expanse of Donegal Bay, while behind it are the hills of Donegal in the north and the mountains of Leitrim and Sligo away to the south. On the fine sandy beach roll the Atlantic breakers, and guarding the sides of the bay are the cliffs, carved into fantastic shapes by the sea. Apart from the splendid golf course there are plenty of other recreations such as tennis, dancing, and angling in Lough Melvin and the rivers Drowes and Duff.

Adjoining Donegal on the south lies Fermanagh, and down the centre of this county runs the River Erne, which spreads out into loughs dotted with little islands. The upper lake is a network of land and water, but the lower lake is more open, and some splendid fishing is to be had around this district.

Cruising is an altogether different type of holiday, and the various shipping companies have organised a wide variety of cruises this year. Those of the North German Lloyd Line, for instance, include trips to America and specially-conducted tours of Germany. Full details of these may be obtained from the Limerick Steamship Company, who are agents for this line.

CHEAP RAILWAY TRAVEL IN GERMANY

Germany, land of the Omerammergau Passion plays and the Bayreuth Wagner festivals, country of silent forests, mediæval towns and ancient castles, provides for the traveller this year a holiday that can be as inexpensive as it is full of variety.

A reduction of 60 per cent. in German railway fares is offered to all tourists who purchase their tickets outside Germany and who make a minimum stay of seven full days in that country. The registered mark system allows visitors from these islands to obtain full value for the £—the rate for registered marks being about 23 marks to the £, as against the official rate of 12¼—and they may be purchased in any bank upon presentation of a passport.

Berlin's most luxurious hotels offer rooms at ten marks a day, including service; the best second-class hotels rarely charge more than five marks, while boarding-house accommodation is in proportion.

Small spa resorts in the Black Forest, in Upper Bavaria, the Saxonian Switzerland, Harz and Thuringia offer inclusive weekly "cure" terms at prices ranging from 30 to 45 marks.

THE ATTRACTIONS OF THE NORTH

From Our Belfast Correspondent.

WHY not see Northern Ireland this year and get to know its people and the beauties of its scenery? Why go abroad and get poor value for your depreciated £ on adverse exchanges when you can do better at home. An increasing number of holiday-makers from the North are going south, sampling the beauties of the Lakes of Killarney and the delightful seaside resorts, and experiencing the charm and friendliness of the people. They return with their horizon broadened, and Ireland henceforth is something to them that it never was before. So, when the Southerner visits the North, even for a brief period of residence, in one of its attractive holiday resorts, or for a tour of its beautiful glens, its cliff-girt roads, its appealing strands, old world towns and villages, its lakes and isles and silver streams, his outlook is changed. Many preconceived notions of the "cold, black North" disappear.

A KINDLY PEOPLE

They find a kindly and friendly people, with a peculiar directness of manner, which is both disconcerting and engaging; yet, a people capable of lasting friendship, eager to show the beauty spots at a lovely countryside, and to dispel any illusion that the North is a smoke-ridden industrial area. Even in Belfast it is not that, and its seaside and holiday resorts will compare with those of any country in the world for natural beauty and charm. The North has much to show the South, and it is anxious that it should be known and understood, not by preconceived notions or prejudices, but by reality. What a wonderful list of attractions it has to offer?

PORTRUSH

Portrush has an appeal all its own. It is built upon a promontory, which runs about three-quarters of a mile into the Atlantic, which gives it the advantage of bracing ozone-laden air, and three sea fronts. If the breeze is blowing too strongly on one sea front, as it sometimes does in the best regulated holiday resorts, it is easy to go to the other side of the promontory, where there is shelter and sunshine and an equally delightful view of golden strand and distant hills. It is justly described as the "Queen of Northern Holiday Resorts." Its air is just intoxicating. It is not so keen as one might expect from the Northern situation, but is silk and soft, without a suspicion of heaviness, a bracing breeze, tempered by the warmth of the Gulf Stream as it flows on its way to the South of Iceland.

Portrush has three delightful golf courses, one of championship class; while, on Ramore Head, there is a comprehensive play ground with numerous tennis courts, bowling and putting greens, and other attractions. For the bather, old and young, there are plenty of open air bathing facilities, while for those whose age or infirmity prevents them from participating in ordinary sea bathing there is a hot sea-water swimming pool, which is this year's new attraction. Portrush will always remain a health resort without a rival; for it has many natural advantages. The greatest of these is its air, which in itself is a tonic. It is almost inconceivable that this "gem in North Atlantic" was once given away cheaply. It is recorded that in 1620 the local chieftain or landlord "being in good humour, gave Sir Thomas Phillips (an Englishman) a little neck of land called Port-russe (Portrush), some mile and a half from his castle, Denn Lewes (Dunluce), for a hogs-head of claret yearly." Sir Thomas was the first in that long line of English, Scotch and Irish visitors to Portrush who have spread its charms throughout the world.

A HOLIDAY CENTRE

Portrush can be made the centre for touring a wide area in North Antrim and North Derry, including Portstewart, Castlerock and Ballycastle, and exploring the country as far as Londonderry. No visit to this Northern watering place would be complete without inspecting the grandeur of the Giant's Causeway. Motorists from the Free State can utilise Portrush as a jumping-off point for visiting the Donegal Highlands, or if they go east they can traverse the famous Antrim coast road, thirty miles of sheer delight, of which it has been written: "Even a world-travelled tourist could not refrain from describing as one of the finest roads in the world, second only to the Grand Corniche." They can visit also the Glens of Antrim, which have been extolled in story and picture; but the most lyrical of pens or the most inspired brush can never quite capture their serene beauty and glamour. Glenariff Glen, termed "The Queen," is the best known, but they are all indescribably What Portrush is to the extreme North lovely. Bangor is to the North-East. It is a splendid centre, from which visitors can inspect the beauties of the Co. Down coast and the Ards Peninsula. Its attractions are different, but no less appealing. Here there is every modern facility and attraction for the most fastidious holiday-seeker—golf, tennis, bowls, bathing, yachting, motor boats, cinemas, "fun cities," and a great variety of other amusements. Bangor is distinctly a play centre, although those who desire a less strenuous holiday can find it in the Pickie Park, at Ballyholme, or the Central Park. As Bangor is only twelve miles from Belfast, visitors are within striking distance of city shops, theatres and picture-houses, so that, wet or fine, they need never experience a dull moment. Those who like crowded holiday resorts will find Bangor all that they desire in the July 12th holiday week and the following Glasgow Fair week. At other periods there are not so many people, but the amusements and attractions are the same.

THE MOTORIST-GOLFER

For the motorist-golfer Bangor is an admirable centre. After he has played over the Bangor golf courses and the Bangor Municipal course at Cornalea—the first municipal course in Ireland, and the prettiest, with wonderful views across Belfast Lough and the Scotch coast—he can run over to Donaghadee, where there is a splendid course, with little or no "rough," or still further afield to Cloughey, where there is a course of singular attractiveness.

Those who desire to explore the beauties of the Kingdom of Mourne—"where the mountains of Mourne sweep down to the sea," as described in Percy French's delightful song—could not do better than make Newcastle or Warrenpoint their headquarters. Newcastle is one of the loveliest corners of Ireland. The towering Slieve Donard—the monarch of the mountain range—stands on guard over Newcastle: while his majestic court, Slieve Bigniar, Slieve Bernagh and Slieve Croob, hold sway over the Kingdom of Mourne and add a noble grandeur to a district full of charm and attractiveness. For those who enjoy mountaineering, it is a paradise, full of pleasant surprises; while to the ordinary tourist for whom hill-climbing is too strenuous, the Mourne Mountains are ever with him. No matter where he goes in South Down—and even into Armagh—a view of the Mourne Mountains is always available.

At Newcastle there are two golf courses, including a championship golf course, where the Irish Ladies' Open Championship has just concluded; while there are abundant facilities for sea-bathing along the sands or in the new swimming-pool. There are also tennis courts, and a new park will be opened shortly by the Governor of Northern Ireland, the Duke of Abercorn, which will bring Newcastle into the front line of holiday resorts, so far as attractions for visitors are concerned. For the young, middle-aged and the elderly people, Newcastle has its varied attractions, and none can surpass the restfulness of sitting on the sand dunes in blissful idleness and gazing upon some of the most enchanting scenery in Ireland, across the sands to the Mourne Mountains.

A "WORLD'S WONDER"

At the other extremity of the Mourne range, with its close neighbour, Rostrevor, is "Charming Warrenpoint." Nature has been more than bountiful here. She has endowed Rostrevor and Warrenpoint with a lovely lough and pleasant air and with fine mountain views. No wonder Thackeray described the area as a "world's wonder" and compared the view over Carlingford Lough with the Bay of Naples. Mr. St. John Ervine, making another comparison, said: "The mountains in Switzerland lose their substance in the twilight. The sinking sun does not steal their beauty from the Mournes, but leaves them to become more enchanting as the night gathers up her clouds, and wraps them round the earth. There is no hint of artifice here. This beauty does not die at dusk—it grows with the dark." Warrenpoint has golf, tennis, swimming ponds, a pleasant public park, and all the usual attractions of a holiday resort. Overlooking Rostrevor is wooded Cloughmore, with its "big stone," which legend states was thrown by the Irish giant, Finn Mac Coul, from the Carlingford Mountain. A mile from the town is "The Fairy Glen," a rare beauty spot.

FOR THE ANTIQUARIAN

To the antiquarian or the lover of folk-lore the whole of Northern Ireland is a delightful field for exploration. There is Shane's Castle on Lough Neagh; Dunluce Castle, near Portrush; the Norman Castle, at Carrickfergus, now a museum open to visitors; historic Benburb and its memories of Owen Roe O'Neill; the ancient town of Emania, near Armagh, celebrated for the exploits of the Red Branch Knights; Saul, in South Down, near which St. Patrick landed on his mission to Ireland, and where he built his first little church fifteen centuries ago. Mahee Island, on Strangford Lough, with the remains of the first monasteries in Ireland, the Cistercian Abbey, at Greyabbey, where an historical pageant will be held within the next few weeks, and Inch, and the ecclesiastical buildings on the island of Divenish in Lower Lough Erne. There are many more, including pre-historic relics like the Giants Ring, near Belfast, as old as Stonehenge, Englands pre-historic monument, going back more than 2,000 years.

USEFUL INFORMATION

A full list of these, as well as much useful information about all parts of Northern Ireland, is contained in the Guide Book of the Ulster Tourist Development Association, 6 Royal avenue, Belfast, an organisation ever anxious to assist visitors with literature and information, and enable them to make a happy holiday in the North.

Those who reside in the Free State have no difficulty in gaining access to this wonderful holiday land. The Great Northern Railway offers attractive fares and efficient services to the various seaside and inland resorts. A request for a booklet to the railway company at Amiens Street Station, Dublin, will bring full particulars of all excursions, including tourist tickets, circular rail tours, hiking tours, extended road tours, and combined rail and hotel coupons, and a seven day tour to the Glens of Antrim and Mourne Mountains.

Holiday-makers to the North should study the time tables and tours offered by the London, Midland and Scottish Railway (Belfast) to the Glens of Antrim and other parts of their system. Also the itineraries planned by H. M. S. Catherwood, Bailies B.B. Tours, combined with McNeill's Tours.

HOTEL ACCOMMODATION

The hotels and boarding-houses have been greatly improved at all the Northern seaside resorts in recent years. The new hot sea water swimming pond in the Northern Counties Hotel, Portrush, is a special attraction. Prices are reasonable and visitors are exceptionally well catered for, and holiday comfort at the Northern resorts is equal to the best provided in the Isle of Man or at cross-Channel holiday centres.

If you have not already sampled the North's beautiful scenery and generous hospitality, plan a holiday for the North this year. No longer let your impressions be imaginary. Get the reality and take the opportunity of learning to know its people. You are sure of some pleasant surprises, an enoyable holiday and happy memories.

THE ISLE OF MAN

The Isle of Man is a favourite holiday place for Irish people, and every year the attractions provided for the tourist are being further improved. It does not matter what kind of a holiday you want—gay or quiet—you will be able to spend it in Manxland. Douglas is one of the gayest resorts in these islands, yet within a few miles of it the visitor can find peace and quiet. During Whit week-end special one-day and two-day excursions are being run from Dublin to the Isle of Man, and for anyone considering a holiday there these short trips will provide an excellent opportunity of seeing what the place is like for yourself. Even if you are not going to spend the whole of your summer holiday there, just go across for a day or two; it is well worth making the trip.

North Wales also has many visitors from Ireland every year, and it is certainly difficult to find any part of Great Britain to excel the districts around Rhyl, Llandudno and Colwyn Bay in variety of scenery and amusements in such a small space. Along this coast you have the sea in all its moods; from where it creeps over the shallows of the "Sands o' Dee," along the golden sands of big pleasure beaches, to where it beats against the South Stack Rocks of Holy Island. The service of Royal Mail steamers operated by the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company between Dun Laoghaire and Holyhead make North Wales easy of access to Irish people, and, apart from those who spend their annual holidays there, many others cross over on the day excursions, such as those to be run next week-end. Llandudno is probably the best-known of the Welsh holiday resorts and is situated between the two headlands of Great and Little Orme. The promenade is over two miles long, and steamship trips can be made along the Welsh coast to the Isle of Man and to Liverpool. Rhyl is complete with everything that is up-to-date in the way of amusement for the holiday-maker, and Colwyn Bay, with its five-mile beach sheltered from the cold winds, is equally attractive.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

A Hill in Flames : Donnybrook Fair's Rival : Belfast Street Cries : Tom Moore and Dublin

Heath Fires

With the arrival of the warm weather, and the consequent drying up of the ground, heath fires begin to ravage the hills and uplands. A friend of mine in Belfast tells me that enormous tracts of heather and gorse are destroyed on the hills surrounding the city every summer. Very often these heath fires are caused by careless picnickers, who light small fires and then neglect to extinguish them before leaving, with the result that the surrounding heather is kindled, and in a short time several acres of the hillside are in the grasp of an uncontrollable blaze. My friend tells me that one of the largest and most destructive heath fires he has ever seen occurred recently on Collinward Mountain, which lies behind Cave Hill. The fire had started at a point below the western side of the mountain, and a strong north-easterly wind fanned the flames until fully a square mile of the landscape was smoking and blazing like the crater of an enormous volcano. Dense volumes of acrid smoke ballooned upwards into the blue vault of the sky, and behind it the sunlit countryside shimmered and faded, then sprang into view as the smoke clouds broke up before the wind, only to be obscured again as fresh clouds of smoke rolled up. Visiting the scene of the fire later in the same week, my friend says that what had been a smiling landscape of gorse and heather a few days before was now reduced to a charred waste that scowled blackly at the placid sky.

Finglas Fair

The announcement that a "fair" was to be held in Finglas reminded me, writes a correspondent, that there is an historical precedent for a gathering of this kind. One hundred years ago the May Fair at Finglas was just as popular as the more widely known attraction at Donnybrook. A large maypole which stood in the village formed the centre of the festivities. Prizes of various kinds were placed in turn on the top of the heavily-greased pole, and much amusement was aroused by the efforts of climbers who attempted to secure these awards. There were also dancing competitions, horse, foot and sack races, and many other sports, such as the pursuit and capture of soaped pigs. The notoriety eventually attained by both Donnybrook and Finglas Fairs, which led to their abandonment, was probably caused by cheap and plentiful supplies of alcoholic liquor. Whiskey and porter, of far greater potency than the comparatively mild beverages allowed to be retailed nowadays, could be had at a penny a glass, or a penny a pint, respectively. It was, therefore, no wonder that brawling and fighting became the order of the day, so that the peaceful inhabitants of these two districts must have been greatly relieved when the festivities declined in popular favour.

Thomas Moore's Birthplace

It is exactly one hundred years since Thomas Moore visited the city which he had left thirty-six years previously to seek fame and fortune in London. According to his Diary, one of Moore's first actions on arriving in Dublin was to drive in Mrs. Meara's car to No. 12 Aungier street, the house in which he was born, and which was still a grocer's shop, as it had been when his father was the proprietor. The poet was received at first with some suspicion, but as soon as the grocer realised who his guest really was, he conducted him through the house, a proceeding which, according to Moore, could not have been carried out "with more tact, sympathy and intelligent feeling." Afterwards Moore, who was accompanied by his friend Hume, was entertained by the grocer and his wife, who produced a decanter of port, in which mutual healths were drunk. The poet mentions that the grade of grocery in the old shop seemed to be much inferior to that maintained in his father's time, but he greatly enjoyed the visit, and recollections of his early life in Dublin were still crowding on him as he sat down to dinner, some hours later, with the Lord Lieutenant in the Viceregal Lodge.

A Highly Paid Poet

I suppose there are few writers, and probably no poets, nowadays who earn the sums which were paid to Thomas Moore. It is true that he spent his money as fast as he made it, so that it became necessary for Lord Melbourne to provide him with a literary pension of £300 a year in 1835. Moore's first outstanding success was the "Irish Melodies," for which he was paid a hundred guineas for each song in a series of one hundred and thirty, although the publication was spread over a period of twenty-five years. For his somewhat artificial poem, "Lalla Rookh," which shows the Byronic influence, he was paid £3,000 by Longmans. In addition to these sums he received during his career not less than £20,000 from the copyright of his various works. It has been the practice of posterity to belittle Moore as a poet, probably as a reaction to the extravagant praise which he received from his contemporaries. Perhaps, the homage paid to him was in a large measure due to his rare personal charm. Until he became mentally afflicted in 1849, Moore remained on intimate terms with the foremost literary and political figures of his time. At the age of 22 his remarkable social gifts caused him to become the fashion in the most exclusive salons in London, and the best tribute to the lovable character of this brilliant Irishman is to be found in the fact that during the next fifty years he hardly ever made an enemy and never lost a friend.

Street Cries

A friend of mine in Belfast tells me that many of the old cries, which were a feature of the streets at one time, are rapidly disappearing. Belfast has always been prolific in fish cries, but although the familiar cry "Ardglass herrings" is still to be heard, yet very few of the other fish cries have survived the march of progress. Such cries as: "Lough Neagh pollens, penny a dozen!" "Any cockles?" and "Any winkles?" which echoed through the streets of the city at one time, are no longer heard, although winkles were hawked at the Custom House steps until a few years ago. A number of Belfast street cries were identified with men who went about from district to district performing small services for cash. Two of these cries which are still remembered are: "Locks and keys to mend!" and "Any washtubs hooped!" The "scissors to grind" cry, although very infrequently heard now, is still in existence, and my friend tells me that the sweep continues to exercise his lungs to draw attention to his calling. The poems and ballads which were hawked and chanted about the streets of Belfast at one time are now remembered only by people with a span of life stretching back to the 'eighties and 'nineties. In this connection my friend informs me that the title of one of Mr. Joyce's early volumes of poems, "Pomes Penyeach," was one of the street cries under which ballads were sold in Upper North street, Belfast, about 1880.

Cycling Law

Are you correct (writes a correspondent) in stating that no rules exist in the Irish Free State regarding the position which cyclists must occupy on the road? During the strike I was cycling down the middle of an absolutely empty road when I was halted by a Civic Guard sergeant. "Don't you know," he asked, "that cyclists must stay close to the kerb?" I said that I was not aware of any law to that effect. He declared that there was such a law, and added, "What do you think they made the side of the road for?"

ALEXANDRA COLLEGE FETE

VERY LARGE ATTENDANCE

Old girls of Alexandra College, Dublin, friends and present-day pupils gathered in the college and gardens yesterday for the annual fête in aid of a fund which is devoted directly to old girls in the mission field. The Housecraft Department ran a stall of dishes of their own providing; the Residence Department sold sweets; the Secretarial department were in charge of a household stall; the music students arranged a series of delightful concerts; the gymnastic classes ran competitions and a lawn tennis tournament. The other classes also arranged stalls for fruit and vegetables, art goods, ices and refreshments generally.

Mrs. Preston, Principal, took the chair at the opening ceremony in the afternoon.

Mrs. Gwynn, wife of the Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, declared the fête open. In the course of a short speech she compared the conditions under which the girls of these islands live and those in Africa, India, China, and other countries in which the missionaries work.

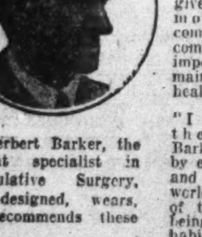
The pleasant grounds of the college, with their artistically laid-out flower-beds and walks, were crowded during the afternoon, and all the stalls were well patronised.

ST. PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL GRAMMAR SCHOOL

There was a big audience in the Town Hall, Rathmines, last night at the concert and dramatic entertainment organised in aid of the sports fund of the St. Patrick's Grammar School. It was a very enjoyable function, the singing of the Cathedral choristers in a number of part-songs being particularly refreshing. Dr. George P. Hewson, the conductor, has fine material at his command, and, judging by achievement last night, the splendid tradition of the school will be worthily upheld in the future.

After the concert there was a very humorous performance of Gerald MacNamara's "Thompson in Tir na nOg" by the past Choristers' Dramatic Society.

Sir Herbert Barker says:



Sir Herbert Barker, the eminent specialist in Manipulative Surgery, who designed, wears, and recommends these shoes.

"The shoes which have been designed by me, and which I always wear myself, give the wearer the most perfect foot comfort possible—a comfort which is an important factor in maintaining good health.

"I would like to see the 'Sir Herbert Barker Shoe' worn by every man, woman and child in the world, for the sake of the physical well-being of its inhabitants."

LECTURE ON VICTOR HUGO

MODERN LANGUAGE SOCIETY

Under the auspices of the Dublin University Modern Languages Society, Mr. Jean Bourrilly, Exchange Lecturer, from the Ecole Normale Supérieure of Paris, delivered a lecture in Trinity College, Dublin, yesterday, on "Victor Hugo," on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his death. The lecturer considered the last period of Hugo's work to be his greatest and most significant, and he discussed the importance of the three monumental works. "La Légende des Siècles," "Dieu," and "La Fin de Satan," which showed how great a visionary and how important a thinker Hugo was. It was true that these works, just as others, did contain arid patches; but the lecturer thought that the criticism made so often of Hugo that the word counted for too much was in this case not valid. Mr. Bourrilly pleaded that certain dull passages in Hugo's work should be overlooked; for they were easily counterbalanced by the greatness of many fine poems.

Hugo, as father of poetry of the 19th century, was also the apostle of liberty and of emancipated ideas, the help and support of the poor and the oppressed.

Mr. Bourrilly gave copious and apt quotations from the latter part of Hugo's work to prove his case and his main contentions. Among the large audience which attended the lecture were the Provost of T.C.D., Dr. W. F. Trench, Mr. Briére, and Mr. Chaulet, of the French Legation.

ABBEY THEATRE'S OFFER

PRIZES FOR IRISH AUTHORS

From Our Theatre Correspondent.

The directors of the Abbey Theatre have decided to hold another competition for plays confined to Irish authors. A prize of £50 is being offered, and only those will be eligible who have never had a full-length play produced in a public theatre before. The plays must be submitted under a nom-de-plume, and the adjudication will be carried out by independent judges. No limit has been laid down as to the number of scenes or acts, but competitors are advised that the approximate playing time should not be less than two hours. Particulars as to the competition can be obtained from the Secretary of the Abbey Theatre, and plays must be submitted before October 31st.

This will be the second play competition promoted by the Abbey Theatre. The prize-winners in the first, it will be remembered, were Mr. Paul Vincent Carroll, with "Things that are Cæsar's," and Miss Teresa Deevy, with "Temporal Powers"

AUTOMOBILE CLUB

THE NEW SECRETARY

Mr. Eric J. Mecredy, the newly-appointed secretary of the Royal Irish Automobile Club, has been a well-known personality in Irish motor racing and trials for many years.

As a member of the firm of Mecredy, Percy and Company, Dublin, he has been responsible for the management of the Irish Motor News since 1920, and has also done a great deal of journalistic work for that paper. Joining the R.I.A.C. in 1921, he has been a member of the committee for the past eight years. He also has served on the Road Touring Committee and other club committees.

The Viceroy and Lady Willingdon yesterday entertained over 2,500 guests at a garden party at Simla.

TRINITY COLLEGE NOTES

PROGRAMME FOR TRINITY WEEK

A NEW FELLOWSHIP

From Our Correspondent.

The programme for Trinity Week—June 10th-June 15th—was announced during the week. On Monday and Tuesday, June 10th and 11th, beginning at 12 noon, the D.U. Cricket Eleven will play Manchester University C.C., while on Monday night, at 7 o'c., the newly-formed D.U. Hurling Club will play a team from University College, Cork. The competition for the Captain's Prize of the D.U. Golf Club will be held on Tuesday, June 11th, at Dollymount, while the chief event of the week—the College Races—will take place, as usual, on Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 2.30 o'c. On Wednesday night the D.U. Choral Society will give its annual "Ladies' Concert" in the Examination Hall. The Tennis Championships will be held on Thursday, June 13th, the D.U. Swimming Gala being held that evening at 7.15 o'c., when the chief attraction will be a water polo match with St. John's College, Cambridge. On Friday and Saturday the D.U. Boat Club Regatta will be held at Island Bridge, while the Trinity Week Dance is fixed for Friday evening from 9.30 to 3 a.m. The T.C.D. Association dinner, in the Dining Hall, on Saturday night at 7.45 o'c., will be the concluding function of the week.

Only members of the Association are eligible to attend the dinner, and applications, with remittance (15s.), must reach the office of the Association not later than Tuesday, 11th June.

The Hon. Secretary of "Trinity Week" this year is Mr. G. B. Jackson, the well-known Rugby forward, while Mr. J. H. Sides is the Hon. Secretary of the Trinity Week Dance. The Trinity Week badges, now on sale, admit free to all athletic events, and give reduction in price of dance tickets.

The report of the T.C.D. Educational Endowment Fund, issued during the week, shows a disappointing lack of support from former graduates. Total donations received during the year amounted only to £141, and annual subscriptions to £250. The total funds have not yet reached the £10,000 level (amounting only to £9,780 at the end of the year), and it is sad to record that out of nearly 10,000 graduates only 600 have subscribed to the fund.

The committee state that the apathy shown by graduates is due rather to lack of knowledge of the urgency of the situation than to want of interest or loyalty to Trinity College. The fund, it will be recalled, was established to make some provision for urgent capital expenditure shortly to be incurred, and, in particular, the building of the new reading room. The appeal to graduates would not have been necessary if the British Government grant—of £30,000 annually—promised in 1920 had materialised.

C.H.S. Nominations

The nominations to office in the College Historical Society were announced during the week, and are as follow:—Auditor—Mr. D. G. Neill and Mr. C. A. Preston (Mod.), B.A. Treasurer—Mr. J. H. Douglas and Mr. J. A. Walmsley (Sch.). Record Secretary—Mr. J. R. C. Green (declared elected). Correspondence Secretary—Mr. H. T. Rooke and Mr. R. W. Crockett, B.A., M.B. Librarian—Mr. H. L. S. Jefferson, B.A (declared elected)

Mr. Neill is the present Treasurer, Mr. Preston the present Correspondence Secretary, and Mr. Douglas the Record Secretary. Sir Robert Tate, M.A., K.B.E., F., T.C.D., has been unanimously elected to Vice-Presidency of the Society.

The examination for the Fellowship in Physiology and allied subjects has now been held, and the Oral examination in the subject of the Thesis submitted by the candidates, as well as the Public Lecture, will take place shortly. The two candidates for the Fellowship are Dr. James Bell, M.A., M.B., Sc.D. (Lecturer in Biophysics), and Dr. R. A. Q. O'Meara, M.A., M.Sc., M.D., formerly Rockefeller Foundation Fellow in Public Health. The election to Fellowship will be announced on Trinity Monday, 17th June next.

The select preacher to the University tomorrow will be a distinguished English Churchman, the Rev. Canon J. S. Bezzant, B.D., Chancellor of Liverpool Cathedral. Canon Bezzant is a graduate of Pembroke College, Oxford, and has been Fellow, Chaplain, and Lecturer in Theology at Exeter College, Oxford, as well as Vice-Principal of Ripon Hall, Oxford. He has been select preacher to the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge on several occasions.

We regret to announce the retirement of the Regius Professor of Divinity, the Rev. Newport J. D. White, D.D. Dr. Newport White was one of the outstanding figures in the Church of Ireland, and had a brilliant record of scholarship. His retirement will be a loss to the Divinity School, the University and the Church.

Meetings and Debates

The following is the programme of meetings and debates for next week:—Monday night, 8 o'clock, G.M.B., College Theological Society: paper by Mr. J. A. McKay on "Et Incarnatus est"; Tuesday night, 8 o'clock, D.U. Experimental Science Association: papers by Miss A. E. Aykroyd on "The Chemistry of Dyeing," and by Mr. T. H. Boyd on "Vitamins"; Tuesday afternoon, 3.15 o'clock, D.U. Metaphysical Society: paper by Mr. E. A. Crawford on "Meaning"; Wednesday night, 8 o'clock, G.M.B., College Historical Society (Professor Edmund Curtis, Litt.D., in the chair): subject for debate, "That the execution of Charles I. was unjustifiable"; Thursday night, 8 o'clock, University Philosophical Society; Friday night, 8 o'clock, College Classical Society: paper by Mr. E. A. Thomson (Sch.) on "Persius." The Trinity Term general meeting of the D.U. Football Club will be held on Thursday, 6th June, at 5 o'clock in the Pavilion.

Students who intend to begin in October next their studies for the Higher Diploma of Education are asked to consult Professor Fynne at No. 5 Trinity College as soon as possible during the present Term. Notice of intention to enter for the intermediate and final LL.B. examination on June 18th and 19th next must be given to the Registrar of the School of Law on or before Monday, June 3rd next.

The post of Meteorological Observer will fall vacant at the end of June. Applications by candidates for the post must be made to Professor R. W. Ditchburn, M.A., F.,T.C.D., as soon as possible.

University colours—the Pinks—have been awarded to the following:—Boxing: Mr. J. R. Dick and Mr. P. J. Hennigan; Hockey: Mr. G. K. Donald and Mr. J. K. Craig; Rugby football: Mr. C. V. Boyle, Mr. C. A. Boyle, and Mr. J. H. Jewell.

The outstanding event of the past week in the athletic world was the Irish Inter-University Championship meeting, held in the College Park on Saturday last, when, after a lapse of eleven years the championship title was recaptured by the D.U. Harriers' and Athletic Club, thanks largely to the brilliant performances of Mr. R. H. Wallace (Portora Royal School), the captain. Mr. Wallace carried off the 120 yards, the hurdles and the quarter-mile, setting up a new inter-university record in the latter event. The half-mile, mile, long jump, shot and discus events were also won by Trinity College competitors.

The cricket eleven, after an easy victory over Queen's University, Belfast, defeated Merrion C.C on Saturday. Mr. J. R. Cope (Sandford Park School), who took eight wickets for 37 runs, and Mr. R. H. Martin (Campbell College), who made 61 runs, were mainly responsible for the victory.

Mr. D. M. McCracken, who won the Round-the-Houses Motor Race at Bray, is a member of the D.U. Motor Cycle Club.

N.S.P.C.A. SALE OF WORK AT DUN LAOGHAIRE

The annual sale in aid of the South County Dublin branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was held on Wednesday last at the Men's Christian Institute, Dun Laoghaire. The sale was organised by Mrs. E. Fenton, assisted by numerous friends interested in the cause. The financial result showed an increase on that of former years.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"DUBLIN IN DECAY"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—I have received a number of vituperative communications, needless to say anonymous, of which the following is a choice example:—"That is a very offensive phrase in your letter in the Irish Times of yesterday (Tuesday)—that Ireland has room for Protestants and other non-Catholics. You insinuate that Protestants are non-Catholics. You ought to read in the College Library what the late Dr. Salmon, Provost of T.C.D., had to say on the word 'non-Catholics,' which really means 'non-Christians.' As a graduate of the College of the Holy and Undivided Trinity near Dublin I must protest against such an insult, and unless it is withdrawn I will never allow any relation of mine to enter the College to be thus insulted by a Professor of that College." The letter is signed "A Protestant and Catholic and proud of it."

I am afraid this gentleman has entirely missed the point of my letter. Needless to say, I had no wish to insult anybody. I was protesting against the use by Lord ffrench of the expression "Catholic Ireland" to imply that Ireland was the exclusive property of the communion to which he belongs. Does the gentleman who wrote to me suppose that Lord ffrench by "Catholic" intended to include the members of the Church of Ireland or any Christians except those of the "Roman" communion? I used the word "non-Catholic" in the sense in which Lord ffrench would use it, in order to make my meaning perfectly clear. It is obvious from the nature of my protest that I did not share Lord ffrench's point of view, and that nothing was further from my intention than to insult any member of any communion, whether Protestant or "Roman" Catholic. I used words merely in their popular sense. I may add that my claim to equality of treatment as citizens of the Irish Free State in the fullest sense, not merely the legal sense, was made on behalf of non-Christians as well as all Christians—Jews, for example. But, at the same time, I do not mean to be drawn into any theological controversy, for which I have neither taste nor competence.

I should like to add a protest against Sir Valentine Grace's gratuitous misspelling of my happily plebeian name of Brown without an 'e.' However, seeing what his panacea for our troubles amounts to, I am glad he does not like me, and rather welcome the insult from him! I should like also to protest against Mr. Paul Henry's assumption that the arts are more important than decent living, sanitation, a good water supply, and so forth. I am not one of those who place the artist on a pedestal. I would like our country to be beautiful in the works of man as well as in the works of God (in the latter respect I know of none more beautiful), but, even more, I would like the people of our country to have healthy and sane and happy lives.—Yours, etc.,

T. B. Rudmose-Brown.

Trinity College, Dublin,
May 31st, 1935.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Mr. Paul Henry is impressed that the discussion he initiated on art to life in all its aspects has degenerated into a wrangle about religion and politics. The instinct of the herd has been sounder than the philosophy of the artist; for the correspondents touched instinctively on the true origins of all art and all literature.

Organised society does not arise from artists and literary men. Artists and literary men arise from organised society. Man does not frame an æsthetic of life first and create the society after: the society must be created first, and the artist is the spiritual embodiment and reflection of that society.

And so it has happened in every stage of the history of man—it might be a little city State of the old Greek world, a mediæval Italian city State, a great nation like France—the society existed first, then came the artists, writers, and last came the theorists and the application of art to social needs.

Since in Ireland we have no art—I speak, of course, in a perspective view of centuries—and since in Ireland we have not now, and have not had for hundreds and hundreds of years, a stable political society, it is futile to discuss an æsthetic of Irish life where no such thing as an Irish life—a composite, uniform, homogeneous society, an Irish nation—exists.

And a composite homogeneous Irish society does not exist, not because the Irish are Irish, but essentially and primarily because England believes a strong, uniform, stable Irish nation would threaten her existence as a great Power; because for that reason the racial culture has been aborted for the better part of one thousand years, and for like reason religious cultures were formed in the seventeenth century, and Ireland has been partitioned to-day into two religious cultures—the Catholic and the Presbyterian.

Rousseau long ago said that society must have a religion; that society can express itself as a corporate unity with but one voice, and Ireland is not a corporate unity, nor will it probably be united in our time.

There is no stability in the Irish Free State. It will never function. The Irish people will never admit that political authority in this country derives from England; that any portion of the Irish people derives blood and sustenance not from Ireland but from England. That being so, cultural development is impossible here.

And so this confusion and wrangle in the Dail is meaningless. It is shadow-fighting. Neither Griffith, nor Mr. Cosgrave, nor President de Valera partitioned Ireland. Each would assent to the fundamental proposition—that the political form under which Ireland, the Irish people, should be governed derives authority not from England, not from a fraction of the Irish people, but from the people whole and entire.

All our calamities to-day arise from something unparalleled in the history of this world—that the aristocracy and gentry of a race, the oldest and purest in Europe, a race which had unbroken titles of possession to this land for well over two thousand years, abandoned them, schemed and plotted for the dismemberment of their own country, their own motherland. I know of no greater betrayal in history.—Yours, etc.,

James Devane.

St. Stephen's Green, Dublin,
May 31st, 1935.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Maude H. Thornley is, doubtless, right in claiming that Ireland has many advantages over England as a place of residence; but I think she must have been peculiarly unfortunate in her encounters with British officials—Customs or otherwise. I have done a good deal of travelling in England during the past four years, and nothing in that country has impressed me so much as the invariable politeness, good humour, and kindly helpfulness of railwaymen, hotel people, and public servants and officials of every kind. And surely we cannot yet claim, in spite of great improvements in these matters, that our public medical services, or the general health of our people as reflected in the death rate, come up to English standards.

I fully recognise the handicaps under which this nation has laboured, and the last thing I wish to do is to "run down" my own people; but we shall never get anywhere if we refuse to face the facts, and the facts are not always complimentary to us.—Yours, etc.,

T. F. Harvey Jacob.

QUOTA ORDERS

MOTOR CARS AND BODIES

Four Orders, under the Control of Imports Act, 1934, were made by the Executive Council yesterday. Under these Orders the following quota periods and quotas were appointed:—

Control of Imports (Quota No. 1) Order, 1934 (outer covers of pneumatic tyres)—The period 1st July, 1935, to 30th September, 1935, has been appointed as the fourth quota period, and the quota has been fixed at 16,000 outer covers of pneumatic tyres.

Control of Imports (Quota No. 8) Order, 1934 (Motor Cars)—The period 1st July, 1935, to 31st December, 1935, has been appointed as the second quota period, and the quota has been fixed at 250 motor cars.

Control of Imports (Quota No. 9) Order, 1934 (Motor Chassis)—The period 1st July, 1935, to 31st December, 1935, has been appointed as the second quota period, and the quota has been fixed at 40 motor chassis.

Control of Imports (Quota No. 10) Order, 1934 (Motor Car Bodies)—The period 1st July, 1935, to 31st December, 1935, has been appointed as the second quota period, and the quota has been fixed at 300 motor car bodies or body shells.

ON THE WIRELESS

Daily Programme Review

TO-DAY

DUBLIN: Jimmy O'Dea and Harry O'Donovan in Variety, 8.30.

NORTHERN IRELAND: Irish Travel in Melody, 7.

B.B.C. NATIONAL: "Bitter Sweet" (Coward), with Evelyn Laye, 8.30 and 9.45.

WEST: Choral and Orchestral Concert, 8.30.

NORTH: Concert Version of Gounod's "Faust," 7.

ROME: Opera, "The Puritans" (Bellini), 8.55.

STRASBOURG: Verdun Commemoration Programmes, 8.45 and 10.

Lovers of rhythm and melody will appreciate the programme of marches, waltzes and other tunes specially arranged by the Dublin Banjo Club for their broadcast this evening from Athlone. The club, which is composed of local players, has been functioning since 1930, and is probably the only combination of its type in the Free State.

Jimmy O'Dea and Harry O'Donovan, the famous Dublin comedians, who, one does not hesitate to say, have made more people laugh in this country than any other pair, will broadcast to-night. In the main their partnership consists of Harry O'Donovan's humour, conveyed by Jimmy O'Dea's talent. In the programme to-night, however, both artistes will take part in an all too infrequent broadcast from the Dublin Station.

A group of first-class musicians will be heard in the programme entitled "Irish Travel in Melody," from Northern Ireland. The vocalists taking part are Adelaide Beatty (soprano), Dorothy Rogers (contralto), William Boyd (tenor), George Beggs and James McCafferty (baritones), while the instrumentalists are Tina Bonifacio (harp) and Gethyn Wykeham-George (violoncello). Ian Whyte is the guest conductor of the Belfast Wireless Orchestra for the concert, announced for 8.30.

Three composers will conduct their own compositions in the concert by the Bristol University Choir and Orchestra, which will be relayed from the Colston Hall, Bristol, in the Western programme at 8.30. Vaughan Williams will commence by conducting his "Hundredth Psalm," for chorus and orchestra, in which he introduces the Old Hundredth Psalm tune so effectively. Next "A Lyke-Wake Dirge" for double chorus will be performed under the direction of Arthur Warrell, the composer. Later in the programme Reginald Redman will conduct his setting of "Sheba's Captain," by Richard D'Auxonne. Leslie Bennett (baritone) will sing the solo parts in the folk song group.

HILVERSUM: Beethoven Festival Concert. Conductor, Mengelberg, 9.10.

Dublin, Athlone and Cork will relay to listeners half an hour of the choral recital from St. Colman's Cathedral, Cobh. The programme includes Gregorian and Palestrina choral works, Franck's "Ave Maria," "Ave Verum," by Tintel; some arrangements by Dr. S. Gebruers, and the final chorus from the oratorio, "St. Cecilia."

Popular arias from most of the better-known operas have been chosen to compile the programme from Northern Ireland, entitled "Popular Grand Opera." Winifred Kennard (soprano) and Harry Wendon (tenor) will be accompanied by the B.B.C. Northern Ireland Orchestra, Peter Montgomery conducting. Two Verdi duets are also included in the programme: Nile Scene ("Aïda") and Miserere Duet ("Il Trovatore").

Eva Turner, the English prima-donna, born in Lancashire, whose brilliant singing is known from Milan to Covent Garden—in fact, throughout Europe—will sing to-night with the B.B.C. Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Adrian Boult. She will be in London at the same time as the famous Italian conductor, Toscanninni, who, after hearing her sing, engaged her for the coming season at La Scala, Milan. Toscanninni will conduct the London Music Festival Concert.

Segovia, the great master of the guitar, will give a short recital at 9.20 in the Regional programme, and at 5.30 (National) the Spencer Dyke String Quartet, with Edwin Benbow (pianoforte) will be heard in a concert of chamber music.

BOOKS OF THE WEEK

The Builder of Kenya

A Chapter of African History

White Man's Country: Lord Delamere and the Making of Kenya. By Elspeth Huxley. London: Macmillan. Two vols. 25/- net.

KENYA, a land of varied beauty, healthy air and natural riches, is a colony which was conceived and nursed by Lord Delamere, a man of intensely dynamic character. Whether this much debated highland country on the equator will prove a white man's country after all, history will show. Meanwhile, its story is stirring, like that of South Africa under Rhodes.

Delamere was a Cholmondeley of Cheshire. He was an unsatisfactory scholar at Eton. When there, he once wrecked a bootshop in Windsor, and threw the wares all over the street. In Kenya, as a peer and a proconsul, he "retained a schoolboy delight in destruction. He liked to see things broken up." In Nairobi, when street lighting was new, he went out rickshaw riding after dinner, shot out the street lights with his revolver, "and finished up the evening by despatching the lights just outside the provincial Commissioner's house." Tales like this do not give us confidence that Delamere was in the right in his frequent brushes with authority in London. When he protested against the punishment of a white man who had shot dead a thieving native, his objections would have carrier greater force if he had been of a graver temperament.

Kenya for the Jews

He protested strongly against the proposal, in 1903, to settle the Jews of the diaspora in Kenya. He made a good case, yet we cannot feel that he was wholly in the right. In like manner, he clashed with the Indians. He was a splendid organiser. Enormous sums were invested in his enterprises—his great wheat farms and ranches—but he made a success of all honourably. He did not grow rich by his public services, but sank much of his riches in them. When the War came, he acted a daring part against the Germans. The natives were unfriendly, but he went fearlessly through what he had to do, and was largely responsible for the British triumph.

The controversies over forced labour in Kenya, and the subsequent taking of their reserves from the natives when the land was found to be rich in minerals, are fresh in the public mind. Delamere's side is given temperately in these pages. In 1928 his health broke, and he retired in the following year, yet not completely. He could not rest. Even in the depression he fought on, and time has justified many of his counsels. When he lay dying in 1932 his active mind was at work on the action of drugs on the human system. He was of the metal of the old Empire-builders, but came late into the world.

Woman on the Mountains

Climbing Days. By Dorothy Pilley (Mrs. I. A. Richards). London: Bell. 16/- net.

IT is a difficult task to find a sport that has not been exploited, often with considerable success, by the fair sex. Whoever doubts the ability of woman to compete successfully with man in the strenuous sport of mountaineering will have his doubts dispelled after reading the first few pages of this book. Beginning with her initiation in North Wales, where Mrs. Richards records her "emergence from the larval state—from the degree of walker to that of climber," she describes in turn her mountaineering experiences in the modern sense of the word, in various parts of Europe, Asia and America at different seasons of the year and in all weathers.

There is a freshness about Mrs. Richards's style and her enthusiastic accounts of her many strenuous and dangerous rock and mountain climbs which makes fine reading. The question arises: Why do people take a delight in hanging from clefts in the vertical faces of rocks by their finger-tips, or finger-nails, and the assistance of their boot-nails, with the possibility of the immediate objective being a "landing-place the size of a dinner-plate, with one hand-hold"? This book hardly provides the solution, but it is a record of adventure calling for the highest degree of coolness and judgment under some of the most difficult conditions that will appeal to all classes of readers. A number of excellent photographs of famous peaks and climbs add to its attraction.

Crime in Cold Blood

A Book of Murders

Continental Crimes. By E. L. von Sonnenberg and O. Trettin. London: Bles. 10/6 net.

AMATEUR criminologists are single-minded folk. Their interest in sensational cases, if not always purely scientific, has at least a certain scientific detachment. The writer of the account of this book which appears on the dust-cover probably knew his public when he explained that "unfortunately" the supply of crimes available for the British reader is unequal to the demand, and hence this new supply of horrors from Germany. To the slightly more squeamish reader the adverb is an odd one.

The book, however, is not without value, if only for the light which it sheds upon the differences between British and Continental crimes of violence and methods of detection and punishment. The great majority of these cases are not crimes of passion, but crimes committed in cold blood for gain. Such is the case of Coppius, who killed an old man and his wife as a preliminary to the murder of a postman who was carrying registered letters. Coppius afterwards confessed to thirty murders of this kind. Monetary gain was the end also of the detestable "Aunt Marie," whose practice it was to marry men with property, and kill them when the occasion arose. With Trenkler, the locksmith, the murder of a jeweller and his wife and daughter were only incidental to his thefts from the shop.

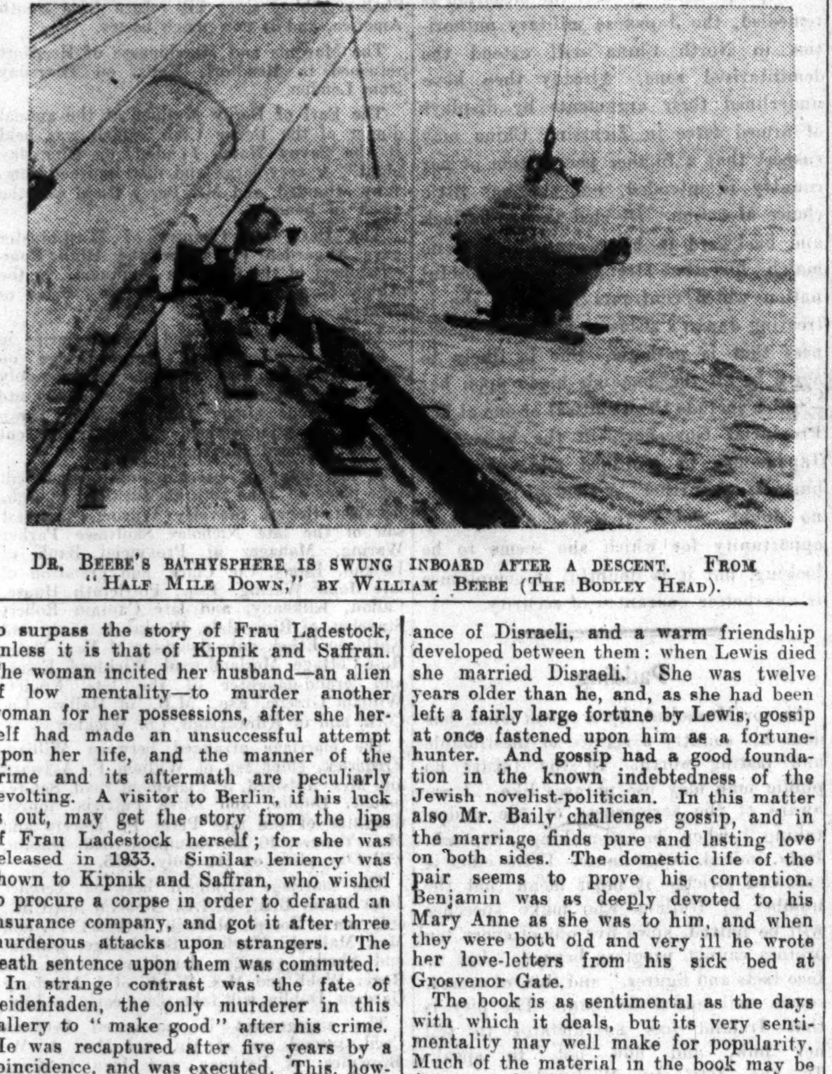
The Hennig Case

From the lengthy list of crimes of this kind a few stand out by reason of some unusual features or of excessive gruesomeness. There is the Hennig case of 1905, in which the murderer was actually arrested but allowed to escape. So safe did he feel that he wrote several letters to a newspaper offering a full account of his crimes in return for a sum of money which was to be sent to him. Even these clues did not lead to the re-arrest of Hennig, who eventually was taken into custody as a bicycle thief. The Bebenroth case is of interest as being the first real test of the police dogs which are now widely used in Germany.

Seidenfaden

For sheer atrocity there is nothing here to surpass the story of Frau Ladestock, unless it is that of Kipnik and Saffran. The woman incited her husband—an alien of low mentality—to murder another woman for her possessions, after she herself had made an unsuccessful attempt upon her life, and the manner of the crime and its aftermath are peculiarly revolting. A visitor to Berlin, if his luck is out, may get the story from the lips of Frau Ladestock herself; for she was released in 1933. Similar leniency was shown to Kipnik and Saffran, who wished to procure a corpse in order to defraud an insurance company, and got it after three murderous attacks upon strangers. The death sentence upon them was commuted.

In strange contrast was the fate of Seidenfaden, the only murderer in this gallery to "make good" after his crime. He was recaptured after five years by a coincidence, and was executed. This, however, was a hundred years ago. It appears that German justice has reacted too far from the harshness of those days, so that—at least, until a few years ago—a brutal murderer might quite easily escape execution and be thrust upon society again after a comparatively brief imprisonment.



DR. BEEBE'S BATHYSPHERE IS SWUNG INBOARD AFTER A DESCENT. FROM "HALF MILE DOWN," BY WILLIAM BEEBE (THE BODLEY HEAD).

Galway

By PADRAIC FALLON

In time to come, maybe, when this wild heart has lost its song and sits and pecks the fleas out of its wings, I may go down to that arched, dim seahazy town where women in the high-creeled cart with Connemara men come into mart and drink in taverns on the dream-heavy quays.
At the end, yes: this dizzy blind bird, broken at last may find ease where that grey town as a stone image sits with the setting holy west like an old burning lamp of Spanish gold turning the dreams in its eyes to doubloon bits.

It sits on the salmonwaters in dreaming old age;
its dim courts loud with cold weirs that carry down the song of the pale country. There, any common girl that takes the air
along the Claddagh's minted in its image, and might be a queen on pilgrimage sea-raiding from a walled Moroccan town.

And there all day, there when the night like a dark Claddagh girl with the bright seastar singing in her hair walked in a Galway shawl with small stars splashing from her pitcher, I, a boy, sang that I might not cry for the beauty that I felt wandering over all.

I will go again that the bitter man who's made the circle of pain may mix with the half-divine tangent of the schoolboy who thought all earth and heaven his toy.
I will go and laugh at that boy, whose head was turned by dreams, when the dream-ghosts are laid and there's nothing left but to peck in my wings and dine.
Not yet, not yet: while the heart's young enough to turn its pain to song
God will not turn me free in that old town, but hold me, as I have been,
a blinded goldfinch for his dark queen
—this savage life—to perch and sing upon her crown.

New Light on Lady Beaconsfield

Lady Beaconsfield and Her Times. By F. E. Baily. London: Hutchinson. 18/- net.

SO many anecdotes are recounted about Lady Beaconsfield that she is usually regarded as a rather shallow-brained creature who was an unconscious humorist. Everyone has heard of her shattering conclusion to a drawing-room discussion on male beauty: "Oh, but you ought to see my Dizzy in his bath"! and it is usually said that such remarks were merely the chatterings of a genial fool. The author of this very readable book will not have it so: Mr. Baily is of the opinion that her remarks were consciously humorous, and that they were misunderstood by the primly conventional acquaintances to whom they were made.

The daughter of a naval officer, Mary Anne Evans first married a wealthy gentleman named Wyndham Lewis. Happily married, she made the acquaintance of Disraeli, and a warm friendship developed between them: when Lewis died she married Disraeli. She was twelve years older than he, and, as she had been left a fairly large fortune by Lewis, gossip at once fastened upon him as a fortune-hunter. And gossip had a good foundation in the known indebtedness of the Jewish novelist-politician. In this matter also Mr. Baily challenges gossip, and in the marriage finds pure and lasting love on both sides. The domestic life of the pair seems to prove his contention. Benjamin was as deeply devoted to his Mary Anne as she was to him, and when they were both old and very ill he wrote her love-letters from his sick bed at Grosvenor Gate.

The book is as sentimental as the days with which it deals, but its very sentimentality may well make for popularity. Much of the material in the book may be interpreted differently by the changed standards of this day; but for older and middle-aged ladies of the circulating libraries Mr. Baily has written an ideal biography. There is little of Beaconsfield the astute politician, but there is a lot of the Disraeli who sent primroses to his Queen.

WATERS OF THE GREAT DEEP

THE DARKNESS OF THREE THOUSAND FEET

FISHES THAT GLEAM WITH LIGHTS

TOWARDS the end of the spring and autumn publishing seasons, as I have observed before, a great weariness descends on the reviewer. At such times he yearns to throw away every novel, even the most fantastic; biography mislikes him; history is intolerable. In a word, much reading has become to him a weariness of the flesh, and, if he is wise, he looks for a holiday in some place where the supply of books is severely limited, and there are lots and lots of amusing things to keep him from opening even what sparse literature there is. Very rarely, however, at these seasons of the year, a book swims into his ken that opens up a new and unexplored world, and gives him all the freshness of a new experience. Such a book, I make bold to say, is Dr. William Beebe's "Half Mile Down," which is by far the most exciting discovery that I have made among books for many a moon past.

Scholar and Stylist

Dr. Beebe is Director of the Department of Tropical Research of the New York Zoological Society, and an icthyologist of the first water (happy phrase!) He is also, like so many other great naturalists—Darwin and Wallace among them—a stylist and a man of feeling. Finally, for all his efforts to decry the obvious fact, he is a very brave man. Would another than a brave man have dared to descend in a steel sphere more than three thousand feet below the surface of the sea in order to study the strange and previously unknown creatures that exist in those appalling depths? Anyhow, Dr. Beebe, with a companion, Mr. Barton, has descended to that level once, and regards a descent of anything less as child's play. In all, he has gone down sixteen times in his "bathysphere" to various depths between a mere 250 feet and half a mile. As a glance at the cover of Dr. Beebe's book shows, men have been known to descend in a diving helmet to 60 feet, in a diving suit to 306 feet, in a submarine to 383 feet, and in an armoured suit (specially built to withstand pressure) to 525 feet. In his bathysphere, therefore, Dr. Beebe has descended to a level nearly six times deeper than has been reached by another living man.

7,000 Tons of Water

Try to imagine the pressure at those depths. The author points out himself that the pressure figures, like those of astronomical distances, convey nothing to the mind; but for anyone who may like them the number of pounds' pressure on every square inch of the sphere at 3,028 feet was 1,360.3, and the pressure on the whole sphere amounted to just over 7,000 tons. If a drop of water had squeezed its way in, it would have gone through the adventurers with the force of a steel bullet. Fortunately, it never did; for otherwise a book which, I cannot doubt, will take rank among the world's great records of scientific achievement would have been lost.

The Fish of the Sea

Dr. Beebe, of course, has written other books, wherein are contained the records of the strange fish that he saw in the deeps of the sea, and the conclusions that he reached. "Half-Mile Down" tells a great deal about those fish, and shows them in a multitude of admirable pictures; but, generally speaking, it is a record of the great adventure itself. So I read about the bathysphere, with its quartz windows three inches thick, through which the inmates could direct a powerful electric beam as often as they wished to study the creatures that approached, glowing with bands and points of light, through the eternal blackness of three thousand feet below. For blackness it is at that depth. As the bathysphere descends, the sea-colour investing it changes gradually from green to light blue, then to darker and darker blues, until at two thousand feet or so all trace of light has vanished, and the blackness reigns absolute. But all this is told by Dr. Beebe in language that I never can hope to command, language that combines the precision of a scientist with the colour-sense of an artist and the restrained wonder of a man who has looked upon sights that nobody else has seen.

Pioneers

If only as a tonic, I should recommend all my readers to obtain this book by purchase (the Bodley Head publishes it at 18s., which is cheap), borrowing or theft; of which means a combination of the last two has been responsible for the disappearance of many of my best books, and, doubtless, will be responsible for the disappearance of my copy of Dr. Beebe's in the very near future. And, having obtained it, read it, study the many pictures, photographs, cartoons and diagrams, and ponder that there are many things yet to be discovered in this world of ours, and that a year's issue of novels does not matter in comparison with one book of real discovery.

The Irish Theatre

"Storm Song" and "A Bride for the Unicorn." By Denis Johnston. London: Cape. 6/- net.

More Plays. By Lennox Robinson. London: Macmillan. 5/- net.

MR. DENIS JOHNSTON is the most important new force in Irish drama since Mr. Sean O'Casey, but his two latest plays are a little disappointing. The more important of the two is "A Bride for the Unicorn," a satiric fantasy, whose style reminds one of "The Old Lady Says 'No,'" and whose construction is even more daring. It has been re-written since it was first produced at the Gate Theatre, but the alterations, while they make the plot a good deal easier to grasp, do not take away the impression that the author has attempted to cover too much ground. All the major follies of life—those of war, finance, politics, the law and marriage—cannot be treated together in a single play with much hope of success, and this modern quest for the Golden Fleece explores so many by-ways that it tends to lose itself.

"Storm Song" contrasts in the strongest possible manner with the intricacies of "A Bride for the Unicorn." It is a perfectly straightforward drama, with few subtleties either of thought or expression, and its subject was evidently suggested by the making of the film "Man of Aran." Mr. Johnston has provided an interesting study of the producer, Szilard, and the minor characters are drawn with skill.

Meanwhile, Mr. Lennox Robinson continues to write in the clear and polished style which he has always followed. "All's Over, Then?" must be set down as one of his occasional failures—the story is rather too highly coloured to be convincing, and Eleanore, in particular, strikes one as an unreal character—but "Church Street" is much better. It is really a play which encloses several other plays within it, and the little dramatic sketches are very well done.

DR. BEEBE LOOKS OUT THROUGH THE QUARTZ WINDOW OF HIS BATHYSPHERE. FROM "HALF MILE DOWN," BY WILLIAM BEEBE (THE BODLEY HEAD).

Romance in the Ring

Some Great Showmen of the Circus

Wagon Wheels: The Romance of the Circus. By William G. Bosworth. With a Foreword by Bertram W. Mills. London: Heath Cranton. 7/6 net.

THE circus seems to be experiencing a revival among our neighbours in Great Britain. There is something fitting in the fact, because, as Mr. Bosworth reminds us, the circus of the modern world had its origin in England, owed much of its development to Englishmen, and has nothing to do with its Roman namesake. In Ireland of late years, unfortunately, little of the circus has been seen, except in the cities, and there only on the stage, and not in the strange world of tents and wagons.

Like the films, and unlike the drama, the circus is altogether a thing of amusement. It makes no claim to be educative or elevating. It is elemental and simple, and its appeal, again like the films, is to child and adult. But who that has seen a real circus, even of the smaller touring dimension, can fail to be thrilled by the memory of what he saw in ring and big toys?

Lord George Sanger

Mr. Bosworth has written a book which will recall to circus patrons vivid pictures of many favourites and will reveal to the less fortunate glories that neither theatre nor picture-house can bring them. He traces the history of the circus from Astley and his amphitheatre, through "Lord" George Sanger, Bostock, Barnum and their peers, to Captain Mills, Olympia, Manchester's Belle Vue and Blackpool's Tower. On his way he speaks with affection and understanding of the beasts, the horses, the tricks, the turns, the artists and all the paraphernalia that go to make the show between sawdust and canvas. And his clowns are real and great, from Whimsical Walker and Grock and their predecessors to Doodles and Pimpo, still delighting enthusiastic audiences.

Royalty itself was pleased to honour the showmen, as when a great Queen went to see Sanger. "Even the august Victoria had a little twinkle in her eye when, in the courtyard at Windsor, she beckoned him to her carriage and quizzically said: 'Lord George Sanger, I believe?'"

Communism Among the Poets

The Destructive Element. By Stephen Spender. London: Cape. 7/6 net.

MR. STEPHEN SPENDER is one of the best of the younger English poets, and, if poets are not always good critics, their views on literature, and particularly on contemporary literature, are nearly always stimulating and interesting. Mr. Spender is particularly stimulating because his arguments are so controversial. He is himself profoundly concerned with socialistic and communistic beliefs, and concerns himself with the tracing of similar tendencies in the works of his most admired contemporaries and immediate predecessors. He discusses at length the novels of Henry James, in whom he finds the apostle and originator of the new creed. He traces this indictment of society in the works, too, of T. S. Eliot, W. B. Yeats, D. H. Lawrence and James Joyce, and examines their social creed.

One is conscious throughout that his arguments and deductions are not always sound, and one is aware that the precise logic of T. S. Eliot could easily confound him. Yet readers will find themselves stirred by his eloquence, and forced to think very clearly and well if they wish to argue against him. His criticism of the works of these writers is one-sided and often lacking in sympathy, and he is more successful when dealing with younger writers, such as Auden and Owens, with whom he has more immediate kinship. He is widely, if not always deeply, read, and has certainly given thoughtful readers a strikingly new point of view.

"Men of Another World

I Saw for Myself. By John Brown. London: Selwyn and Blount. 10/6 net.

AFTER the ravings of many other writers on Germany and Russia, Mr. John Brown's restrained book is a relief, and, one feels, has real value for students of Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia.

In both countries he found that it was the younger generation who were the most enthusiastic supporters of the cause. "The old men gazed stolidly, unsmilingly—and seemed somehow to be of another world—remote and sad": the phrase might apply either to a German or Russian of advanced years. To the women of Germany Herr Hitler apparently is regarded as divinely inspired—he can do no wrong. Many thousands of the men, to whom the Führer's promise of employment has not been fulfilled, are not so convinced. Some say he is financed by capitalists, who would rather have anything than the Hammer and Sickle; others tell strange tales of his abnormality.

John Brown also spent some time in the Saar, during the plebiscite. Here graft was practised on a large scale, and the Storm Trooper's baton was wielded with distressing frequency. In Russia the author entered many factories unknown to the authorities, and there he found evidence of armament schemes upon a vast scale. The Russians, however, much prefer talking to working, and but for the presence of O.G.P.U. officials nothing apparently ever would be done. John Brown comments upon "the universal drabness of clothes," the sparsity of traffic in Moscow, the capital city, and upon the general atmosphere of "greyness, ugliness and dirt."

The Soviet, however, is not all squalor and misery. At the top, where "breath of vision and the dimensions of experiments rightly disarm criticism," there are men of real ability; but "a vigorous and enlightened Propaganda Commissar could work a great improvement in the present situation—but he has not yet arrived."

New Novels

Saint Eustace and the Albatross. By Desmond Ryan. Barker. 7/6 net.

Step-husband. By Vahdah Bordeux. Hurst and Blackett. 7/6 net.

IS Mr. Desmond Ryan forgetting to "remember Sion?" Or is it that his publisher has suggested a temporary desertion of the delectable city? Whatever be the reason, he has forgotten Sion in this new book. No, not quite: for are there not the fantastic stories of the Black-and-Tan and the Sinn Feiner included to make the author and the reader both remember? But they are but two of the vivid tales included in this breathless succession of tales related in the Saloon Bar of the Albatross.

The Albatross is a London tavern in which certain select souls are wont to foregather and regale one another with wit and wisdom, anecdote and tale, quotation and its capping. They are suddenly plunged into a situation as fantastic as anything ever imagined by Edgar Wallace; and the last hectic days of the "pub" will be found as thrilling as any recognised "thriller" that ever lengthened the day by "stealing a bit out of the night." The Links brothers, the Sleuth of Sleuths, the Demure Lady, the Old Owl and his Fair Owlet, the catch-penny Glawp, Amaryllis and Tom Pepperpipe, the Black-and-Tan and the Sinn Feiner, the Sable Croakers and Ironsides, and the great Eustace himself constitute a galaxy which will carry with it all the interest that the reader is capable of yielding. The whole series hurries to a climax that is unique in contemporary literature. While, on the whole, Mr. Ryan is at his best when remembering Sion by the waters of Babylon, this book will, undoubtedly, commend him to a wider circle of readers.

Truth may be stranger than fiction, but Mrs. Vahdah Bordeux is determined to make her fiction as strange as she possibly can. The characters in her novel are an old and impoverished Italian prince, a very unaristocratic, but wealthy, American widow; the widow's only son, and the daughter of Prince Borgatti. By a series of accidents the American widow learns that Prince Borgatti is willing to sell his name for twelve million dollars. He is prepared to contract a marriage in name only, and by proxy, with any woman who will advance that sum. Mrs. Miller thinks the title of Princess cheap at the price, and enters upon negotiations which are successfully carried out in the long run. The various relationships of the contracting parties become very involved on account of the children and the proxy, but Mrs. Bordeux sorts them out successfully, and contrives some amusing complications.

Mundos. By Stella Benson. Macmillan. 7/6 net.

Who Feeds the Tiger? By Eve St. John Loë. Nicholson and Watson. 7/6 net.

WE sympathise with Miss Stella Benson's objection to the publication of unfinished works after an author's death. Although it is possible to get considerable enjoyment from reading her incomplete "Mundos," it is hard to understand why her executors have disregarded her expressed wishes. "Mundos" is a satirical novel on British rule abroad, and the scene is an island in a remote part of the Atlantic, peopled by a native tribe. Government House is held up to ridicule, and the Governor's lack of imagination and insight in dealing with the natives suggests plenty of humorous incidents which have been cleverly handled by Miss Benson's incisive and caustic pen. The sensational figure in the book is, however, neither the Governor nor any of his followers, but his hideous and mis-shapen son. Francis is a sort of Caliban, and is intended half-humorously to drive home the point of Miss Benson's satire. But his story is only half told; for only thirteen chapters were written, and there were to be five more.

Mrs. Eve St. John Loë's new novel suggests one of those problems in etiquette which are popular in some weeklies. The wealthy Mrs. A comes to live in Mrs. B's town. At a reception given by Mrs. A, Mrs. B observes a portrait of the late Mr. A., and recognises it as that of her own husband, who deserted her over thirty years before. The problem is not so much what Mrs. B should do, as how to tell the story so that Mrs. A and her charming son do not have to hand over their millions to Mrs. B, who is very obnoxious indeed, but has a charming niece loved by Mr. A, junior. It is not at all easy to solve the puzzle, as Mr. A died intestate, and there is ample evidence to suggest that the late Mr. A was indeed also the late Mr. B. It says much for Mrs. St. John Loë's ingenuity that she finds a solution with which not one of the parties can find fault, and that no slur whatever is attached to the memory of the deceased gentleman.

Saturday Island. By Hugh Brooke. Heinemann. 7/6 net.

PERHAPS it is that we have forgotten the delights of "Robinson Crusoe," of "Treasure Island," and, more mildly, of "The Blue Lagoon," and that Mr. Hugh Brooke benefits by our failing memory; or, perhaps, books of this nature have a charm which is all their own.

For some reason or other the reviewer enjoyed immensely Mr. Brooke's very unpretentious tale of Aggie Spottiswood, late barmaid, and Michael Drummond-Steuart, future peer, who were shipwrecked on a desert island of the West Indies. Michael is 13 years old, and he is a "100 per cent." schoolboy. For him, if for nothing else, one could read this book again, and Aggie is a grand person with whom to be shipwrecked. Their adventures and their method of life are described with skill and humour. Although "Saturday Island" is a novel, not a story-book, it would be pleasant to try it out on some child and note his reactions.

"IS IRELAND TEUTONIC?"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I thank your reviewer for his very appreciative notice of the above-named book. But may I say that there is no Ogham inscription on the Kilnasaggart Stone? The marks that have been taken as such have no literary significance—they have been produced by the stone-cutter, who fashioned the crosses and other devices, sharpening his tools. It was a happy-go-lucky practice, but in fact such disfiguring marks are not uncommon on ancient sculptured stones.

The ethnological suggestions on which your reviewer comments are not specially new. When I was a boy I heard an eminent anthropologist making the prophecy that it would be found that England is a Celtic country speaking a Teutonic language, and Ireland is a Teutonic country speaking a Celtic language. Naturally the whole truth cannot be packed into an epigram like that, but the further research advances, the more does it appear that it contains a great deal of the truth.

As to the finger-sign origin of the Ogham alphabet, I thought that was a commonplace of knowledge: I have been familiar with it for forty years. The original reason for the invention was, of course, secrecy. Two initiates—take the bull by the horns and call them "druids"—could thus communicate their secrets: they could even contradict privately what they were saying publicly by word of mouth: and the profanum vulgus, standing by, would not have the least idea of what was going on.—Yours, etc.,

R. A. S. MACALISTER.

University College, Dublin.

"REBEL IRISHWOMEN"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—What is to be said of an author who, like Mr. R. M. Fox in his last letter, declares that "adulation" is the same thing as appreciation?

I am not at all flattered when he says that he does not want to discuss my criticism of his book, but to point out—erroneously, in point of fact—that I was more lenient on those parts of his book which refer to activities outside of Ireland than on those on activities inside, because they related to home activities. But it was his book, and not anybody's activities, inside or outside Ireland, that I was reviewing. It was not my business in a review to judge his subjects' activities, but to judge his work on them.

Even now Mr. Fox does not attempt to explain what he calls a Labour-Republican angle. It is no explanation to assert that "James Connolly's great contribution lies in formulating an approach which is both Labour and Republican." James Connolly was a Socialist, and in his writings states explicitly that he was a Republican because he was a Socialist. I misread him if I take it that he would describe himself as having a "Labour-Republican angle." His clarity of thought and expression would scarcely have permitted him to do that.

I cannot admit that I have any "crabbed contempt for youth," and in every period I would let youth have its fling. But I do think that an author who writes on living and dead personalities who have played parts in the Irish drama of the last quarter of a century should have more respect for his readers' intelligence than Mr. Fox seems to have.—Yours, etc.

FINANCIAL

London Stock markets were harder, and the tone was steady. Several strong Industrial features developed.—(Page 14.)

The Treasury bill rate was unchanged at 10s. 5d. per cent. There was a keen demand for £727,000 of gold at 142s. per ounce. The Bank of England was a buyer. The franc remained fairly steady. (Page 14.)

Dublin Stock market was quiet. Great Northern Ordinary Stock rose sharply.—(Page 14.)

The French Crisis

As we write, M. Bouisson is struggling with the formation of a new French Cabinet. Trouble has followed upon the heels of trouble during the last few days, and a general condition of unrest and uncertainty prevails which must add substantially to the new Premier's difficulties. The first sounds of the storm were heard some weeks ago, when France was confronted with one of those financial crises which have become regular episodes of her recent history. For some reason—which the authorities ascribed to the action of foreign speculators—a run began on the banks, and gold was removed by everybody who had the money to pay for it. It was the old, vicious circle; uncertainty about the future of the franc created the run, and the run, in its turn, created further uncertainty. In the course of this week the Government was involved. M. Flandin, Premier until yesterday, followed the example of many of his predecessors, and asked the Chamber for special powers to deal with the emergency. He received his first check from the Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies, which rejected his demand. Undaunted, he approached the Chamber itself, seeking powers which would cover "all measures that may be taken to bring about the reform of public finances, the revival of economic activity, the defence of public credit, and the maintenance of the currency." The Chamber was even less sympathetic than its Committee; by a majority of 151 votes, which included the Radical-Socialist Party, it refused the granting of special powers, and hurled M. Flandin's Government out of office. With less trouble than usual President Lebrun has found somebody who is willing to accept the responsibility of forming a new Cabinet. The burning question, however, is whether M. Bouisson will experience any less trouble than usual in keeping his Cabinet in office.

The signs are that M. Bouisson will possess support which was withdrawn at the last moment from M. Flandin. His object is to form a Government "of the widest union," and yesterday, somewhat surprisingly, the Radicals pledged him their backing. Exactly why they turned against M. Flandin—in defiance of their own leader, M. Herriot—and are willing now to assist M. Bouisson, it is difficult to understand; for the new Premier is said to have committed himself to the same programme as his predecessor's, and proposes to ask the Chamber for the very powers which were refused to M. Flandin. Nobody can foretell what will happen if they are refused again. In all probability the alternative will be the devaluation of the franc, and a calamity which is regarded with almost superstitious awe throughout France, and will throw the world's money markets into wild confusion, will befall. M. Bouisson knows, as well as every French statesman, that the trouble of the last few weeks is not due to the activities of foreign speculators. They merely seized their opportunity; and the opportunity was created by the general state of unrest that arises from the instability of France's finances. For years past the Republic has failed to balance its Budget, and every year the deficit has swollen, until six months ago it amounted to, roughly, £80,000,000. Even that large sum does not represent the full extent of France's internal indebtedness to-day; for revenue in the meanwhile has fallen substantially short of the estimates, and there is also a considerable deficit on the State railways. In all, M. Bouisson, or whoever else shoulders the task of government, will be compelled to bridge a gap of something like £120,000,000 between revenue and expenditure in the present year. Is it surprising that people have their doubts concerning the franc's future?

There is, of course, only one sound way by which the national finances may be restored, and that is by retrenchment. The cost of government in France at present is fantastically high; her fonctionnaire, or State servant, class is not only overpaid, but full of parasites; and every effort to produce economy is met by fierce resistance. Government after Government has submitted schemes for drastic retrenchment in salaries and working expenses, and every Government has fallen on this issue. The powerful Socialist parties have set their faces resolutely against all attempts to reduce salaries, urging, whenever the question arises, that France can achieve much the same result by the "axing" of her armaments. Everybody must hope that M. Bouisson will succeed where his predecessors have failed. He has a strong Cabinet—not, perhaps, "of the widest union," but representative of all parties except the extreme Left—and it remains to be seen how the Chamber will accept his demand for plenary powers when he presents it on Monday. If he is rebuffed, anything may happen. There is grave doubt whether another statesman could be found to assume a burden which has been found intolerable so often, and the Chamber may be terrified into submission by the fear of a devalued franc. Belgium's recent flight from gold has made the fear more real. A devaluation of the franc would mean widespread disorder throughout France, and the world's markets would take a long time to recover from the shock. The Chamber of Deputies must make its choice with speed—the choice between party advantage and a financial crisis that will recall the full discomforts of 1926. Even devaluation would not be an adequate remedy. The vital necessity is that France shall find a means to balance her Budget, and thereby to restore the confidence of her people.

Japan and China

China never was willing to concede even an inch of her territory to Japan, but the latter country, having taken an ell, seems quite prepared to make further additions to it. From whatever angle one looks at the appropriation of Manchuria, it is hard to defend. China was induced to part with a large amount of land by brute force, and the establishment of the "independent" State of Manchukuo was only a mask for the real purpose of the invasion—the strengthening of Japan's position on the continent of Asia, and a useful addition to her Empire. Will Japan be content with what she has grasped already? When the Chinese finally were driven from Manchuria the invaders asserted that they would on no account go beyond the Great Wall, but the events of the last few days are likely to cast some doubts on the value of their promise. It would appear, indeed, that Japan has her eyes on the demilitarised areas south of the Wall—which were placed under her "protection" after the Manchurian conquest—and threatens to extend them along the boundary of Manchukuo, so as to include the whole area north of the Yellow River. This would mean that all the country, including the Chinese city of Tientsin, and Peking itself, would be brought under a certain measure of Japanese control. The reasons for this threat are stated to be China's anti-Japanese activities in the neutral zone. It is alleged that she has encouraged malcontents in the Korea; her Press still refuses to publish Japanese advertisements; she has not agreed to the proposal for establishing joint telephone and air services with Japan; she has given secret assistance to the bandits in Manchukuo, and her diplomatists at Geneva maintain an attitude of "continued hostility." There may or may not be substance in these accusations—some of which come rather strangely from one independent nation to another—but there is substance enough in the warnings which accompany them. Unless the situation is remedied, the Japanese military authorities in North China will extend the demilitarised zone. Already they have underlined their arguments by displays of armed force in Tientsin. China may suspect that a further penetration of her country is intended, but she has little choice of action. Divided in her outlook and backward in her ways, China is no match for the strong and purposeful nation which confronts her, and she is treating Japan's accusations with a meekness that is pathetic. She is likely to agree to all the demands made upon her—which include the dismissal of one of her Provincial Governors—in the hope that Japan may be mollified and carry the business no further. A show of resistance, no doubt, would give Japan the very opportunity for which she seems to be looking, but it is doubtful if compliance is any better guarantee of security.

Padding

Signor Mussolini, by a recent edict, has done his country a service of inestimable and lasting worth. In the future no public man may use phrases like "I am aware of the seriousness of the undertaking" when he is making a speech. Italy, indeed, is fortunate. If the edict is enforced strictly it must mean that the number of Italians who make speeches will be halved, since five out of every ten orators cannot progress beyond "Let us face facts and figures," and this, of course, comes well under the ban. The pity is that Ireland has no dictator to tell her how, and how not, to speak. In the Dáil on Wednesday evening Mr. P. J. Little, Chief Government Whip, complained sadly of the flood of rhetoric which has made the debate on the estimates for public services a Marathon. If, however, a veto could have been imposed on facing facts and figures, the majority of those estimates already would have been cleared. One might make a start with "I never intended to intervene in this debate." The knowledge that the speech about to be delivered is all an accident is infinitely saddening, and, in any case, the reasons for the intervention occupy at least ten minutes of the time of the Dáil. Perhaps the most barren of all beginnings is "Let us put politics aside for a moment." This inevitably provokes a stream of interruption which nothing can dam. Not only politicians, however, might be included in the ban. There are other types of public speaker which are almost worse. Consider for a moment the fearful ordeal known as "the school prize day." When the requisite number of pupils have been issued with their "Oxford Book of English Verse," someone inevitably makes a speech to the effect that life is not all play. The audience watch him glumly. They make small bets as to whether he will drink the glass of water before or after "In my young days I was something of a slacker." Towards the end some show of excitement may manifest itself. Will the speaker get it mixed, and say "Play the bat, and keep a straight game?" Of course, he never does, and he finishes strongly with "I would ask and beg each and every one of you never to ignore or—er—ignore your studies."

An Unpleasant Incident

Yesterday morning's newspapers described a most unpleasant incident that occurred at Newcastle, Co. Down. Miss Barton, of London, had reached the final of the British Women's Golf Championship, and was due to meet Miss Wanda Morgan, of Westgate-on-Sea. Just before the match Miss Barton, dissatisfied with the caddie whom she had been employing in the earlier stages of the championship, replaced him with another. The remaining caddies—thirty or so of them—chose to take action at this "affront" upon one of their number, followed the competitors around the course, and loudly applauded every stroke that was made by Miss Barton's opponent. Everybody who has played golf—for that matter, everybody who is familiar with the works of Mr. P. G. Wodehouse—can imagine how seriously such conduct was calculated to put Miss Barton off her game. How far it succeeded in its purpose we cannot tell; for Miss Barton played a fine game against her more experienced opponent. At the end of the first round she spoke to the officials, who paid the dismissed caddie his fee, and thereupon the "barracking" ceased. Caddies, we admit, have their living to earn; but they earn it from a game, and ought to have some regard for the normal canons of sporting decency. The trade union spirit is all very well, and we should be the last to decry its application to ordinary trades. At the same time, when a sporting event can be injured by the infiltration of that spirit, the fact must be regretted by all Irishmen. We hope most sincerely that this Newcastle incident will prove to have been an aberration, and that nothing of the kind will happen again. Our country has a good record for sportsmanship—a cleaner record, in fact, than most—and it behoves her to maintain it.

COURT AND PERSONAL

The King, attended by the Earl of Granard, drove in a State coach yesterday to St. James's Palace, where His Majesty held the last Levee of this season. On Thursday the Maharaja Gaekwar of Baroda visited the King, who also gave audience to the President and Secretary of the Royal Academy, who presented the annual reports of that institution.

The Duke of Connaught visited Their Majesties at the Palace, and yesterday presided at the annual meeting of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Help Society in the Caxton Hall.

The Prince of Wales performed the official opening of George V. Hall in the Central Telegraph Office, and despatched the first telegram to His Majesty.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent had a busy day in Edinburgh on Thursday, and fulfilled several engagements. Accompanied by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Duke attended the closing meeting of the General Assembly, and then left by train for London. Their Royal Highnesses have promised to attend the Agricultural Show at Newcastle-on-Tyne early in July, when they will be the guests of the Duchess of Northumberland at Alnwick Castle.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent have accepted the invitation to the "Jewels of the Empire" ball which will be held at Grosvenor House, Park lane, next Tuesday. It is expected that several other members of the Royal Family will be present.

The Duke of Devonshire, who has been fishing on the Blackwater at Carrysville for the past month, returned to England at the beginning of the week.

The Earl of Wicklow has been laid up at Shelton Abbey since his return from South America, and is now much better.

The Marquis and Marchioness of Headfort returned to Headfort, Kells, on Thursday from London.

The Earl of Derby presided at the annual dinner of the Derby Club, which was held at the Savoy Hotel, London, on Thursday night. A very large and distinguished company attended, and Mr. Percy Rudd was the guest of honour.

The Dean and Chapter of Westminster gave a garden party for the High Commissioners of the Overseas Dominions, in the Abbey Gardens, which are now a blaze of flowers.

Lady Dunedin sustained slight injuries in a motor accident near Knightsbridge on Thursday, when her chauffeur had to apply his brakes in order to avoid running into a pedestrian. Lady Dunedin was thrown against the wind screen, and received a cut on her forehead and some bruises.

A marriage has been arranged, and will take place on June 29th at Wickford Church, between Robert Staveley Waring, youngest son of the late Nicholas Skottowe Parker Waring, Manager of Provincial Bank of Ireland, Ennis, Co. Clare, and grandson of late John Waring, Esq., Pottlerath House, Callan, Kilkenny, and late Captain Robert Staveley, of Riversdale, Blackrock, Cork, and Kathleen Ethel, only daughter of Mrs. Mate, Rose Cottage, Morland road, Wickford, Essex, and grand-daughter of the late Francis William Greene, Esq., M.B., of Mallow, Co. Cork, and of Kilranalagh, Co. Wicklow.

The marriage arranged between William Frederick, elder son of William F. Aylward and Mrs. Aylward, 53 Claremont road, Sandymount, Dublin, and Olive Patricia, fourth daughter of the late Peter P. Towers and Mrs. Towers, 10 Morehampton road, Dublin, will take place on 6th July, 1935.

The marriage arranged between Terence John Sloan, B.A., B.A.I., Assoc.M.Inst.C.E., only son of Joseph Mallagh, M.Inst.C.E., and Mrs. Mallagh, Mayfield, Ballsbridge, Dublin, and Sheila, younger daughter of the late Roger Webb and Mrs. Webb, of 1 Ailesbury Gardens, Dublin, will take place early in July.

The engagement is announced between Cecil, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brownlee, of Rathgar, and Joan Lindsey, only daughter of the late J. A. Stringer and of Mrs. Stringer, of Rathgar.

Dr. L. B. Somerville-Large will be away from 7 Fitzwilliam square for two weeks.

Mr. G. M. Sterling has left 13 Upper Fitzwilliam street for some weeks.

WINDER—WARDROP.

The wedding of Herbert Winder, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Winder, Armagh, to Annie Vera Wardrop, elder daughter of T. N. Wardrop, Solicitor, B.A., T.C.D., and Mrs. Wardrop, of Foxcroft House, Portarlington, will take place at St. Paul's Church, Portarlington, on Friday, June 7th, at 2.30 p.m.

LONDON LETTER

FRENCH GOVERNMENT'S FALL

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

THE fall of the French Government on the question of the franc was expected in the City of London, and the suggestion made in Paris that the franc's difficulties are due to foreign speculators is not accepted here. In financial circles the basis of the trouble is said to be laid entirely to French nationals, who appear to have made a panic-stricken flight from their currency. Francs closed last night at 74.17-32, and opened in London to-day at 74.07-08, but within a few minutes weakened to 75¼. Our control came into the market, and the rate went to 75, only to weaken a little later. The crisis is being watched with sympathetic interest by the British Government, but there is nothing that can be done to help. The Government has been using the exchange equalisation account as a steadying factor, but even that assistance cannot be prolonged indefinitely.

Right versus Left

The political crisis in Paris has now become a partisan struggle between the Right and the Left, with the extremists on both sides threatening trouble and disorder. Should M. Bouisson fail to form a Government, the President may have to send for M. Daladier, the Radical leader, who resigned the Premiership after the street rioting of February, 1934, and in this event there may be trouble with the Fascist elements, who are strongly opposed to a Radical Ministry under M. Daladier. The return of this leader to power would be welcomed abroad, however, as he is a firm advocate of European co-operation, and would probably appoint M. Laval as his Foreign Minister. M. Laval, should M. Bouisson prove unsuccessful, is himself a very likely possibility for the Premiership, and it is believed that he would have little difficulty in forming a Government. In any case, it is thought that any new Government is not likely to last more than a few days.

A Sporting Premier

M. Bouisson, who may be able to form a new Government in France, is entering upon the task for the first time, though he is a veteran of the Chamber of Deputies and has been Speaker for eight years. He is a clever and capable man, with an intimate knowledge of personalities in the Chamber, where he won the respect of all parties by his scrupulous impartiality. Born in Algeria, M. Bouisson is Deputy for Marseilles. He is interested in sport, drives his own car, is frequently at big fights, and has never missed a French Rugby international in Paris. He is, in fact, one of the pioneers of Rugby in France, and forty years ago played as a three-quarter in the first French team to face an English club.

Germany's Air Proposals

The most interesting feature of Herr Hitler's Air Pact proposal is that it suggests that it shall be operated within the framework of the League of Nations. It contains a clause that Germany, even if she does not resume her seat on the Council of the League, shall, nevertheless, co-operate with the League for the specific purpose of the Air Pact. This may be taken as a direct indication that Germany will continue to co-operate in carrying out the original Locarno Treaty, since the Air Pact is carefully based on that structure. A satisfactory feature of the draft is its suggestion that the level at which air parity of the Great Powers should be established should be subject to limitation at as low a figure as they could agree. A convention to safeguard the civil population against bombing from the air is proposed.

The Quetta Earthquake

There have been terrible earthquakes in Quetta before, but they have not brought about so great a loss of life as that which has just taken place. The town has a population of 34,000, and lies 5,500 feet above the sea level. An important railway centre, much trade is done, though during the winter the cold drives away a considerable proportion of the population. The atmosphere of the place is rather like that of a military town at home, as it is primarily a military station, and has a Staff College. As in most Indian stations, the British cantonments are separate from the town, and stand amid wide avenues and large gardens. It is in the narrow and congested native bazaars that the earthquakes usually cause the greatest damage. If first reports are to be trusted—though it is hoped that they are not—the death roll must have been very heavy, indeed. One report suggests that it is something like 30,000 in the town and surrounding countryside.

A History of Parliament

Colonel Wedgewood, who has been engaged for some thirty years on a history of Parliament, has made such progress that he is going to the Stationery Office this week to arrange for the printing of the first three volumes. It is proposed that these shall be published at 30s. each, and it is hoped that one thousand subscribers will be secured immediately. The Treasury has undertaken the publication of the work, but there is no liability on the Exchequer, a sum of £15,000 having been raised by private subscription to cover the initial cost. In his later volumes Colonel Wedgewood may enlarge the original scope of his work in order to include a review of the conditions leading up to the overthrow of parliamentary institutions abroad.

The Royal Empire Society

The Prince of Wales is to lay the foundation stone of the Royal Empire Society's new building in Northumberland avenue on Monday, thus marking an important stage in the history of a great organisation. The Society was originated in 1868 by a zealous band of imperialists, who first met in a small room in Suffolk street. Viscount Bury was the first President, and Mr. Gladstone spoke at the inaugural banquet. First named the Colonial Society, it developed into the Royal Colonial Institute, and finally into the Royal Empire Society. When it became a real meeting place of Empire-minded people it acquired big rooms in Northumberland avenue, but the building containing them has gone, and in its place there is to rise a new six-storey block designed by Sir Herbert Baker. The Society is a great clearing-house for imperial and inter-colonial ideas, and in addition to the promotion of all-Empire activities it is a large residential club for its members, and possesses a library of 250,000 books, maps, and other publications of interest.

Broadcasting Fees

Recently there have been many complaints about the alleged under-payment of artistes engaged to work for the British Broadcasting Corporation, and it is probable that the committee which has been considering the whole question of broadcasting will advise that there shall be an increase in the proportion of licence revenue which the B.B.C. at present receives. This is 4s. 9d. out of each 10s., and an increase would make it possible to give better rates of payment to performers and other contributors to the programmes. Visitors from overseas and the United States have pointed out that they are frequently offered less than a quarter of the sum they receive at home to appear before the microphone.

To-day's Engagements will be found on Page 10.

THOUSANDS DEAD IN INDIAN EARTHQUAKE

GREAT TRACT OF COUNTRY LAID WASTE

TOWNS AND VILLAGES RAZED TO THE GROUND

ROYAL AIR FORCE MEN KILLED AND MISSING

ONE of the most disastrous earthquakes of recent years occurred early yesterday morning in a large area of Baluchistan.

The loss of life and the extent of the damage is not yet known, but Quetta, a capital city of 60,000 people, has been laid waste, as well as many other towns and villages.

An early estimate of the death-roll at Quetta placed it at one thousand, while in the area for 100 miles southward to Kalat four-fifths of the population are stated to have been killed.

Four-fifths of the people in the town of Mastung also are dead, and in surrounding towns and villages the loss of life is described as enormous.

The earthquake occurred soon after three o'clock in the morning, and the shocks lasted from thirty to sixty seconds.

Quetta, which is an important military outpost, was crowded with members of the British community, and it is feared that many Britons are dead.

At the Royal Air Force station there forty-three airmen and one flying officer have been killed, and twenty to thirty others are missing.

Pilot-Officer Charles E. Paylor, No. 5 (Army Co-operation) Squadron, is known to be dead.

The following also are reported killed:—

Mr. Meredith Jones, of the Political Department, with his bride of a fortnight, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Bradford.

Mr. Francis, an Irrigation Officer, and his wife.

Lieutenant-Colonel Severn Williams.

Major Rupert Hay, who was on a visit from Kabul.

Mr. Wakefield and Mr. Francis are reported each to have lost one child.

The eldest child of Flight-Lieutenant Biggs is missing.

Sir Norman Cater, Agent to the Governor-General, and Chief Commissioner of Baluchistan, is reported safe.

Military rescue parties, who searched the ruins in Quetta yesterday, rescued many Europeans and Indians, and sent them to hospital.

This is the second great earthquake that India has experienced in eighteen months. The shocks which struck Bihar in January, 1934, killed 6,000 persons.

STRICKEN AREA OF 100 MILES

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

KARACHI, Friday.

Meagre details by radio from the isolated City of Quetta late to-night tell of an appalling story of the earthquake disaster, which has laid waste towns and villages over a length of 100 miles, and caused untold loss of life.

In the capital, itself an important military outpost defending the north-west frontier, it is feared that casualties among British are very heavy. The city was crowded with British officials, students and members of the mercantile community making their usual stay in the hills during the hot weather.

According to an official statement the city and the civil and railway areas have been devastated. The police force has been practically wiped out, and casualties among the subordinate police officers are especially heavy.

The Staff College and military area are not seriously affected, and all the Staff College officers are reported to be safe.

No railway officers have been killed, but heavy casualties are feared among the subordinate personnel.

TOWNS SHAKEN DOWN

In the surrounding area 100 miles south, towards Kalat, it is reported that four-fifths of the population have been killed, and all the buildings have been razed to the ground.

The town of Mastung has been laid waste. Four-fifths of the people are dead.

A rescue train set out from Karachi for the stricken area to-night, and as the railways out of Quetta are stated to be intact it should arrive to-morrow morning.

The train is picking up a rescue party en route at Sukkur Kotri. It is carrying a dozen doctors, nurses and orderlies, and is bearing food and water supplies and ice for the survivors.

The party is under the lead of Major McFodder and Captain D. G. MacCaul.

Plans were made immediately that news of the disaster was received to transport a party by aeroplane, but as no information came through regarding the condition of the landing grounds the idea was abandoned. The news offices, telegraph companies and the railway station have been flooded with inquiries from anxious relatives of residents in Quetta.

TERRIFIED NATIVES

It is now definitely confirmed that the earthquake occurred at 3.4 a.m. to-day (10.34 p.m. yesterday B.S.T.). The shocks were of varying intensity, lasting from 30 to 60 seconds.

In the upper districts of the Province of Sind the shocks were severely felt, but no casualties are reported from there.

At Larkana people were hurled from their beds, and ran out into the open for safety, where they fell on their faces and prayed for deliverance.

At Shikarpur the terrified inhabitants rushed out wailing "Ram, Ram" (popular invocation of Rama, a Hindu god), and at Ratadero the populace spent a sleepless night on the Maidan (park).

The shock of the earthquake hurled birds from their nests in the walls and children from their cots, but, fortunately, no lives appear to have been lost.

ROYAL AIR FORCE

THE DEAD AND MISSING

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SIMLA, Friday.

The worst fears regarding the gravity of the earthquake disaster at Quetta and the surrounding area of Baluchistan appear to-night to be confirmed.

In addition to the 43 men of the R.A.F. and one flying officer dead, 20 to 30 others are missing.

Kalat City, at the southern end of the area affected, is also reported to be in ruins.

An early estimate of the number of dead at Quetta was 1,000. The population is 60,000, and as nearly all the city has been razed to the ground the total death-roll may be much larger. Owing to the destruction of the Quetta wireless station, all messages by wireless are arriving through Sibi, and details are coming through slowly.

The offices of Sir Norman Cater, Agent to the Governor-General, and the other Government offices are safe, according to a message received at Army headquarters here; but many of the officers' bungalows have been wrecked.

Casualties to the troops at Quetta have not yet been ascertained, but are believed to be slight. No casualties are so far reported among military officers. The

MISSING, BELIEVED TO BE KILLED

No. 5 Squadron—A.C. (1) Joseph Patrick Trainor; L.A.C. Norman Gelder; L.A.C. Oliver Edwin Jones; L.A.C. Robert James Miller; L.A.C. James Pendlebury; A.C. (1) John Charles Ratcliffe.

No. 31 Squadron—A.C. (1) John Robert Claydon; Corporal Henry George Knowlton; L.A.C. George Dunn Scrafton; A.C. (1) Thomas Crouch Somerford.

Number 3 Wing — L.A.C. Ronald Higgins; A.C. (1) Frank Raymond Adey.

Up to the present there is no reason to believe that any Pilot-Officer, apart from Mr. Paylor, has been killed.

DUBLIN WATER SCHEMES

CITY ENGINEER'S REPORT

TEMPORARY MEASURES DISAPPROVED

IN considering the report of Mr. M. A. Moynihan, City Engineer and Surveyor, on suggested temporary measures for obtaining an increased water supply, with estimated cost, on Monday next, the Dublin Corporation will be asked to say whether they are prepared to pay £54,000, with an annual charge of £3,500, for a purely temporary measure of relief.

Delays, for which the Corporation is not responsible, have hindered a decision being reached concerning the proposed new works; but in two months' time the co-partners of the Corporation in the development of the Liffey—the Electricity Supply Board—will say whether or not they are prepared to proceed with the Liffey power project. The Corporation can then decide their future policy, irrespective of what the E.S.B. may do regarding the extension of their undertaking.

INDEPENDENT SYSTEM

Mr. Moynihan is in favour of the construction of a new and independent waterworks system rather than the laying of an additional pipe line capable of carrying the additional two million gallons daily which Roundwood would give.

Mr. Moynihan says that at the meeting of the General Purposes Committee, at which he was ordered to report to the Council, he stated that it would be possible to increase the delivery of water through the existing pipes by one million gallons per day by means of electrically-driven pumps situate on the pipe line in the neighbourhood of the Glen of the Downs. At this point it is calculated that the 33-inch main would deliver a quantity of water far in excess of what it would deliver into the reservoirs at Stillorgan, as it is some 25 feet below the level of the latter, and the length of the pipe is only 33 per cent. of the total.

COST OF THE SCHEME

His idea was that the pumps would supply the energy necessary to drive the extra quantity. The cost of such a scheme would require a capital expenditure of about £20,000. Since he put the proposal before the Committee he had fully considered it in all its aspects, and because of the fact that the pumps would put an extra head of 70 feet on a water main laid seventy years ago, he did not feel justified in taking the risk which this increase of pressure on an old pipe would entail.

The alternative to this is the laying of a new pipe which would take by gravity two million gallons per day from a point on the pipe line a quarter of a mile south of Kilcroney relief tank. The length of this pipe line would be eight miles. Taking these two million gallons from the pipe line would reduce the hydraulic gradient, and a pumping plant would be required to restore it, and so enable the water to reach Kilcroney. The cost of the pipe line would be £50,000, and the cost of the pumps, electric motors, pump house, overhead power line and other incidental works £4,000—a total of £54,000.

The annual operating costs for electric current, labour, etc., when the plant was giving its full output would be £3,500.

THE WAITING PERIOD

The report continues: "The larger scheme must be undertaken at an early date, and when completed the pumping plant will be scrapped, and the pipe line more or less useless. I am satisfied that, with the citizens co-operating, the period until the Liffey works are completed can be tided over without any danger of a serious shortage.

"The methods which I adopted to bring before the citizens the necessity for economy in the use of water were adversely criticised by a few, and at the meeting of the Committee reference was made to the indignity cast on the city by advertising the fact that there was a shortage of water. This is an "indignity" similar to that shared by the citizens of Belfast, Liverpool, London and other places, and it is not, in my opinion, any indignity on the Corporation to post up notices warning the people that they must observe the law and not waste water, any more than it would be to warn vandals against the destruction of civic property.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST WASTE

"The conditions at Stillorgan have improved, so as to make it possible to cease the curtailment of the water supply at night; but the propaganda against waste and misuse of water must be ceaselessly maintained."

troops' accommodation is believed to be undamaged.

Fifty Europeans and 153 Indians have been extricated from the ruins of Quetta so far by military rescue parties, and have been taken to hospital.

It is believed that the Babu and Moti Mohallas (districts), thickly populated parts of the city, mainly inhabited by Sindhis and various floating sections of the population, have been completely razed to the ground.

According to unconfirmed reports trickling through Karachi, the Bruce road main bazaar of Quetta is on fire, with a severe storm blowing.

Another report is that Chaman, sixty miles north-west of Quetta, where there is an important frontier outpost, has been wiped out.

Two Royal Air Force 'planes are now expected to take-off to-morrow morning to assist in relief work in the devastated area, and other local 'planes may be requisitioned for the purpose.

A number of private agencies are also arranging relief parties.

100 KILLED AND 200 INJURED

The police in Quetta are almost annihilated, and the losses in the R.A.F. are heavy, telegraphs the Press Association Correspondent at Quetta, in one of the first telegrams to be received in London direct from the stricken city.

The city, the civil lines and the R.A.F. area at Samungli were the worst affected.

The city was completely razed to the ground.

The casualties have not yet been estimated, but it is feared that they are extremely heavy.

In the cantonment many houses have fallen, and probably most buildings outside the Staff College area are rendered unsafe.

The total European casualties are about 100 killed and 200 injured.

Those killed include Captain Mazbul Hussain, Captain Robinson, Indian Army Ordnance Corps; and Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Mefta, wife of the Persian Consul.

THE KING'S TELEGRAM

The King sent the following telegram to the Viceroy:—

"The Queen and I are greatly shocked to hear of the tragic disaster in Quetta, involving the loss of many valuable lives among the European and Indian population. Our hearts go out in sympathy to the bereaved, the injured, and those whose homes and property have been destroyed. Please keep me informed of any further news."

NEGOTIATIONS WITH BRITAIN ?

MR. DE VALERA'S OLIVE BRANCH

CROP OF RUMOURS FROM LONDON

SUGGESTED TRADE TREATIES

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

WHILE there do not appear to be any authoritative grounds for the current rumours that we are on the eve of important developments in the relationships between the Free State and Great Britain, it cannot be denied that a better atmosphere has been created. This, it may be taken, is largely due to some of the statements which President de Valera made in his speech in the Dail on Wednesday night. Many of these, which seemed to be casually dropped, appear on closer analysis to bear a significance which at first was not apparent. Like his assurance to Great Britain as to the attitude of the Free State in the event of war, was the hint that he would be willing to consider a treaty for common defence with that country, as well as further trade treaties.

Since he came into public life Mr. de Valera confessed that one of the objects he had consistently before him had been the bringing about of friendly relations between the two countries. Moreover, at all times he was sensible of the fact that the two countries had close trading relations, and that each was the other's best customer. It was to the advantage of Irishmen to be on friendly relations with Britain in trading matters, and they were prepared to enter into an agreement with Britain and purchase pound for pound from her. They were even prepared to give Britain preference when this country had to purchase from outside. Irish industries would need materials from outside for years to come. It was not the fault of his Government that those trading relations with Great Britain had not been brought about.

RUMOURS FROM LONDON

No doubt, these and other similar statements, detached from the context of his very long speech, are responsible for the crop of rumours which have emanated chiefly from London. Another main factor, presumably, is the impending changes in the British Cabinet. According to common report, these changes will include the translation to another sphere of Mr. J. H. Thomas, the Minister for the Dominions, and his replacement by another Minister. Mr. Thomas, it is admitted, has had little success in the office so far as the relations with the Free State have been concerned.

It may be admitted further that vis à vis Mr. de Valera he had a difficult proposition to face. With a change of personnel, and with the better feeling which seems to prevail, the hope is being entertained among politicians here that a renewal of negotiations regarding the economic controversy might be attended with better results.

As I have already said, there is no information of an authoritative kind upon which to speculate as to the future, but in view of the better feeling which undoubtedly prevails, both in Dublin and London, it would be surprising if an early attempt is not made further to explore, and, if possible, solve a situation which is damaging to both countries.

MR. THOMAS'S HOPE

DIFFERENCES MAY BE SOLVED

Mr. J. H. Thomas, speaking at Middlesbrough last night, said: "I observe that Mr. de Valera made a comment on some general remarks of mine last night. With that comment I agree.

"What I intended to convey, and what I say now, is that Mr. de Valera made it clear in his recent speech in the Dail that the Irish Free State Government would not permit its territory to be used as a base for attacking Great Britain.

"I welcome this statement, and I am very glad that Mr. de Valera made it. If the time should ever come—and let us pray that it will never come—when there is danger from external aggression, it would be a great thing for this country and the Free State to stand side by side.

"We, like the Free State, are a peaceful people, and our foreign policy is based on the belief that peace alone can save the world. We have worked with the Irish Free State before in the counsels of Europe for the preservation of peace, and their co-operation in this great task will always be welcome.

"As to the question of trading relations, we hope that the day may soon come when our differences with the Free State—political and economic—will be solved. Meanwhile, let me say that we have already this year reached an informal understanding on the subject of exports of coal from the United Kingdom to the Irish Free State and of cattle from the Irish Free State to the United Kingdom, which has, I think, been satisfactory to both sides.

"I have already made it clear in Parliament, and I should like to repeat this statement now, that if this arrangement could be extended, the Government would certainly welcome it."

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE EARTHQUAKE

The Times, in a leading article on the earthquake at Quetta, says:—Scarcely has India recovered from the disaster which, sixteen months ago, laid waste the Province of Bihar, when there comes news of a similar catastrophe in Baluchistan. Early yesterday morning the sleeping inhabitants of Quetta and the surrounding villages were seized in the remorseless grip of an appalling earthquake. Those who have lived will tell of the sickening horror which came over them as they felt the convulsions of the earth beneath and heard the walls and roofs tumbling around. But those who could tell most are, unhappily, no longer here to do so. As in all great earthquakes, communication has been broken, and it will be some time before the full extent of the disaster can be accurately gauged.

According to the latest reports, over 3,000 lives have been lost, and among them must be reckoned 72 Europeans. The Staff College and the military quarters do not appear to have suffered much, but the Royal Air Force felt the full force of the shock not only in its buildings and machines, but in its personnel. One officer and 43 airmen are reported dead, while the safety of a score of their fellows is still conjectural.

The sympathy of this country will go out in full measure, and not for the first time, to stricken India. On this occasion sympathy is deepened by the fact that British and Indians have been overwhelmed in a common disaster. The King has spoken for the whole country in his prompt and moving message, and already sympathy has taken the practical form of relief.

BRIAN LEWIS'S TRIUMPH

THIRD WIN IN MANNIN MOAR

ONLY FOUR CARS FINISH

FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

DOUGLAS, Friday.

THE Honourable Brian Lewis, Lord Essenden's son and heir, created a personal record in the Isle of Man races to-day by winning the Mannin Moar race for the third successive year. On previous occasions he drove Italian cars, but yesterday he steered a French car made by Bugatti, of 3½ litres capacity, one of the new type of eight-cylindered cars produced by that firm for the continental type of Grand Prix races.

Averaging 75.57 miles an hour for 200 miles—fractionally better than he did last year—he had all the honours of the race, as he also made the fastest lap at 78.10 miles per hour.

Although he was only 51 seconds ahead of Martin, on a similar car, at the end of the race, he had the event in hands all the way, and drove with a restraint that suggested that he did not intend to take more out of his car than was necessary.

While Shuttleworth, on an Alfa Romeo, jumped him in the sprint from the massed start, Lewis followed the leader for the first ten laps at a time interval of five seconds, and might have passed him had he tried. Shuttleworth went out with back axle trouble on the fourteenth lap, and from that point Lewis led the field without ever being seriously pressed.

THE E.R.A.'S.

Followed by Martin and Mays on English made E.R.A.s, and Eccles on a third Bugatti, the race proceeded with monotonous regularity, Lewis gradually working up his speed to 76.03 miles an hour at half the distance. Mays had now dropped back to fifth place, and the three Bugattis filled the leading positions.

Lewis was now 61 seconds ahead of Martin, and he had increased his lead to 99 seconds with four-fifths of the race covered. Stopping to refuel in the final stage, he was 76 seconds ahead with five of the fifty laps to go, and, taking things relatively easily, he allowed Martin to gain on him and ran out a winner by 51 seconds.

Regaining his third position in the fortieth lap, Mays held that place until the last circuit, when engine trouble compelled him to retire after a very fine effort on a car that had less than two-thirds the cubic capacity of all the continental cars in the race.

Behind Lewis and Martin, eight minutes after the winner, came Fontes, on the Alfa Romeo on which Lewis won in 1933, and which Dodson drove into second place last year. An older type and smaller Bugatti, driven by Raysen, was fourth. This quartette were the only cars to finish out of fourteen starters, but three others were still running when the fifteen minutes time-limit expired.

Mechanical troubles accounted for most of the retirements, but collision with another car put Leith out, and Hamilton went into a garden, knocking down the wall and wrecking his car, but without serious injury to himself.

The Honourable Brian Lewis's victory in the Mannin Moar race was secured on the new patent Castrol oil.

The placings were as follows:—

1—Brian Lewis (Bugatti). Time—2 hours 40 mins. 11 secs. Speed 75.57.
2—C. E. C. Martin (Bugatti). Time—2 hours 41 mins. 2 secs. Speed 75.16.
3—L. Fontes (Alfa-Romeo). Time—2 hours 48 mins. 14 secs. Speed 71.94.
4—E. K. Rayson (Bugatti). Time—2 hours 55 mins. 11 secs. Speed 69.10.

FOILED BY BOY WITH GUN

MASKED RAIDERS' RETREAT

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BALLINASLOE, Friday.

Raiders who called at the house of Mr. P. McGahern, The Station, Ballinasloe, at about 12.15 last night were confronted by his son, Jerry McGahern, sixteen years, with a double-barrel gun. Surprised, they left without getting into the house.

McGahern states that there were three masked men in the party, and that one of them, with a revolver, ordered him to put up his hands. He refused, and struck the man in the face, and then reached for the gun. When the raiders saw it they beat a hasty retreat, and then McGahern fired a shot.

Recently the house of Mr. J. Jennings, in the same locality, was raided, and £90 taken by masked men.

JAPAN'S FOURTEEN DEMANDS

TENSION WITH CHINA EASED

Japan has presented fourteen demands to China. These include the dismissal of General Yu Hsueh-Chung, Governor of Chihli Province.

"I am the first on the list," Yu Hsueh-Chung told Reuter. "I have been summoned to Peiping, and expected to be relieved of my functions. The Japanese want to remove all Chinese officials who are opposed to Japanese ambitions."

The Governor expressed the view that the Japanese intend to carry out gradual military penetration of North China, beginning in Chihli and extending to Chahar and other provinces.

It is understood that the withdrawal or forcible ejection of all Chinese troops from Peiping and Tientsin is held out as a threat in the event of anti-Japanese activities not ceasing.

According to the latest despatches from Reuter in Tokio the tension has been eased by the news that Mr. Tang Yu-Jen, the Chinese Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, has replied to the representations of the Japanese military representative at Nanking, with the assurance that the Central Government has no intention of evading responsibility for the present crisis in North China, and that a satisfactory solution will be effected as soon as possible after the return of Mr. Wang Ching-Wei, the Chinese Foreign Minister, from Shanghai.

NORMANDIE SETS UP 24 HOURS' RECORD

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Friday.

In twenty-four hours sailing from Bishop's Rock the Normandie covered 744 miles, an average of 29.76 knots. This constitutes a record for a twenty-four-hour average.

CABINET MAKING IN FRANCE

M. BOUISSON'S TASK COMPLETED

DETERMINATION TO DEFEND THE FRANC

M. FERDINAND BOUISSON, the President of the French Chamber of Deputies, who yesterday undertook the task of forming a Ministry after the fall of the Government on the previous night, completed his task early this morning.

It is understood that he intends to demand from the Chamber plenary powers to defend the franc without further debate.

No financial panic followed M. Flandin's fall yesterday. The Bourse displayed remarkable sangfroid for settlement day. Sterling only moved slightly upward, and, though rentes were irregular, the market generally was firm.

This is interpreted as a sign of a return of confidence in the stability of the franc.

M. Bouisson hopes that the new Cabinet will make its bow to the Chamber on Monday. It will be a Government of wide national unions, grimly set on defending the franc by the use of plenary powers.

RADICAL GROUP'S DECISION

After a very busy day M. Bouisson went to the Elysee yesterday evening to report progress and he will set about the completion of his Cabinet this morning.

A decisive development in M. Bouisson's task of Cabinet building occurred when the Radical group met, and by an almost unanimous majority, decided to participate in the Government and support M. Bouisson's policy of obtaining plenary powers.

M. Bouisson had given a deputation of Radicals the following assurances:—

1—That he would use his plenary powers solely for the defence of the franc, and for financial and economic restoration, and never for political ends.

2 That he would respect Parliamentary prerogatives and, in particular, hold a special session of Parliament to ensure a vote on the Budget by December 31st, 1935.

3—That in distributing portfolios he would give strategic posts to Left politicians, notably the Ministers of Finance, Interior and National Education.

M. Herriot, he declared, would collaborate with him in the allocation of portfolios.

FINANCIAL PROGRAMME

M. Bouisson declined to make known the details of his financial programme, as measures would have to be decided in the Council of Ministers, but he declared that the Radicals could trust him as an orthodox Republican. This satisfied the Radicals.

M. Bouisson confirmed his intention of keeping the following members of M. Flandin's Ministry: M. Herriot, M. Laval, M. Mandel, M. Rollin and M. Roy, and of inviting M. Caillaux to join as a Minister without portfolio.

A FINANCIAL ADVISER

A novel feature of this combination will be the appointment of M. Caillaux as supreme adviser without portfolio on all financial and economic questions.

The other names mentioned were all those of previous members of M. Flandin's Cabinet, except the Radicals, MM. Palmade, Paganon and Delbos, and M. Frossard (Socialist) and M. Bouisson himself.

M. Frossard's participation in the Ministry will involve his resignation from the Socialist Party.

ADMIRED AND HATED

M. Caillaux, at the age of 72, one of the most admired and hated figures in French politics, returns to the arena as the supreme adviser on all financial and economic questions. He was Prime Minister in 1911 during the Agadir crisis.

During the war he became unpopular on account of his alleged pacifist tendencies, and M. Clemenceau had him arrested. He was tried by the Senate, after having served two years in prison, but was released immediately, although banished for five years to the Sarthe Department.

In 1925 he was released from exile.

FAMOUS SOLDIER

Marshal Petain, who, it is expected, will assume supreme responsibility for France's defence in the new Government, is 79 years of age. He is the most famous of living French soldiers.

He was in command of the defences of Verdun in 1916, and when Foch became Generalissimo in 1918 Petain was put in command of all the armies, and received the rank of Marshal. He was second only to Foch among French Generals in the responsibility for the final victory.

In 1934 he became Minister of War in the Government of National Concentration.

THE NEW CABINET

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Saturday.

The following list of the members of the new French Government was issued by the semi-official Havas Agency early this morning. It is subject to eleventh-hour changes.

Premier and Minister of the Interior—M. Bouisson.
Ministers without Portfolio—MM. Caullaux, Herriot, Marin and Marshal Petain.
Minister of Foreign Affairs—M. Laval.
Minister of Justice—M. Pernot.
Minister of War—General Maurin.
Minister of Marine—M. Pietri.
Minister of Air—General Denain.
Commerce—M. Laurent-Eynac.
Finance—M. Palmade.
National Education — M. Mario Roustan.
Colonies—M. Louis Rollin.
Labour—M. Frossard.
Pensions—M. Perfetty.
Agriculture—M. Henri Roy.
Public Health—M. Ernest Lafont.
Posts and Telegraphs—M. Mandel.
Under-Secretary of State to the Presidency Council—M. Cathala.
Public Works—M. Paganon.

The successor to M. William Bertrand, the Minister of Mercantile Marine, will be chosen on his return from New York. M. Bertrand is at present on board the liner Normandie, which is making her maiden voyage.

M. Bouisson will present his Ministry to the President, M. Lebrun, this morning.

THE KING'S SLIGHT CHILL

REMAINING INDOORS AS PRECAUTION

It is announced officially that the King is suffering from a slight chill, and, as a matter of precaution, has been advised to remain indoors.

The King, who attended the Levée at Buckingham Palace yesterday morning, developed later a slight chill. He was to have attended the London County Council Jubilee Reception at the County Hall last night, but it was officially announced that he would be unable to attend.

It is stated that the chill is not of a serious nature.

GERMAN NOTE TO ITALY

FRANCO-SOVIET PACT CRITICISED

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ROME, Friday.

The German memorandum, circulated to all the Locarno Powers, declaring that the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance pact is inconsistent with the Locarno Treaty, has been handed to the Italian Government.

It is understood that it raises serious objections to the agreement, which is represented as being something in the nature of a military alliance and therefore not to be included in the offer made by Germany at the Stresa Conference to accept an eastern pact with bi-lateral agreements.

The Italian Government understands that the German point of view is the same as that expressed by Signor Mussolini in his recent speech on foreign affairs, viz.—that the recent Franco-Soviet agreement, as well as the Soviet-Czechoslovakian agreement, had upset the equilibrium of European affairs. The memorandum, it is understood, points out that both pacts are at variance with the Locarno Pact in that they state that if the parties cannot come to an agreement on any question it will then be referred to Geneva, the Locarno Pact being ignored.

The German Note also refers to the Czechoslovak-Soviet Pact.

Described as an unemployed motor driver, Joseph Edwin Clarke (29), was committed to the Nottingham Assizes by the Leicester Magistrates yesterday on charges accusing him of murdering his two children, Pamela, aged eighteen months, and Richard George, aged five years. Evidence was given that death in each case was due to asphyxiation by drowning.

FURTHER MOBILISATION IN ITALY

NEARLY A MILLION UNDER ARMS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ROME, Friday.

Troops under arms in Italy are approaching the million mark. A further 55,000 men were mobilised to-day for service in the East African Colonies. They consist of two army divisions amounting to 30,000 men, and two black shirt divisions amounting to about 25,000.

The announcement of the mobilisation was made in an official communiqué to-day. It states that the fresh mobilisation is due to the necessity to take further defensive measures to secure the Colonial defences, following the mobilisation of Abyssinian forces, and the further arrival of war material in Abyssinia.

BRITISH BISCUITS

TO ENTER CANADA FREE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

OTTAWA, Friday.

British biscuits, which have hitherto been subject to a 20 per cent. ad valorem tax, have now been made free of the British preferential rate, declared Mr. Rhodes (Finance Minister) in the Dominion House of Commons to-day. The intermediate general tariffs remain the same, however, at the rate of 30 per cent.

Walter Holland alias "Irish" O'Malley, who was wanted for his part in the kidnapping of the banker, Mr. August Luer, in July, 1933, has been captured. Holland, who was armed with an automatic pistol, was captured without a fight at Kansas City on Monday.—(Reuter.)

SWORN INQUIRY IN MULLINGAR

RATE COLLECTION DIFFICULTY

WESTMEATH COUNCIL AFFAIRS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

MULLINGAR, Friday.

DR. J. McLYSAGHT, Local Government Inspector, held a sworn inquiry to-day in the Council Chamber, Mullingar, into the affairs of the Westmeath County Council.

The Inspector made it clear at the outset that his only concern was with the life of the present Council, and that any figures which would be adduced for six years were only for comparison purposes.

Mr. R. J. Downes, Law Adviser, appeared for the County Council.

The first witness called was John J. Roche, Secretary, County Council.

Witness explained that he invariably budgeted for the full amount required to carry on the services and pay off the overdraft, but the Council reduced his estimate in 1929. The Council reduced witness's estimate by 7s. 10½d., notwithstanding that there was a reduction of £10,000 on overdraft. For the present year witness's estimate was 9s. 5d. in the £. This the Council reduced to 7s. 9d., which meant a reduction of, roughly, £27,000. No rate was made, however, in view of the inquiry.

Witness then gave evidence regarding loans, and submitted figures showing that the bank overdraft was £53,037.

Inspector—Do you recollect any member of the Council saying that he knew people who would pay if called on, and complained that they were not called upon.

The Secretary said that he did not recollect that.

"VERY BAD"

The Inspector—Do you consider the State rate collections very bad?—I do.

To Mr. Downes—The Council was in a sound financial position up to 1933. The saving went to the reduction of the overdraft. The difficulty was due largely to the Agricultural Grant not coming in, but he considered that the Council had not struck a sufficient rate.

The evidence of Mr. P. Brett, Chairman, County Council, was to the effect that he was chairman for twelve months. He was a member since 1920. In that year the outgoing Council left a debt of £30,000. Witness was always in favour of striking the amount that would fully cover services and pay off the overdraft. Some time ago the Board of Health wanted a small sum, and they could not get it from the County Council. A deputation went to the treasurer, and he refused to exceed the overdraft, which was then £55,000.

The Inspector remarked that he had evidence before him that at the meeting of the Council at which the rate was adopted this year only 13 members were present and 18 were absent. That, added the Inspector, discloses an extraordinary state of affairs.

Do you still think, asked the Inspector, that the Council can pull through and make good the terrible situation?—I have not the slightest doubt about it. We have an assurance from the Minister that he will send on grants if we put on some vesture of earnestness.

The Inspector remarked that Westmeath had the lowest rate in Ireland, and the worst rate collection.

"A COURAGEOUS MAN"

There are other creditable things, but the important features of your administration have gone completely by default, and it is an unfortunate state of affairs that you are not prepared to face the issue with an indebtedness of £75.000 odd, and not a halfpenny to get from the bank. With collectors, some in wilful default; with the majority of the Council running away from their obligations, do you still think you can pull through?

Mr. Brett—I do. I believe it can be done.

The Inspector—You are a courageous man.

Mr. Cornelius Murphy, County Surveyor, was also examined, as was also Mr. W. J. Finerty, County Councillor.

Mr. Finerty said that the strictest economy had been exercised. The expenditure of the Board of Health was progressively on the increase in the last six years. The collection of the rates became very difficult, and it was common knowledge that many late payers were unable to pay the prices for stock, and everything that the farmer could produce had fallen.

Four rate collectors were examined. One had been only a year in office, and had his collection completed. Two others were seventeen and thirty-seven years collecting, and said that it was impossible to get the rates.

The inspector asked how it was that one collection had been completed, and two others had two-thirds outstanding.

Mr. Finerty said that in that case the collector had an easy district, a lot of the rate being paid by the railway company.

The inquiry closed.

THE TRANSPORT HITCH

CONCILIATION BOARD SUMMONED

The situation in connection with the difference between the Dublin United Tramways Company and the trade unions was greatly eased yesterday by the announcement that the Department of Industry and Commerce had summoned a meeting of the Joint Conciliation Board. This meeting, which will be the first since the 4th February last, will take place on Thursday next. The Board will be asked to interprete certain clauses of the agreement made at the end of the strike.

The announcement was made to a meeting of the garage staff held by the A.T.G.W.U. at the Seamen's Hall, Marlborough street, Dublin, last night. There were present at the meeting some of the men who had previously passed a resolution demanding strike action to-night at midnight. Mr. E. P. Hart, National Organiser, explained the position to the men, and reported upon the progress which had been made towards adjusting the questions raised by the mechanics, apprentices and improvers. The report was adopted and no further action will be taken by the men pending developments. Mr. T. Casey, Branch Secretary, was also in attendance at the meeting.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, BELFAST

FIVE HONORARY DEGREES

The Senate of Queen's University, Belfast, has decided to confer the following honorary degrees:—

Doctor of Laws (LL.D.)—Dr. T. G. Moorhead, Regius Professor of Physics in the University of Dublin.

Doctor of Literature (D.Litt.)—Dr. F. S. Boas, formerly Professor of English Literature and History, and Librarian in Queen's College, Belfast.

Doctor of Science (D.Sc.) — Dr. T. Carnwath, Senior Medical Officer in the Ministry of Health, Whitehall, London.

Returned for Trial.—Further depositions were taken in the Cork District Court yesterday on charges preferred against John R. Desmond, described as a native of Cove, of obtaining various sums of money by false pretences, one of which was that he had won a residual prize in the Grand National Sweepstake in 1934. The accused man was returned for trial on bail.

THE REPUBLICAN "SWEEP"

DRAW STOPPED BY POLICE

COUNTERFOILS AND DRUM SEIZED

AT about nine o'clock last night one hundred or more people assembled in the Weavers' Hall, Donore avenue, Dublin, to hold the draw on the Derby sweepstake organised by the Irish Republican Army. The proceedings were opened by Mrs. Cathal Brugha, and at about ten o'clock, when a number of counterfoils had been drawn, the door of the room in which the draw was taking place was opened by a party of about fourteen detectives. The door, it is stated, had been barricaded with a cupboard.

The detectives immediately stopped the draw and seized the drum from which the counterfoils were being drawn.

While the detectives were in the room the people who had been taking part in the draw sang the "Soldier's Song."

The drum and undrawn counterfoils were taken away in a motor car by the detectives.

Cumann na mBan and the Republican Press, Ltd., yesterday re-opened their offices at 12 St. Andrew street, Dublin, which had been closed and sealed by a squad of detectives on the previous day.

These offices, together with premises in Dame street and the Foresters' Hall, Parnell square, were closed, according to official information, for ten days, in order to prevent the holding of the sweepstake.

Yesterday morning, when members of the Cumann na mBan organisation arrived at 12 St. Andrew street, they found a detective on the stairs outside their rooms and the seal still on the door. They were not permitted to enter the rooms, but, on returning later, they found the detective absent. The officials of the organisation unlocked the door, and went in to work. Later some of the staff of the Republican Press, publishers of An Phoblacht, arrived and, it is said, broke the seals on the doors of their offices, which are next to those of Cumann na mBan.

VISIT TO MINISTER

An Irish Times reporter who called at the premises during the afternoon found a Civic Guard on duty outside the premises. On going up to the Cumann na mBan offices he found them locked, but the door was opened to him, and an official described their visit to the Minister for Justice, Mr. P. J. Ruttledge, on the previous night. They said that Mr. Ruttledge told them that the Cumann na mBan offices had been closed by mistake, and that "everything would be right in the morning." During the day they had not been visited by any police or interfered with in any way.

The premises in Dame street were found to be closed, and the door tied with string. A Guard was on duty outside, and apparently no effort had been made to take possession of them again by the persons concerned. The door of the Foresters' Hall was also closed, but, on knocking, a reporter was admitted by a Guard, who said that he was in possession, and that nobody had tried to enter the building.

OFFICIAL CIRCLES

Inquiries made at the Department of Justice were answered by a comment that the officials had heard nothing about the matter since 6 o'clock on the previous evening. At Detective Headquarters there was apparently no official information about the raid made on Thursday or the action of the Cumann na mBan officials in re-entering their offices.

Shortly before the Republican meeting took place in College Green last night the reporter again visited 12 St. Andrew street. This time two uniformed Guards and two detectives were on duty in the street, but the door of the building was opened and so was the door of the Cumann na mBan offices.

Several officials were present, and they said that they had the counterfoils for the draw and that it would be held. After a consultation between themselves they expressed regret, and declined to allow the reporter to accompany them to the draw or to divulge where the draw would take place.

The party then left the office, closing the door after them, and leaving one of their number on the stairs, to go on to the sweepstake draw.

BELFAST UNIONISTS AND NATIONALISTS

Prompt action on the part of the police saved a very ugly situation from developing in the York road district of Belfast late last night, when a disturbance occurred between Nationalist and Unionist parties.

When a band was paraded down the road stones were thrown. Immediately it looked as if a fight were about to occur, but a number of police who were on duty in the district drew their batons.

Reinforcements were summoned from headquarters, and all available constables were rushed to the scene in motor cars. They succeeded in preventing a direct clash between the parties, and after a time they managed to clear the neighbourhood.

VILLA MURDER TRIAL

MRS. RATTENBURY NOT GUILTY

DEATH SENTENCE ON STONER

THE jury in the villa murder trial, at the Old Bailey, London, yesterday, found Mrs. Alma Victoria Rattenbury, aged thirty-eight, not guilty of the murder of her husband, Francis Mawson Rattenbury, a retired architect, aged sixty-seven. They found George Percy Stoner, chauffeur, aged eighteen, guilty of the murder, but recommended him to mercy.

Mr. Justice Humphreys passed sentence of death on George Percy Stoner.

Mrs. Rattenbury was brought back into court after George Percy Stoner had been sentenced, and the Crown offering no evidence on a charge that she had been an accessory, the jury returned a formal verdict of not guilty, and the judge ordered her discharge.

As on the previous days, the court was crowded, a good many of those present being women.

THE SUMMING-UP

Mr. Justice Humphreys, in summing up the case for the jury, directed their attention first to points of law. If, he said, two persons agree together that a felonious wounding shall be committed on somebody, and if death ensues as a result of that felonious wounding, then each of those persons is equally guilty of murder.

In regard to Mrs. Rattenbury, he said it was essential for the jury to make up their minds whether to believe part or the whole of her evidence, or whether to reject the whole of it. The case for the prosecution was, he said, that this woman was so lost to all sense of decency and morality that she would stop at nothing to gain her end. Then he spoke of "this woman's paramour, a boy of seventeen, almost young enough to be her son," and of "the orgy in London." They should not, however, let their want of sympathy and their disgust prejudice them against her.

Stoner's position, he said, is regrettable and pitiable. I do not think I am putting it unfairly when I say that, whatever your verdict may be, his position is due to the domination of the woman. What were they going to do when they got back? Could life go on in the same way? Would not something have to be done with or to Mr. Rattenbury? Did the jury believe that when Mrs. Rattenbury returned her husband never asked a question as to what happened in London?

STONER'S CASE

Dealing with the case of Stoner alone, Mr. Justice Humphreys said that those who interpreted his counsel's remarks to mean that Stoner admitted striking the blow were wrong. All he meant was that, it being the case of the prosecution that they had to prove that it was Stoner who struck the blow, he was not in the position, or, at all events, did not intend, to call evidence to contradict it. Stoner's counsel had suggested that owing to a drug he was incapable of forming the intent. If he wishes to prove that he had taken cocaine or was under its influence is there any witness on earth, asked the judge, who could do it as well as Stoner? It seems to me a fact of the most profound significance that Stoner prefers not to give evidence. I have come to the conclusion that there is no evidence upon which you can come to the conclusion that Stoner, if he was guilty of this crime, was insane at the time so as not to be responsible in law for his actions.

Finally, he directed the jury that if they decided that Stoner delivered the fatal blow without intending to kill, or to do bodily harm, he should be found guilty of manslaughter.

When the judge, before passing sentence of death, asked Stoner whether he had anything to say, he replied, "Nothing at all."

Stoner was removed from the dock after hearing the sentence, and, by permission of the judge, his father saw him in the cells.

A crowd had gathered outside the court, but Mrs. Rattenbury eluded them, and was driven away in a taxi cab.

SHARE IN HOUSE AGENCY

EVIDENCE OF TWO DEFENDANTS

THE hearing was resumed in the Circuit Criminal Court yesterday, before Judge Davitt, of the case in which John Sheehan, alias James J. Leahy, and Patrick J. Laffan, both of Eccles street, Dublin, are charged on six counts with conspiracy to defraud Mrs. E. T. Maguire, of Booterstown, County Dublin, of the sum of £150 by falsely representing to her that they carried on a successful business as the Irish Land, House and Estate Agency, at Parnell square, Dublin. The counts related to transactions between November and January last.

Mr. M. J. Connolly, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted; Mr. L. Trant McCarthy, solicitor, appeared for Sheehan; and Mr. Herman Good, solicitor, appeared for Laffan.

The case for the prosecution closed on the previous day.

John Sheehan said that he remembered Mrs. Maguire calling at the office at 41 Parnell square, where she was interviewed by Laffan with reference to a share in the business. The witness agreed to accept her as a partner in the business. Giving her his opinion as to the value of the business, the witness assessed it on the business done for the previous five or six weeks—which would mean £500 or £600 a year. He told her, when she was going into the business, that, if she was not satisfied with it after some months, he would buy back her interest at what she had paid for it.

He remembered suggesting to Mrs. Maguire that she should buy a shop at 62 Innisfallen Parade, which the witness himself had secured before that for the firm. He sold the premises to Mrs. Maguire for £50, putting £35 of that money into the firm and giving the remaining £15 to Mrs. Anne Brett, from whom the shop had been secured.

In reply to questions, he said that he started business with £50, and between January and February of this year he put in £210. At the start Laffan had about £20. He denied ever having said that the business was worth from £600 to £1,000 a year.

Leahy said that, in regard to the shop at Innisfallen parade, he bought the goodwill for £15, but had not told Mrs. Maguire, even though she was a partner in the agency.

The other accused man, P. J. Laffan, examined by Mr. Herman Good, said that his job in the agency was to go out and find people anxious to sell their businesses. The business did very well at the start, but from January on this year it was not so brisk. He left the business in March following a "row" with Sheehan. He was not present at any of the transactions in connection with the selling of the shop to Mrs. Maguire. Any statements he made to Mrs. Maguire with reference to the disposal of his interest were true.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned until Monday next at 11 o'clock.

CORK TRADE DISPUTE

COURT SEQUEL

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Monday.

Arising out of the trade dispute at the premises of Messrs. L. L. Ferguson, Ltd., hairdressers, Winthrop street, Cork, a series of summonses were heard at Cork District Court to-day. One ex employé, now on strike, and five other men were charged with intimidation, besetting, and persistently following Joseph O'Neill, an employé of the firm, and James W. Irwin, the manager, on May 10 and 11.

The allegations were denied.

The names of the defendants were:—Cornelius Harty, The Bungalow, Dorgan's road; Ml. Courtenay, MacCurtain street; Charles Burke, North Main street; John McAuliffe, North Main street; William Ryan, River lane, and Jas. Casey, Ringmahon Cross, Blackrock.

The dispute at the premises in question began last August and remains unsettled.

Having heard the evidence, the Justice fined Harty 40s. on the charge of intimidation on May 10. All the other cases were dismissed.

MASKED RAIDERS ENTER HOUSE

FOUR MEN TRIED BY TRIBUNAL

SENTENCE PASSED ON THREE DEFENDANTS

AN alleged conspiracy to steal a gun, the property of Bernard Maye, Corrin, Fermoy, formed the subject of a charge against four men—John and Edmund Carter, Ballyoran, Castlelyons; Cornelius O'Brien, Coolcorrin, Fermoy; and John Mahoney, 11 Thomas street, Dungarvan—at the Military Tribunal in Collins Barracks, Dublin, yesterday.

They were also charged with larceny of the gun, housebreaking, and with having in their possession a shotgun and revolver, without a firearms certificate.

The accused men pleaded not guilty, with the exception of John Mahoney, who remained silent.

State counsel, Mr. M. J. O'Brien (who was instructed by Mr. J. S. O'Connor), said that while Maye was absent from his home at Mass on October 28th last two masked men entered the house. The evidence of a servant girl who was in the house, Hannah Sheehan, would show that one of the men had a revolver. One of them, apparently, knew where the gun was kept, for he went into the kitchen and got it. Edmund Carter had been employed by Maye. Now it seemed that the accused men afterwards stole the gun from one another and it had disappeared.

Bernard Maye and Hannah Sheehan gave evidence, confirming counsel's statement.

"A DUMMY REVOLVER"

Superintendent Cornelius Brady, Fermoy, read a statement volunteered by John Mahoney in Fermoy Civic Guard barracks. In this Mahoney stated that, with the other accused men, he went to Maye's house. "Neddie" Carter had a dummy revolver and went into the kitchen with the gun. Afterwards the two Carters went off with the gun. The superintendent added that Mahoney had told him that the gun was in various places, but the Guards could not find it. The accused men were not members of the I.R.A.

Asked if he wished to cross-examine the witness, John Mahoney said that he had been a member of the I.R.A. for three years.

Detective Officer Mockler testified to taking a statement from Edmund Carter, in which the raid was described.

Edmund Carter (to witness)—Did you threaten me with a revolver?—No.

Did you say that if I did not make the statement you would put my teeth out in the street?—That is not right.

This concluded the State case.

Giving evidence on oath, Edmund Carter said that he was 18 years of age. The statement made to the Guards was forced from him with a gun by the detective. In order to get out he did not care what statement he made. The detective put the barrel of a gun up to his mouth and "chucked him around."

John Carter, who also elected to give evidence, said that he was away in Cork undergoing training as a member of the Volunteer Force at the time of the raid.

Examined by Mr. O'Brien, the witness said that the statement he had made to the Guards was all lies. He alleged that he was beaten with a gun by Detective Officer Mockler.

Cornelius O'Brien, who was then sworn, denied knowledge of the raid. The statement, he said, was forced from him, and none of it was true.

John Mahoney, asked if he wished to give evidence, said he was "a soldier of the I.R.A. and did not recognise the Court."

STRUGGLE WITH GUARDS

Superintendent Brady said that there was no truth in the statements that any violence or persuasion was used against any of the accused men to get them to make a statement.

The accused men, he said, were released for a time, and on going to re-arrest John Carter the household turned out and fought the Guards with pitchforks and stones. Carter fought viciously and had to be overpowered. Detective Officer Mockler was forced to strike him on the shoulder with his revolver. This caused a slight wound, which was afterwards given medical attention.

Mahoney and O'Brien were found guilty on all the charges, and Mahoney, whom, the President said, the Court regarded as the ringleader, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment. O'Brien was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment. Edmund Carter was found guilty of the conspiracy charge and not guilty on the other counts, and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. John Carter was found not guilty on all charges and was discharged.

Edmund Carter was then charged with breaking telegraph wires at Coolcorrin, Co. Cork, on March 19th, 26th and 28th, and at Corrin, Fermoy, on April 11th last.

He pleaded guilty to all the charges.

A statement made by the accused man admitting the offences was read by Superintendent Brady. In this Carter said he did not know why he cut the wires and was sorry that he had done it.

The accused man was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment, to run concurrently with the sentence of six months' imprisonment already imposed by the Court.

PREMIER OF SOUTH AUSTRALIA

YESTERDAY'S VISITS IN DUBLIN

Mr. R. L. Butler, Premier of South Australia, yesterday morning visited the Christian Brothers' Training College at Marino, Dublin. He was received by the Brother Superior, the Rev. Brother Noonan, who introduced him to two Australians now studying in the college—Brothers Magee and Reidy. On leaving the college, Mr. Butler went to Artane, where he inspected the Brothers' industrial school.

In the afternoon Mr. Butler drove to Powerscourt, and showed a great deal of interest in the beauties of the demesne and the waterfall.

Mr. Butler will be received by President de Valera at Government Buildings this morning at 11 o'clock, and afterwards he will be entertained to luncheon at Dublin Castle. He will leave Dublin this evening.

THIRD STAGE OF ULSTER SHOW

JUDGING THE LATE CLASSES

IRKSOME DUTIES ON SOUTHERN STOCK

BELFAST, Friday.

THE annual four-day Show of the Royal Ulster Agricultural Society entered upon the third stage of its progress to-day, and there was again a very large attendance.

Among the spectators were the Prime Minister, Viscount Craigavon, and Mr. H. M. Pollock.

There is a good deal of disappointment amongst the officials of the show that the duties on Free State animals entering for the show were not removed by the British Customs authorities. At the last annual meeting of the society a resolution was passed urging the authorities to permit cattle to enter Northern Ireland and Great Britain from the Irish Free State for show competitions. No decision has been reached in the matter, and it is understood that the show authorities are to take up the question again with the authorities in London. Over a hundred Free State entries could not be included this year. Northern visitors are not hampered when sending exhibits to the Royal Dublin and other shows in the Free State, and the lack of reciprocity is felt very keenly.

CUMANN NA MBAN DEMONSTRATION

AT ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S HOUSE

A party of about forty members of the Cumann na mBan organisation last night at 9.30 marched into Palmerston road, in which Mr. Conor Maguire, K.C. (Attorney-General) resides. Outside Mr. Maguire's house the party paraded for some time, holding banners inscribed with references to the imprisonment of Republicans and to Mr. de Valera's recent statement in regard to Government policy in the event of war.

Among the inscriptions on the banners were:—"Conor Maguire gets a job imprisoning Republicans," "Will the Free State Army be used to fight for England?" "Don't allow de Valera to follow the example given by John Redmond in 1914," "Republican offices raided and closed up by C.I.D., but enemy agents may still work against Ireland."

After the parade outside Mr. Maguire's house, the party marched to College Green and joined a meeting that was being held there.

IRISH NEWS IN BRIEF

Imperial Service Medal.—The King has awarded the Imperial Service Medal to Thomas McDonald, a postman, of Londonderry, on his retirement.

No Licence.—At Cork District Court yesterday Joseph Thomas, of Cattle Market avenue, was fined £500, reduced to £125, for acting as a bookmaker without a licence at the United Drag hunt near Cork last April.

Mr. F. J. Gearty.—Mr. F. J. Gearty, B.A., B.Comm. (N.U.I.), Registrar of Longford, Edgeworthstown, Drumlish and Ballymahon District Courts, has resigned, to complete his apprenticeship to the solicitor profession.

Northern Transport Bill.—Derry Chamber of Commerce yesterday defeated by a majority of 4 a resolution calling for the withdrawal of the Transport Bill, or its postponement until the full effects of last year's Road Traffic Act were seen. Major J. Colhoun, M.C., President, said that the Government was determined to go ahead with the bill.

Alleged Conspiracy.—James and Bartholomew Harman and Daniel J. McKenna, of Callinaferey, were returned for trial on bail at Tralee Court on charges of shooting at James Shea, water bailiff, on May 16th at Callinaferey; being in unlawful possession of a sawn-off shot-gun; having a firearm and ammunition without a certificate, and unlawful assembly and conspiracy.

Cattle Smuggling Charge.—At Warrenpoint Court yesterday, Major McCallum, R.M., presiding, John Ward, The Square, Warrenpoint, was fined £120, with the alternative of six months' imprisonment, for the alleged harbouring of five cattle found on his land on April 8, and on which import duty from the Free State had not been paid. A stay of execution was granted for three months. Mr. H. A. Rutherford, for the defence, said that his client was owed an account in the Free State, which he went to collect, and he was offered these five cattle. It was only when his attention was called to the fact that they were not tariff-marked that he realised they had not come through the Border post.

MR. ROOSEVELT ON COURT DECISION

BIG CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Friday.

A resolution asking for the termination of the reciprocal trade agreements as a result of the Supreme Court's decision that Congress had no power to delegate to the President certain of its functions was introduced in the House of Representatives to-day.

Discussing the Supreme Court's decision at the Press Conference to-day, President Roosevelt said that it brought to the forefront the great issue of depriving the Federal Government of all control over national, economic and social conditions. He described the ruling as perhaps the most important in the history of the nation, and declared that it was up to the people to decide now whether there should be forty-eight different State attempts to regulate the economic and social life of the nation, or whether this should be the function of the Federal Government.

The epochal N.R.A. decision, he said, removed any Federal jurisdiction over such major human activities as farming, manufacturing, mining and construction. In his view the Court's interpretation of inter-State commerce took the nation back to the "horse and buggy stage" of 1789, when the inter-State commerce clause was put into the Constitution.

Expressing the hope that the spirit of the voided codes for fair practices would be maintained on a voluntary basis, the President intimated that he would be ready to act next week in an attempt to counter the results of the ruling. He withheld, however, the nature of his plans. As regards "pending cases"—presumably disputes with the N.R.A. at the time of ruling—he added that an announcement would be made to-day or to-morrow.

The President went on to declare that in some ways he thought the decision was the best thing that had happened, because it had clarified the issue. The United States of America was the only nation in the world where the Federal Government was without authority to exercise control over the economic and social conditions of the people.

In several ways he felt that the issue was the biggest question ever brought before the country in time of peace. As to the Court's ruling against the delegation of powers by Congress to the President, as in the N.R.A., Mr. Roosevelt said that he believed the problem could be met. The implications of the ruling meant the end of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the Securities Commission, and the Federal Alcohol Control Administration.

The issue would have to be settled by a vote of the people, not necessarily this year, but probably within the next four or five years.

President Roosevelt made it plain that the question of amending the Constitution would ultimately have to be considered. Meanwhile, however, less drastic action would be considered.

The President added that the implication of the Supreme Court decision, that Federal control of agricultural production was unconstitutional, might result in "36 cent wheat" and "5 cent cotton" under the present world conditions.

Legislative proposals to meet the problem resulting from the death of the N.R.A. have been recommended to President Roosevelt by General Johnson, but the details have not been disclosed.

EFFECT ON MARKETS

Wall Street, says a New York telegram, followed President Roosevelt's statement with interest. Leading commodities exhibited weakness on the statement that the implications of the Supreme Court decision meant the end of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Cotton closed down some 60 points, and sugar from 22 to 23 points.

CLARE LARCENY CHARGE

DIRECTOR'S SON FOR TRIAL

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

ENNIS, Friday.

Before District Justice Gleeson, at Ennis to-day, the taking of depositions was concluded in the State prosecution against James O'Flynn, junior, of Sixmilebridge, Co. Clare, who was charged on remand with housebreaking and the larceny of a motor car, cheque book and other articles, the property of Messrs. James O'Flynn and Sons, Ltd., Sixmilebridge, of which firm the father of the accused man is managing director.

Mr. James Lynch, State Solicitor (instructed by Superintendent P. O'Sullivan) prosecuted. Mr. F. F. Cullinan, solicitor, appeared for the defendant, who was returned for trial to the next Circuit Court at Clare. Bail was refused.

From Connemara to Meath.—"My family have just barely existed." This is what Michael Griffin, Tiernae, Connemara, said to a reporter as he stood in the rain outside his hovel dwelling on the barren Western seaboard in the early hours of yesterday morning. He was one of a little band of five families who, under the Government order, are being transferred from this poverty-stricken area of Connemara to the pasture lands of Meath, where each family will receive a farm, cattle and poultry, and thirty shillings a week for a year.

ACTION AGAINST LAND TRUST

EX-SERVICE MAN'S CLAIM TO HOUSE

WHEN the hearing of the action of Hugh Callan, a British ex-Service man, residing at Phibsborough road, Dublin, against the Irish Sailors' and Soldiers' Land Trust and Joseph McCann, who resides at Abbeyfield, Killester, was resumed, further arguments were advanced on behalf of the defendant McCann, a British ex-Service man, occupying an ex-Service man's cottage which formerly was in possession of the plaintiff, who had been ejected from it.

The plaintiff claimed a declaration that he was entitled to possession of the cottage for life without payment of rent, he relying on the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Leggett and others against the Land Trust. Further, he claimed a refund of rent; an order directing McCann to give up possession of the cottage to him; and damages.

It was pleaded in defence that the plaintiff was estopped by an agreement of tenancy and a decree of ejectment of a competent court: and that he was not entitled in equity to claim possession from the defendant McCann.

Mr. Gavan Duffy submitted that a court of equity would consider it unfair to evict McCann at the suit of the plaintiff, and that, even if the plaintiff had an equitable estate for life in the cottage—which counsel denied—that gave him no legal right to possession, but left the matter in the discretion of the Court.

The defendant McCann, said Mr. Gavan Duffy, was in possession by a Supreme Court title.

As a technical defence Mr. Gavan Duffy submitted that in a case of this kind there could be no action for possession without a prior demand for possession.

Mr. Gavan Duffy having concluded his argument,

Mr. FitzGerald and Mr. Campbell replied.

Mr. Justice Meredith reserved judgment, and intimated that on Tuesday next he would take the case of Caprani against the Land Trust, and then the cases of Casey against the Land Trust and Duggan against the Land Trust.

Mr. Gavan Duffy said that Caprani's action was simply for a return of rent, and covered a very large number of cases.

Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., Mr. Charles S. Campbell, K.C., Mr. Joseph A. McCarthy, K.C., and Mr. John Farrell (instructed by Mr. Joseph H. Dixon) appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. Overend, K.C., Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C., and Mr. Ignatius J. Kelly (instructed by Mr. P. Coll) for the Land Trust; and Mr. Gavan Duffy, K.C., Mr. E. J. Kelly, K.C., and Mr. Art O'Connor (instructed by Messrs. Reddin and Reddin) for the defendant, Joseph McCann.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

CORONA-CORONA'S VICTORY

Light Tackle Beaten on the Post by Milldoria

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Friday Night.

THOUGH it was dull and cooler than of late, there was a satisfactory attendance for the one-day meeting at Lingfield Park. Corona-Corona gained a well-deserved victory in the Cosmopolitan Cup, which was the most valuable event on the card. He ran third to Crawley Wood and Flam in the Great Metropolitan Stakes, subsequently finishing second to Epejen at Hurst Park. Last season he won once, and was placed in his other two races.

Tommy Barber put up 2lb. extra to ride the winner at 7st. 2lb., and did his task well. He brought Corona-Corona through with a well-judged run after New Era had taken up the running in the straight. As Corona-Corona came to challenge New Era Hoplite also joined issue. The weight beat Hoplite, and, running on well, Corona-Corona drew away clear in the last furlong.

Claran, who won the race the two previous years and was made favourite, never looked dangerous. He finished fifth, behind St. Hubert, who was well placed throughout. Hands Off was up with the leaders until reaching the straight, when he gradually fell back. Blandearna was tailed off at half-way.

Light Tackle Narrowly Beaten

Among the runners for the Oaks Trial Plate were three fillies engaged in next Friday's "classic" race—Light Tackle, Solar Star and Fair Etonian. Of the trio, Light Tackle was the only one placed. She ran a good race, only failing by a neck to concede 7lb. to Milldoria.

Solar Star, who was made favourite, gave a disappointing performance. Donoghue had to show her the whip going up the hill. Responding to the calls of her jockey, Solar Star moved up close to the leader, but fell back again in the straight. Fair Etonian was in front until half-way up the straight. As she weakened, Light Tackle and Golden Scroll went on.

From below the distance Light Tackle drew out clear, only to be caught in the last two or three strides by Milldoria, who came with a late run. Milldoria had not won before.

After the race Joe Lawson, the trainer, said that Solar Star failed to give of her best, as she was slightly amiss. The filly, he added, is a certain starter for the Oaks.

Durex Disappoints

There was probably some good-humoured banter in the weighing room after Dines on Veinarde had beaten Gordon Richards on Dapple by half-a-length in the Three-Year-Old Handicap. Well below the distance Veinarde and Dapple drew clear, with Veinarde in front. Both jockeys rode their hardest, Dines keeping his mount in front until the post was reached. Durex, a warm favourite, gave a disappointing performance.

Double for Carslake

It was anticipated that Mr. H. Rosenthal would supplement his victory with Veinarde by winning the Weir Courtenay Plate with Ballywellbroke. The filly was made a warm favourite, but failed to finish in the first three. From the distance Corban drew out to hold off Home James in a good finish.

Corban, who had not run before, gave Carslake his second winner of the afternoon. He won the first race, the Godstone Selling Plate, on Plagiarist, who defeated the hot favourite, Sally's Gift.

The other selling race—the Oxted Handicap—for which Quickly was made favourite, was won by Birthday Honour, who was almost as well backed as Quickly. It was her initial success, and her first outing this season.

Selections

At Alexandra Park to-morrow the London Sprint Handicap may be won by MORSTONE, the June Plate by PROBUS II., and the Tottenham Welter by FREE FARE.

At Doncaster I fancy BUHARDO for the Harewood Handicap and ALLENSFORD for the Vyner Stakes.

GALTEE MORE.

CLUSTINE NAPPED

Free Fare Fancied to Win the Tottenham Welter

THE wind-up to an uneventful week's racing will take place at Alexandra Park to-day. The London Sprint Handicap stands out as the principal event on a programme which promises some good sport. For this race there is likely to be an open market. Most of those under orders to compete have good recent form to their credit. They include Miss Elegance, Clustine, Old Folk, Veneagle and Morstone.

Clustine will be ridden by Gordon Richards. When last seen in public he made a great effort to beat the crack three-year-old sprinter, Radamedes, at Newmarket, but was beaten by a short head. On that form Clustine has a great chance of scoring to-day.

Miss Elegance has not been seen in public since acting as runner-up to Subrosa at Sandown in April. She has a bright turn of speed, and should do well on this track. Old Folk won in fine style at Kempton Park, and, although he may not be too well handicapped, it should be remembered that as a three-year-old he is liable to be making more improvement than the majority of his rivals here.

Others with chances include Veneagle, who is much expected to win. I think Morstone will run well, but anticipate that the finish will be contested by Clustine and Miss Elegance. Now that he has returned to form reads to be the pick of the handicap, and I think he will win.

The June Plate will bring several successful two-year-olds into opposition. I like the chance of Bachelor's Bard, who was narrowly beaten by Yesta at Chepstow. There is reason for fancying Paper Boy and Probus II., but my first choice must be BACHELOR'S BARD.

In the Tottenham Welter Plate

will come into action again. He has been the centre of a number of sensations as a racehorse in the past. His task here is much less severe than many he has essayed previously, and I think he will beat False Point to gain another victory.

WITTICISM

is a good mount for an apprentice rider, and the seven-year-old will probably win the Apprentices' Handicap.

At Doncaster the chief event is the Harewood Handicap, which is worth a thousand sovs.

VERMEIL II.

has 9st. to carry, but is a good three-year-old. He is not a great way removed from classic form, and, although the opposition will be strong, I think he will win.

LONDON BETTING

BAHRAM SLIGHTLY EASIER

PRY II. BEST BACKED OF THE OUTSIDERS

H.H. Aga Khan's three colts, Bahram, Hairan and Theft, still dominate the betting on the Derby. At last night's Victoria Club call-over on the race 100 to 8 was offered bar the three. Bahram, who, at the previous call-over, was at 11 to 8 on, maintains his market status as a hot favourite, but is slightly easier at evens. His chance is still considered to be so outstanding that the bookmakers offered 10 to 1 bar him.

There was some spirited betting, and the various candidates were backed to win £48,000 in the aggregate. The biggest business concerned the favourite, upon whom £11,000 was invested at evens, that rate still being on offer. Hairan was firm at 10 to 1, £3,000 to £300 being laid, and Sea Bequest was in demand at £1,000 to £70 eight times, leaving 100 to 8 offered.

Field Trial also was supported to win £8,000 at 15 to 1, Fairhaven £8,000 at 28 to 1, and First Son £6,000. Of the longer priced candidates only Pry II. was in any request, and was backed to win £4,000 at 80 to 1. Prices:—

PHŒNIX PARK TO-DAY

Marie Antoinette May Win the Brooke Plate

CONSIDERING the hard state in which the various training grounds are at present, the average of runners for the Phœnix Park meeting this afternoon must be considered very satisfactory. For the Brooke Plate eight horses have been declared as runners, and with such winners as Bachelor, Dangan, and Marie Antoinette coming into opposition, the race should be an attractive one. Ballyvaughan, from Brackenstown, and Lisvara, the sole representative of P. Behan's stable, will be appearing for the first time, so little is known of their merits.

Tote Double on Fourth and Fifth Races.

MARIE ANTOINETTE

gave a convincing display when winning over the course last month, and, while regarding Bachelor and Dangan as dangerous rivals, the vote goes to Marie Antoinette.

LOW SCORING IN ENGLAND

Tourists' Seventh Victory : Sussex Fail Badly

The South Africans easily beat Derbyshire at Ilkeston yesterday by 209 runs in a match that saw them on top practically throughout. There were occasions in both innings when the peak county looked like making a fight of it, but their case was really hopeless when they lost Alderman, Smith and Hodgkinson in the early stages of their second venture.

The left-hander, Smith, did give promise of achieving something big against the tourists, till he gave way to his tendency to play at balls better left alone. After him, Worthington and the elder Pope were the only batsmen to shape at all confidently against the varied South African attack, and Worthington was one of three victims claimed by the erratic Tomlinson in eight balls for 13 runs directly after lunch.

Worthington and Pope (A.) each made his best score of the season, and each hit a 6 off Bell, the fast medium bowler. Worthington gave a sound display for 100 minutes, having four 4's to his credit. Pope went to the crease when victory for the visitors was already in sight, and he went for the bowling with a proper disregard for correctness of technique. He and Higson put on 51 in half-an-hour for the ninth wicket, but Mitchell made no serious attempt to stay.

In the morning the South Africans raised their total of 168 to 200 before declaring. Siedle failed to get his 100 by 2 runs. Missed before scoring, Siedle, who batted for two hours and three-quarters, got the ball to the boundary eighteen times. Financially, the match was not a great success; for on the three days the receipts amounted to no more than £222 13s. 6d.

NEWMARKET HINTS FOR TO-DAY

At Doncaster

FRANCARDO

should give a forward display in the Arksey Selling Handicap.

We shall have several runners for the Rose Hill Plate, and should prove the best of them.

So well has Vermeil II. being acquitting himself in his gallops over the distance of the Harewood Handicap that, despite having to carry 9st., he will be well in the fighting line, but I doubt if he will beat

BOSTON WEST (nap).

If making the journey in the morning, would be difficult to beat in the Rossington Selling Handicap. In his absence, Wyke Lane may win.

GRANVILLE

ALLENSFORD (next best), who was beaten last week at York by the well-fancied Bossover colt, has an excellent chance of making amends in the Vyner Stakes.

THE DENTIST

will prove difficult to beat for the Durham Plate.

At Alexandra Park my fancies are:—3.30, Rhodanthe filly; 4.0, Clustine; 4.30, Probus II.; 5.0, Muscavado; 5.30, Witticism.

ATHLETICS

THE IRISH SCHOOLS' CHAMPIONSHIPS

Twenty-six colleges and schools have entered teams for the All-Ireland Colleges' and Schools' Championships at Croke Park to-day.

All the schools and colleges of the County Dublin Schools' Union will be strongly represented, but formidable opposition will be forthcoming from Rockwell College, Mount St. Joseph's, Roscrea; Christian College, Cork; Christian Brothers' School, Cashel; Presentation College, Cork; St. Jarlath's College, Tuam; St. Finian's College, Mullingar; Christian Brothers' School, Thurles; St. Therese College, Castlemartyr, and Athboy National School.

These championships have invariably been productive of first-class performances, and, with so much attention being now given to athletics in our educational establishments, the high standard attained last year is almost certain to be excelled, despite the hardness of the ground.

In addition to the schools' championships, the youths' titles will be competed for, and for these there are thirty entries from Leinster, Munster and Connaught, and several from Dublin University and University College, Dublin.

The time for starting is 2.30.

FLAT RACING SEASON.
Programmes for all Irish and English Meetings for the week from day of issue appear in "THE IRISH FIELD." Published every Saturday, Price 2d. Subscription Terms:—Half-year, 6/6; Quarter, 3/3 (post free). Head Office—11 D'Olier street, Dublin. —(Advt.)

BOWLING

ST. JAMES'S GATE, 123; IMPERIAL TOBACCO, 99.

St. James's Gate retained possession of the Shaw Cup by defeating Imperial Tobacco last night at Crumlin by 24 shots. G. W. Cooper and W. J. Flook were the only Imperial Tobacco skips to return winning cards. Imperial Tobacco did well up to the ten ends, when the score was 55-53 in favour of St. James's Gate; but the latter then went well in front to finish as stated. Skips and scores:—

St. James's Gate—S. Nolan 15, F. Cullen 31, L. G. Tyrrell 23, M. Richardson 27, C. Doherty 21, H. Salisbury 6.

Imperial Tobacco—G. W. Cooper 19, G. Walker 10, E. Bagot 11, W. J. Smith 12, E. Cooney 17, W. J. Flook 30.

MARPER CUP—FIRST ROUND

J. Fisher (Imperial Tobacco) beat R. Craig (Leinster) by 21 shots to 6.

TO-DAY'S FIXTURES

Senior League—James's Gate v. Imperial Tobacco; Clontarf v. Railway Union.

Junior League—Imperial Tobacco II. v. James's Gate.

I.B.A. Junior Cup (First Round)—Kenilworth v. Ewart's (Belfast), Grosvenor square; Woodvale v. Blackrock, Belfast.

All matches start at 3 o'clock on ground of first-named.

R. Lyall, the cross-country jockey, who was seriously injured at Brocklesby Steeplechases on April 6th, left Grimsby Hospital yesterday, having made a wonderful recovery. He has decided that he will not ride in public any more, but will settle down as a public trainer.

GAELIC GAMES

The Dublin Hurling Final at Croke Park

(By PAT'O.)

TWO football semi-finals at Croke Park to-morrow, to follow a hurling final of much interest between U.C.D and the Army, make the heaviest county programme which Dublin Committee have staged. O'Tooles and Clan na nGaedheals replay their football tie, which ended at 5 points each last Sunday, but it is expected that the county champions will spring from the earlier match—Garda (holders) v. Erin's Hope.

The Garda team includes 13 with high inter-county credentials. They will kick longer and carry the close rushes with better effect than Erin's Hope, yet it must be said that Garda have played indifferent matches.

A FORMIDABLE SIDE

With Russell back as leader of the forwards, I look for more thoughtful work around goal, and through the field Garda are a formidable side. Erin's Hope opened the League season indifferently, but when they knit together after Christmas they were a different proposition, and have improved in every game. Two victories over a good St. Lawrence (Howth) side have given the St. Patrick's College boys much confidence. Their goal position has troubled them, but they are the fastest fifteen in the championship. The weight and experience of the Garda may just swing the game in their favour through the last quarter, but it should be a fine struggle between fit sides.

Should the fine weather hold, I expect to see 10,000 at Croke Park by 11.30, when the hurling finalists will be taking the field. Army and U.C.D. won their earlier games decisively, and both are, of course, confident. Army Metro have more outstanding hurlers. From Forde out, their backs, wings and midfielders are all skilled. Their front lines have given every satisfaction and raise flags by unexpected methods. Whether their plans will succeed against U.C.D. remains to be seen. For all their heavy scoring, I am not enamoured of the O'Brien-Tumpane-Tobin line.

University College have left nothing to chance. They returned to training by midweek after their great struggle with the Faughs. All are reported fit, and the team may line out as in the second half last Sunday, when, with Boland in the attack and Bresnihan in the defence, they turned the tide.

TWO SPEEDY TEAMS

The Army strikes me as the faster of two very speedy teams, and they will be wound up to the hour. The lead will change more than once, but I think the team which takes the title from U.C.D. will be a superlative one.

In the provinces there are many interesting games. Galway should win well at Castlebar, though Connaire is a big loss in the defence. Dublin juniors and minors are trebly engaged, and I expect them to win all three matches at Mullingar and Portarlington. The McKenna Cup replay in Ulster will bring a big company to Enniskillen, where there is a good programme. Kildare junior hurlers are expected to extend Kilkenny at Nowlan Park. Between Athy and The Curragh a useful fifteen is available.

Much surprise was caused by the Munster Council's announcement that the Cork-Clare game in the senior hurling championship fixed for Limerick to-morrow was abandoned. When U.C.D. and Army qualified for the Dublin hurling final, Clare's selectors were in immediate difficulty, with six of their leading players dually engaged at venues over 100 miles apart. This is the first big occasion on which the operation of the non-resident rule led to serious difficulty. The Clare hurlers have used the declaration rule to a greater extent than any other county. When the Dublin Board refused to entertain a postponement of their final, Clare apparently decided not to field a mediocre team against Cork. The whole position will come up for decision at to-morrow's special meeting of the Munster Council. There is much disappointment in Limerick City, where extensive preparations were made for a big influx of people.

For the Leinster chair, vacated by Mr. R. O'Keeffe, there is likely to be a lively election. Messrs. Sean Gibbons, T.D., Kilkenny; Sean Robbins, of Offaly, and P. McDonald, Dublin, are nominated, and the vote is expected to run close should all go forward.

INTER-DRAPERY HOUSE FOOTBALL

CLERY'S 4-5 LEE'S 1-1

At Parnell Park. By beating Lee's in a game in which they were always the better team, Clery's gained their first victory in the competition. They scored a goal (Dolan) and two points (Daly) before Clancy goaled for Lee's. In the second period Connolly added three goals and a point, and Crean and Coakley a point each for Clery's. From a free, Scraggs pointed for Lee's.

CIVIL SERVICE FOOTBALL.

Dept. of Defence, 1-9; Land Commission, 0-4.

LAWN TENNIS

GIRLS' SCHOOLS' CUP

NIGHTINGALE HALL 4
HILLCOURT SCHOOL 1

Last year's finalists met in the second round of the Girls Schools' Tennis Cup at Hillcourt yesterday, and the holders once again proved successful. Hillcourt had none of last year's players on this occasion, and the newcomers did well against Miss O. Poole and Miss B. Lombard, who have been mainly responsible for Nightingale Hall's success during the last two years.

SINGLES—Miss O Poole (Nightingale Hall) beat Miss V. Whitaker (Hillcourt)—6-1, 6-1; Miss B. Lombard (Nightingale Hall) beat Miss S. Thom (Hillcourt)—6-1, 6-1; Miss G. Good (Nightingale Hall) lost to Miss S. Geoghegan (Hillcourt)—2-6, 6-2, 2-6.

DOUBLES—Misses O. Poole and B. Lombard (Nightingale Hall) beat Misses V. Whitaker and S. Thom (Hillcourt)—6-1, 6-1; Misses G. Good and J. Hutchinson (Nightingale Hall) beat Misses J. Dove and S. Geoghegan (Hillcourt)—6-0, 6-4.

TRINITY DEFEATED AT EDINBURGH

In the concluding match of their Scottish tour Dublin University lost to Edinburgh University by six matches to three. Edinburgh proved stronger both in singles and doubles, only Sandys and Hutchison winning for Trinity in the former. In the first singles Sandys ran away with the first set, MacGibbon being quite off form. In the second set, however, he played some very good tennis to lead by four games to two, but then Sandys, becoming very accurate and aggressive in long base-line duels, took the next four games for the match. Hutchison had a decisive win over Hales, who could not cope with the former's forehand drives. Results:—

Singles—R. J. Sandys beat A. A. MacGibbon, 6-0, 6-4; K. A. Sloan lost to C. C. Ma, 4-6, 3-6; M. G. Henson last to W. A. A. Kerr, 2-6, 2-6; J. B. Farrell lost to P. M. Kirkwood, 4-6, 0-6; S. C. Hutchison beat A. C. Hales, 6-3, 6-3; H. T. Douglas lost to W. S. Watson, 2-6, 1-6.

Doubles—Sandys and Sloan beat MacGibbon and Hales, 6-4, 6-2; Henson and Farrell lost to Ma and Kerr, 6-4, 8-10, 8-10; Hutchison and Douglas lost to Kirkwood and Watson, 3-6, 4-6.

AUSTIN AND PERRY WIN

H. W. Austin and F. J. Perry won their matches in the quarter-finals of the French championships at Paris yesterday, the former beating R. Menzel by 1-6, 10-8, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2, and Perry defeating C. Boussus 6-1, 6-0, 6-4. In the women's singles Miss Scriven beat Mlle. Rollin Couquerque 6-0, 6-3.

Financial News & Notes

DUBLIN STEADY

RAILS FIRMER

CARROLL ORD. BETTER

Trading on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday was of small dimensions, due to political developments on the Continent, and consequently there was little or no outstanding feature.

The National Loans were well maintained, but Land Bonds eased slightly. War Loan held 105⅝, and Banks were unaltered.

Guinness Ord. hardened to 145s. 6d., but elsewhere Cables "A" Ord. declined to 23¼.

There was a little buying of Home Rails. Great Northern Ord. gained over a point, and the Pref. two points. Great Southern Pref. moved up to 31½.

Carroll Ord. rose 1s., and Switzer Ord. and May Roberts Pref. inclined higher. Burke Deb., Irish Sugar Pref., and Irish Dunlop Pref. lost fractions.

Tobaccos and Textiles recorded small losses. Dunlop Rubbers, Imperial Chemicals and Unilever Ord. all improved, and Swedish Match "B" jumped to 22s. strong buyers.

LONDON ACTIVE

GILT-EDGED SUPPORTED

Notwithstanding sharp movements in the Foreign Exchange Market following on the fall of the French Government, the London Stock Markets after a quiet opening yesterday were inclined to show resistance to foreign political and financial disturbances, as fears regarding the gold bloc currencies tended to divert money into British securities. In consequence conditions became more active and several good features developed while the general tone was steady.

Sentiment in the gilt-edged market was distinctly brighter, there being little disposition to take much notice of talk of possible big realisations in connection with capital repayments. At the commencement prices were easier, but influential support carried several issues above their previous levels. In the Foreign Bond Market Far Eastern descriptions were in most instances marked down owing to reported political trouble between Japan and China. French Fours after being easier rallied sharply and finally were ½ better at 24½.

British Rails again lacked support, and for this reason several stocks were quoted at slightly lower rates. Foreign Rails were generally quiet, but Cordoba Central 1st Debs. came in for fresh support and added a point to 29, while Antofagasta were also inquired for and at the finish were ½ higher.

While the turn over in the Industrial Market failed to reach recent proportions there were again many interesting features. The Iron and Steel group generally remained in favour, but the rise in Wm. Cory was not maintained owing to reports of the merger being denied. Aircraft shares were another active spot, and, while Rolls Royce were prominent, other issues displayed firmness. Motors provided several features though Singers weakened, on talk of the company's capital reorganisation proposals, which are anticipated in the near future. Elsewhere the fall in the guilder led to a demand for Unilevers, while General Electric were bought on expectations of a good dividend, and Swedish Match "B" closed strong on talk of a coming issue of capital now that negotiations with International Match Corporation have been settled.

There was a moderate revival of interest in the Mining groups. Kaffirs were in fair demand on French as well as local account, and generally improved. West Africans were favourably influenced by the better tendency in the Kaffir market and Thursday's improvement continued. Buying of Oil shares were still in progress, but on a smaller scale, and, while the leaders generally made fresh advances, the upward tendency was to some extent offset by profit-taking.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET

GENERAL TONE SATISFACTORY

Although the general tone of the Industrial market yesterday was described as satisfactory, prices moved in irregular fashion. This was attributed to a certain amount of week-end profit-taking on the part of short-term operators. Afternoon advices from Wall street were satisfactory, and prices for the trans-Atlantic counters improved under the lead of Nickels.

"Emmies" became a rather uncertain market again, and gave way 9d. Bairds, however, came in for renewed attention, the Prefd. and Defd. advancing.

Cable and Wireless Stocks received fresh support, the Pref. closing ⅝ better and the "A" Ord. ¼ harder.

In the Cinema section, Unions continued in demand and further advanced 3s. 9d.

ROLLS-ROYCE PROMINENT.

Rolls-Royce continued prominent among Aviation and kindred descriptions, rising at one time to a new record, but they receded later, which still left them 1/16 up on balance. Handley Page Participating Prefs. came into renewed demand and put on 9d.

In the Motor group there was renewed buying of Leylands, which advanced. Raleighs came into request following the announcement of an interim dividend of 4 per cent., against 3 per cent., and the price rose 2s.

In the Coal section a good deal of attention continued to centre on Wm. Cory and Powell Duffryn, but both left off easier.

Iron and Steel descriptions again made an irregular showing, although business continued on a fair scale.

Continental buying was reported for Unilevels, among Provision and Catering shares. The English issue and the N.V. went ahead.

Among Textiles further profit-taking was seen in Bradford Dyers, which lost 6d. The Pref. were, however, a shade better, as were Coats.

Rayon issues proved quieter.

PROFIT-TAKING.

Breweries generally were subject to a little week-end profit-taking. Mitchell and Butlers reacted, and Guinness, Watney Defd., South African Ord., and Walker Cain all shed a few pence.

In the Tobacco group, Godfrey Phillips came in for further attention, and closed 1s. higher. "Bats" rallied, but Gallahers gave way, and slightly lower prices ruled for Copes and Cantabs.

The Miscellaneous section remained rather quiet, with movements generally of little consequence. Swedish Match B, however, provided an exceptionally bright spot, meeting with good support on further consideration of the international match agreement, and finishing 2s. 6d. to the good.

OILS SUPPORTED

Oil shares finished the week in good style, the market being strong from start to finish and advances in prices being general omong the leaders. Encouragement was derived from the increased dividend announced by the Anglo-Persian Oil Co., from the strong showing made by the Burmah oil report, and the higher distributions announced by the Royal Dutch and Shell Companies, from which it is clear that, while conditions in the oil industry are not so favourable as could be wished, there has been distinct improvement. Virtually the only dull spot in the market was Apex (Trinidad). A fairly large line of these shares has been overhanging the market for some days which have proved difficult of absorption, and further selling was in progress to-day. Although it is believed that the bulk of the stock on offer has now been taken, the shares finished with a decline of 7½d. at 27s. 3d.

RUBBERS UNINTERESTING

Quiet conditions characterised the Rubber Share Market yesterday, and, while most issues were well maintained, a few finished slightly lower. Anglo-Dutch were a good feature and added 6d. to 23s. 9d., while Rubber Trust and Sedenak gained the turn. The only adverse changes of note were losses of 6d. in both Golden Hope and General Ceylon. The commodity section opened weak, and, although steadying later in the day, spot rubber declined, selling at 5 11/16d. to 5⅞d. per lb. United Kingdom stocks of rubber are estimated to have increased by 1,100 tons during the past week.

BELFAST

Belfast Exchange firm. 3½ p.c. War Loan changed hands at 105 7/16, 9/16, ¾ and ⅞; 3½ p.c. Conversion Loan at 108, 4½ p.c. Guaranteed Bonds at 115¼, and Local Loans at 96½. Belfast Corporation 5 p.c. 1946-56 stock rose ¼ to 116¼, being dealt in at that price. Belfast and County Down Railway Ord. was marked at 5, Great Northern Railway 4 p.c. Guaranteed stock brought 51½, and transactions were also marked at 51 and 50¾. In Industrials Belfast Ropework Ordinary repeated 24s., British Celanese Second Pref. were done at 19s. 9d., and Courtaulds at 57s. 9d. Harland and Wolff Pref. were recorded at 4s. 10½d., and Vickers at 12s. 11¼d., Imperial Chemical Ord. changed hands at 35s. 1½d., Nickels at 28¼ and 28 7/16, Turner and Newalls at 56s. 6d., Richard Thomas at 6s. 5¼d., and O.K. Bazaars 1929 "A" Ord. at 22s. 6d.

LONDON MINING MARKET

"KAFFIRS" STILL RISING

Business in the Mining market yesterday was again on a small scale, the collapse of the French Government and the uncertainty regarding the monetary position in the United States creating a feeling of uneasiness. At the same time, there was nowhere any great uneasiness regarding the outlook for the Mining market, where business was of fair dimensions. Kaffirs again gave quite a good account of themselves, and the improvement noticeable in the preceding day made further progress. The Johannesburg market remained closed, and little support was forthcoming from Paris, but the leading counters were being quietly picked up on this side. Among the Producers Crown Mines were prominent and further rose sharply, and Daggafontein forged ahead.

Little change was observable in the Rhodesian department, but Chartered came in for some support and moved up. Luiri stood out prominently. A late inquiry for Roan lifted the price sharply.

A distinctly better tone was observable in the West African market, and business showed signs of expansion. Ashanti Goldfields moved up, and Gold Coast Selection and Bibiani also received support, while Kwahu registered a substantial gain.

A distinctly better tendency was observable in the Australian department, and business was quite brisk.

With the metal price easier, Tin descriptions were irregular.

A rise in the price of silver helped several of the Producing Mines, among which Burma Corporation and Trepca came into some demand.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

Irish National Assurance Company, Limited

The fifteenth annual general meeting of the company was held at College Green, Dublin, Senator Padraic O Maille (chairman) presiding. The total income for the year ended 1934 from all sources amounted to £186,259, representing an increase of £44,538 over the previous year. Claims paid during the year amounted to £89,749, and, after making provision for unexpired risks and for expenses and claims outstanding at the 31st December, there remained a balance of £1,123 on profit and loss account, which had been carried forward. The total insurance funds stood at £300,679, and the total assets at £382,337. Despite the conditions generally prevailing throughout the country, Mr. O Maille pointed out that the company had a most successful year. He was very pleased with the continued growth of the company's income and with the ever-increasing confidence of the insuring public in Irish insurance enterprise, notwithstanding the fact that the insurance industry in the Saorstat received neither protection nor preference from the Government, and had to rely solely on its individual recommendation to the people.

Nova Scotia 4½ p.c. Stock

The Government of the Province of Nova Scotia announces its intention to exercise the option contained in the prospectus of issue, dated April 17, 1914, to redeem at par and accrued interest the outstanding £760,000 4½ per cent. Consolidated Stock, 1934-1964, on December 2 next. The stock stands around par. The inscribed stock and bearer certificates will be redeemed at the National Provincial Bank, 15 Bishopsgate, E.C., and forms to enable the holders to give instructions as to the disposal of the warrant for the redemption money will be posted in due course. The Province also has outstanding £164,000 3 per cent. Stock, 1949, and £650,000 3½ per cent. Inscribed Redeemable Stock, 1954.

Bank of France Gold Loss

The return of the Bank of France for the week ended May 24 reveals a loss in the Bank's gold holdings of 3,166,389,000 francs (approximately £42,218,520) at current rates.

Ariston Gold Mines (1929)

Following on persistent rumours of shaft trouble, the mine manager, in reply to inquiry, cables that there is no truth whatever in these rumours, and that sinking of the new shaft is proceeding normally.

Big Profits from Beer

A further substantial increase in profits is reported by the directors of Marston, Thompson and Evershed, the Burton-on-Trent brewers, the net profit, after making all provisions, being nearly £20,000 up at £113,739 for the year ended March 31 last, compared with £93,873 for 1933-'34. The Ordinary dividend for the year is, however, left unchanged at 15 per cent., tax free, by a final payment of 7½ per cent. The appropriations again include £15,000 to the contingencies reserve, and £5,000 is transferred to the income tax reserve. The carry forward is increased by £16,371.

Big French Gold Shipment to New York

Gold to the value of $32,000,000 is reported to have been engaged on Wednesday for shipment to New York from Paris. This brings the total since May 8 to $220,000,000 (£40,000,000).

U.S. Treasury's "Test" Bond Offer

The U.S. Treasury's "test" offer of $100,000,000 of 3 per cent. Treasury Bonds was sold yesterday to the highest bidders at an average rate of $103.12. The bids totalled $270,000,000. It was reported on May 27 that this Treasury "test" offering to the highest bidder was being watched in financial circles with more than usual interest, the operation, if successful, being considered as a possible important factor in the financing of the huge work relief programme.

The De Beers Scheme

The London office of De Beers Consolidated Mines, Ltd., yesterday issued an announcement concerning the Preference shares scheme in reply to criticisms. The statement says: The board wishes to emphasise that its proposals were made at the request, and with the approval, of the largest Preference shareholders. The whole scheme was fully discussed with these shareholders, who informed the board that they agreed that it was fair and equitable and in the best interests of the company and that as such it was acceptable to them, and, in their opinion, would be welcomed by a majority of the smaller of the Preference shareholders.

The statement adds: In consequence the board is not prepared to put forward any scheme other than that already published, or to suggest amendments to that scheme. It has neither the means nor the wish to coerce Preference shareholders. The decision as to whether the scheme shall be proceeded with lies with the Preference shareholders themselves at a meeting to be called in due course. Notice will shortly be given of the redemption of the existing £2,414,600 of 5½ per cent. Redeemable Sterling Debentures.

Privileges for American Copper Industry

It is understood that the copper industry, through the Copper Code Authority—which is still functioning with the approval of members—is working on a bill to be introduced in Congress to provide for special treatment for the industry. It is expected that a relaxation of the Anti-Trust Laws will be asked for on the grounds that the industry is "a natural resource industry," with wasting assets. Therefore, it should be permitted to co-operate in the interests of conservation. Should legislation materialise, one of the important results would be the stronger position of American producers in the world pact.

THE MONEY MARKET

KEEN DEMAND FOR GOLD

There was a keen demand for the £727,000 of gold available in the bullion market yesterday, and, in spite of the weakness of the franc, the price was unchanged at 142s. per fine oz. This was because of the bigger premium which buyers were willing to pay over the parity level. In the case of the franc the premium rose from 1s. 9d. to 2s. 4d. on a rate of exchange of 75¼, while the premium on the dollar was 1s. 7½d. on a rate of 4.95¼, as compared with 1s. 1d. yesterday.

The Bank of England announced the purchase of £24,469 in bar gold.

Silver recovered ⅛d. further on Indian buying to 33 7/16d. per oz. for spot and 33 11/16d. for forward delivery. On the Metal Exchange fine silver was dealt in at 36¼d.-⅜d. for cash and 36½d.-⅝d. for three months forward.

Being the last day of the month money was more wanted, but borrowers were usually able to obtain accommodation until to-day at ½ per cent. Discount rates were unchanged, fine three months' bills being 7/16 per cent. and the new Treasuries ½ per cent. Some big disbursements will be made to-day, including £34,000,000 interest on the 3½ per cent. War Loan, while other payments bring the total up to £45,777,000.

Applications were received at the Bank of England yesterday for £40,000,000 Treasury bills. Tenders dated Monday to Friday of next week at £99 17s. 4d. get about 97 per cent., above in full; tenders dated Saturday at £99 17s. 5d. and above were allotted in full. These figures indicate an average rate of about 10s. 5d per cent., or about the same as for last week's bills.

Feverish activity in the London Foreign Exchange Market yesterday followed the news of the resignation of the French Cabinet. The market opened with business at a complete standstill, as under the influence of heavy offerings the franc weakened rapidly against sterling. Within a few minutes, however, control operations were brought into play, both in London and Paris, and these activities dominated the market during the remainder of the day. Practically all the francs thrown upon the market were absorbed by the authorities, and the franc remained almost stationary against the £, as well as in terms of the dollar until the close of business. Meanwhile the other European gold currencies showed fresh signs of weakness, the Dutch guilder being so heavily sold that the currency weakened beyond the gold points to Paris and to New York. Movements in forward rates indicated that anxiety for the franc, as well as for other European gold currencies, was on the increase.

COMPANY MEETING.

THE NINETEEN TWENTY NINE INVESTMENT TRUST, LTD.

WELCOME RECOVERY IN INCOME

DIVIDEND RAISED

The sixth ordinary general meeting of the Nineteen Twenty Nine Investment Trust, Ltd., was held yesterday at Winchester House, London, E.C.

The Right Hon. the Viscount Bearsted, M.C. (the chairman), in the course of his speech, said—It is satisfactory to note a recovery in our income from investments after three years of successive declines. The somewhat lean times through which we have been in the past have been an experience common to all investment trust companies. Now at last it appears that a welcome turn for the better has been made. The Times recently pointed out that of 59 companies which issued their reports during the first quarter of 1935 53 reported larger earnings, and only in six cases were earnings smaller. The combined net revenues of those 59 companies showed an increase over the previous year representing 6.7 per cent., the first increase after a continuous fall extending over three and a half years. The percentage increase in our net revenue over the preceding year was 14.2 per cent. This excludes the figure of £4,532 odd which we have been able to bring into our accounts this year as a result of reserves made against a possible tax liability in former years, pending final judgment of what is known as the Grange Trust case. Our total income amounts to £41,017, against £32,474 last year, and our net revenue, after all expenses (which only amount to 0.47 per cent. on our issued capital and borrowed moneys), comes out at £35,995, as against £27,551, an increase of some £8,444. The figures, of course, are not directly comparable, as more than half the increase is accounted for by the £4,532 of reserves which we have brought in, and which I have just mentioned.

There is a disposable balance of £17,552, as compared with £8,105 last year. Your directors have decided to apply £7,006 of this amount in wiping out the old loss on realisation of securities, and propose to recommend a dividend on the Ordinary Stock of 2 per cent., against 1 per cent. paid last year, carrying forward £4,290, as compared with £4,987 brought in. The dividend we propose to pay has again been fully earned during the year, and, in fact, it would have been possible to declare a larger dividend than 2 per cent., but your directors thought it more prudent to entirely eliminate the loss on realisation of securities, which appeared in last year's balance sheet at £25,790.

REALISATION OF SECURITIES

I think the most satisfactory feature of our accounts is the disappearance of the figure of £25,790, representing loss on realisation of securities. Largely as a result of your Board's decision to curtail the German investments, a loss of £25,790 appeared in last year's balance sheet. This year, as a result of the profits, less losses on such securities as we have sold, together with underwriting commissions received during the year, we have been able to reduce the loss to £7,006, and, with the amount applied from our revenue appropriation account, this latter figure has now been entirely written off. That it has been entirely eliminated within the space of twelve months is, frankly, more than I had hoped, but is no less satisfactory on that account.

We again publish our usual list of investments, which number 303, against 267 last year. In comparison with last year we have about 1 per cent. more, or a total of 66½ per cent. of our money invested in industrial undertakings and about the same percentage less this year in Government securities and shipping. Geographically, the principal changes reflect a movement towards Great Britain and the Dominions. The percentage within the Empire now totals 45.98 per cent., as against 40.36 per cent. last year. We have less in the U.S.A and the Continent of Europe—39.41 per cent., against 45.34 per cent. During the year we have increased our holdings of equity shares by about 3½ per cent. and reduced our investments in bonds and preference shares.

With regard to our depreciation, this works out at 23.52 per cent., but this year we have made a change in the method of its calculation. Had we carried out the same procedure as in the past, the depreciation would have totalled 23.42 per cent., as at the 31st March, 1935, compared with 25 per cent. as at the 31st March, 1934. It may be said that our depreciation shows little improvement over that of the previous year. I think the fact that the reduction is not larger is disappointing. I would, however, point out that the 31st March last happened to be a most unfavourable day on which to value securities, prices on the London Stock Exchange being then at around the lowest levels for the year. Were a valuation to be taken out to-day, I think we should be able to show a quite considerable improvement.

DIFFICULTIES OF INVESTMENT.

In addressing you at these meetings each year I have stressed the many difficulties encountered by Investment Trust Companies and the ordinary investor alike, and I would again emphasise that those difficulties are no less numerous to-day. Owing to the prevailing cheapness of money, a new development has arisen which all investors must regard with concern, as it is depriving them of a considerable amount of their income. I refer to the present and growing tendency on the part of companies and public bodies enjoying first-class credit status either to convert their debenture debts on to a lower interest-bearing basis, or to repay them at the first possible opportunity. This creates a new problem for those controlling investment or trust funds, as it means either the acceptance of a security bearing a lower rate of interest or re-investment of the money repaid in other securities, the yields of which are already at unprecedented and, I would add, almost unattractive levels.

Looking back over the past year, it is apparent that such improvement as there has been has been almost entirely due to the increased activity in this country. Confidence here has been restored, unemployment has declined, and trade generally has improved; and I would say this, in so far as this country only is concerned, the outlook is set fair. Going further afield to prophesy would be folly, and I would only say that any improvement in the political and economic conditions of the Continent of Europe, the U.S.A., and the South American countries would be long overdue. An increase in international, as distinct from national, trade would be of material benefit to the world, and to your company in particular, as such of our investments as we have outside the Empire, and we still have a fair percentage, have shown little, if any, improvement over the past year.

The increase in the capital value of nearly all securities, to which I referred last year, appears to have been justified, for the year 1934-35 has brought a welcome improvement in our revenue position. Whilst I must remind you that we have a long way to go before we can make good the depreciation on our investments, and many of our holdings are still not producing revenue, there are grounds for reasonable optimism as to the prospects of 1935-36.

We have a powerful reserve in that we have not yet made any Debenture issue and now have no intangible assets to write off. We have weathered three and a half stormy years, and, with our balance sheet materially strengthened during the past year and our borrowing powers intact, we can, I think, look forward to the future with quiet confidence.

The Chairman—I now beg to move that the directors' report and statement of accounts be, and are hereby, received and adopted, and that a dividend for the year to the 31st March, 1935 at the rate of 2 per cent. per annum, less income tax at the rate of 4s. 4.3406d in the £, on the Ordinary stock be and is hereby declared payable to Ordinary stockholders on the register of members as at the close of business on the 23rd May, 1935.

The report and accounts were unanimously adopted.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

DEPRESSION FOLLOWS ROOSEVELT'S N.R.A. STATEMENT

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Friday.

Operators and investors were more in a buying than a selling mood over the greater part of to-day's session. But Mr. Roosevelt's remarks on the N.R.A. fiat had a distinctly unsettling influence on the market, with the result that the final prices were slightly on the lower side. Sales totalled 1,120,000 shares.

The trend of the market in the afternoon was chiefly upward, leadership of the advance being taken by Minings, Utilities, and Oils. But operations remained lacking in any conspicuous feature. In the late dealings renewed selling was encountered on Mr. Roosevelt's comments on the Supreme Court's ruling as a result of which the market closed easy.

Considerable interest was aroused on Wall Street by the increase in the Netherlands Bank rate. Opinion in American banking quarters is mixed as to the ability of the gold bloc to adhere to the gold standard.

Call money remained at ¼ per cent., and the outside rate was unchanged at ¼ per cent. Prime paper was quoted at ¾ to 1 per cent. Open market discount rates were unaltered.

Sterling exchange opened 2⅛c. higher at 4.95⅛, and touched 4.95¼ during the morning. The rate dropped to 4.95 in the afternoon, but closed ⅛c. higher compared with the previous close at 4.93⅛.

Silver was 1⅜c. higher at 74½c.

HEAVY FALL IN COTTON

COTTON on spot closed quiet and 60 points down at 11.40. Futures opened steady at 3 points up to 1 point down. The market was inactive to-day, with traders awaiting developments in Washington and in France. Prices later declined on heavy general selling, on a statement attributed by Mr. Roosevelt that cotton might go down to 5 cents if the agricultural programme had to be abandoned owing to the Supreme Court's decision in connection with the N.R.A. Quotations were further depressed under continued heavy general selling, and the close was easy at 67 to 61 points less. At New Orleans spot closed 60 points down at 11.40. Futures opened 3 points up to unchanged, and closed 63 to 48 points lower.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS

Associated Newspapers.—Net profit for the year £114,527 higher at £924,153. A total of 26 2-3 per cent. has been paid on the Deferred shares, against 20 per cent. in the previous year. A sum of £100,000 has been transferred to reserve for contingencies. Last year £150,000 was placed to reserve account. The carry forward is increased from £589,925 to £609,655.

Associated Chocolate Manufacturers.—Dividend of 3¾ per cent. on the Ordinary Shares. (Same.)

Anglo-Burma Tin Co.—Interim dividend of 10 per cent. (against 7½ per cent.).

Allied Ironfounders.—Dividend on the 7 per cent. Preference Shares for the half-year at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, less tax; also final dividend on the Ordinary Shares of 5 per cent. (actual), less tax, making 12½ per cent. for the year (against 7½ per cent.).

A. J. White.—Final payment of 7½ per cent., making 12½ per cent. (Same.)

Bengal-Nagpur Railway Co.—Interim half-yearly dividend at the rate of 5/- per £100 Ordinary Stock, making, together with the guaranteed interest of £1 15/-, a distribution of £2, less tax.

Barrett and Pomeroy Bakers.—Dividend of 2½ per cent. for past 14 months.

Bluemel Bros.—Interim dividend of 6d. per share on the Ordinary shares (same).

British Columbia Power Corporation.—Dividend of 37 cents per share on Class A shares for the current quarter.

British Electric Traction.—After providing for income tax, the net profit of the British Electric Traction Co. for the year to March 31 last amounted to £299,502, an increase of £37,476. The dividend on the Defd. Ord. stock is again 5 per cent. The directors recommend that, as in previous years, a 10 per cent. capital bonus be distributed to the Defd. Ord. stockholders in the fully-paid Defd. Ord. shares of £1 each, such shares to be converted subsequently into stock. The reserve account remains at £520,000, and investments, including capitalised value of shares, now stand at £5,775,617, against £5,836,113.

Cope Brothers.—The accounts show a net profit for the past year of £44,656, after allowing for depreciation and taxation, against £34,629. A new allocation this year is the transfer of £5,000 to property reserve. After paying the larger bonus, £56,800 will be carried forward, against £55,073 brought in.

Crompton Parkinson.—Interim dividend of 6 per cent., same as a year ago, but ranks on a larger capital created by the share bonus distribution last year.

Central Perak Rubber.—Final dividend of 2½ per cent., less tax, making a total of 5 per cent. for 1934. (Last dividend in 1929.)

Dental Manufacturing.—Dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, less tax (against 6 per cent.).

George Wimpey and Co.—Dividend of 3 per cent. on the 6 per cent. shares for the current half-year.

Goodyear Tyre and Rubber Co. (Great Britain).—Net profit £164,811, against £167,654 a year ago. Together with other receipts of £5,027, there is a total of £169,838, against £177,045 last year, and the net profit is £143,908, after Debenture interest and proportion of expenses and discount written off, compared with £109,912 last year. Dividends totalling 15 per cent., tax free, were paid during the year, against 10 per cent., tax free, in 1933; and £174,548 is carried forward, against £156,640.

Madingley Malay Rubber Estates.—Dividend of 3 per cent., less tax, in respect of the year ended 28th February, 1935 (against 2½ per cent.).

Marston, Thompson and Evershed.—Profits have risen during the past year from £93,872 to £113,739. Last year's figure included £15,307 from contingencies reserve to meet loss due to duty reduction. The year's dividend is to be maintained at 15 per cent., free of tax. Reserve for contingencies again receives £15,000, and tax reserve, £5,000.

Second Co-operative Investment Trust.—Accounts show a net revenue, after providing for all expenses, interest, Preference dividend, and income tax, of £15,816. Interim dividend of 1 per cent. (actual) on the Ordinary Shares. (Same.) Forward, £10,610.

Tredegar Iron and Coal Co.—Dividend of 2½ per cent., tax free, on both classes of shares for the year. This compared with 3 per cent., tax free, last year.

Tarun Malay Rubber Estates.—Dividend of 5 per cent. (actual) for 1934 (against nil).

Trawlers White Sea and Grimsby.—Dividend of 2½ per cent. for past financial year (against 5 per cent.).

United Tobacco Companies (South).—Usual quarterly interim of 2½ per cent. on the Ord. and Deferred capital.

United British Oilfields of Trinidad.—Ordinary dividend of 3 per cent. (first since 1929).

LIVERPOOL.—WHEAT—American and Argentine markets were closed yesterday owing to holidays, while Winnipeg finished dearer, and forward deliveries of wheat here under a natural reaction, and bullish Australian news showed a considerable advance during early trading. Then prices fluctuated fairly, according to the offerings, in the end being slightly under best, though marking a substantial gain on the day, American late afternoon cables being encouraging. C.i.f. parcels neglected and nominally unchanged to 1½d. dearer. No. 1 Manitoba June quoted 30/10½, Rosario-Santa Fe (63½lbs.) afloat 23/3 per quarter. A part-cargo Western Australian afloat sold at 26/3 per quarter. C.i.f. parcels River Plate maize July sold at 16/1½, September 16/4½ per quarter. Wheat on the spot firm and dearer. MAIZE—Spot parcels quiet at 3/8½ to 3/9 per cental for River Plate. FLOUR quiet at late rates. Graded wheat futures opened ⅛d. to ½d. per cental dearer, then varied fairly as buyers or sellers preponderated, one time, showing 1½d. to 1½d. advance over last night's market, finishing steady at 1d. to 1½d. rise on the day. Values—July 5/3¼, October 5/4, December 5/4½ per cental. Sales, 300 loads.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON.—In the weekly revision of prices in Manchester no quotable change was made in values of any description, but the market for Continental here remains firm and 2/- to 3/- per cwt. premium on the official quotations still obtainable for Danish. Danish 92/- to 100/-, Swedish and Dutch 88/- to 94/-, Polish 84/- to 90/-, American bellies 61/- to 67/-. Canadian Wiltshire 83/- to 85/-, Cumberland 76/- to 78/-, and Irish firm at 91/- to 96/- per cwt. HAMS steady, and in moderate demand at late rates. Shoulders scarce and nominal. LARD on the spot in moderate demand at late prices for all descriptions. CHEESE quiet and unchanged. BUTTER less active, and Colonial 1/- lower at 82/- to 86/- per cwt.; New Zealand, finest 81/- to 85/-, first grade and also Australian. EGGS show no change. Irish Free State extra selected 8/9, selected 8/6, mediums 7/6, duck 8/6; Northern specials 12/-, standard 11/-, selected 9/9, duck 9/-; English new laid standard 11/- per 120.

LONDON.—BUTTER—The market steadily improved and prices advanced for most descriptions. At this season of the year European offerings are an important factor, and a better idea will be gained during the next few weeks regarding the weight of prospective supplies. Quotations:—New Zealand finest salted 81/- to 82/-, first grade 80/- to 81/-, finest unsalted 80/- to 82/-, first grade 78/-; Australian finest salted 80/- to 81/-, first grade 78/- to 79/-, second 76/- to 77/-, pastry 72/- to 73/-, finest unsalted 80/- to 81/-, first grade 78/-, second 76/-, pastry 72/- to 73/-; Irish creamery salted 80/- to 82/-; Danish 98/- per cwt.; Dutch rolls 9/- to 9/6 per dozen lbs., English 1/0½ per lb. CHEESE—A dull and featureless market resulted, and demand fails to keep pace with current arrivals, so that stocks are not being depleted fast enough to encourage any improvement. BACON remained firm, with a steady demand; official quotations were unaltered. English 93/- to 97/-, Irish 88/- to 98/-, Danish 91/- to 95/-, Canadian 82/- to 86/-, Dutch 88/- to 92/-, Swedish 89/- to 92/-, Polish 82/- to 86/-, Latvian 85/- to 87/-, Lithuanian 83/- to 88/-, Estonian 85/- to 88/- per cwt. HAMS in demand, and market firm; English (as to weight) 125/- to 150/-, American short cut 90/- to 92/-, Canadian ditto 94/- per cwt. LARD firm, but quiet; American boxes 61/6 to 65/-, pails 69/6; cartons, 1lb. 68/-, ditto ½-lb. 70/-; Irish bladders 64/- to 74/-; Danish ditto 70/-, Dutch refined (boxes) 56/- per cwt. EGGS—Market maintains a firm tone, and a good demand prevails, with home production small; but Continental arrivals are on a large scale. Quotations—English (National marked) specials 13/- to 13/6, standard 11/6 to 12/-, medium 10/6 to 11/-; pullet eggs 9/- to 9/6, ordinary packing 9/6 to 10/9; Northern Ireland 18lb. 12/6, 17lb. 11/6 to 12/-, 15½lb. 10/6 to 11/-, 14lb. 9/3 to 9/6, small 8/- to 8/6, duck eggs 8/9; Dutch 8/-, all per 120.

MANCHESTER.—BUTTER—Continental makes rather quiet, but late rates maintained. Colonials firm, and Irish creameries are also held for full rates. Choicest qualities quoted:—Danish (special dairies extra) 97/- to 100/-, Swedish 90/- to 93/-, Dutch 78/- to 80/-, Latvian 80/- to 82/-, Esthonian 78/- to 80/-, Irish creameries 82/- to 84/-, New Zealand 83/- to 87/-, Australian 80/- to 86/-. BACON firm for all cures owing to restricted supplies, but no official change recorded in Irish, English or Continental. Irish 91/- to 96/-, English 88/- to 98/-, Danish 92/- to 102/-, Swedish 88/- to 96/-, Dutch 88/- to 96/-, Polish 83/- to 93/-. LARD quiet. English refined easier at 66/- boxes (ex works), but American about unchanged, 63/- to 65/-, according to brand. CHEESE market closed quiet for both Cheshire and Colonial. New Zealand white 44/- to 47/-, coloured 45/- to 48/-; Canadian nominal. EGGS firm at advanced prices. Irish Free State extra selected 9/-, selected 8/6, mediums 7/6, ducks 8/6; English selected 11/3 to 11/6, Northern Ireland nominal, Finnish 7/- to 9/-, Polish 6/6 to 7/6.

MANCHESTER MEAT.—Home-killed beef sides 6d. up to 7d., spring lambs around 1/-, small Cheviot 10½d., others up to 10d., ewes around 5½d., calves 6½d. up to 8½d., chilled beef hindquarters 4½d. to 6d., forequarters 3½d. to 4d., frozen ox hindquarters 4d., crops 3½d. Mutton—Wethers 3½d. to 4½d., ewes 3d. to 3½d., lambs (new season's) 5d. to 7½d. Pork—Australian 5½d. to 5⅜d.

MANCHESTER SALMON AND POULTRY.—Salmon and grilse in fair supply, and while the recent decline in prices has stimulated demand, there was a hardening tendency at the close of the week. Irish salmon quoted around 1/10, and grilse 1/8 per lb. Marketings of dead poultry have been sufficient for the quiet demand, but prices fairly steady. Irish and English chickens 1/- to 1/1, fowls 7d., ducklings 1/2 per lb.

DUBLIN FRUIT AND VEGETABLE.—Home-grown arrivals under average with all classes readily placed at firm to dearer rates: York 30/- to 84/- large load, small 25/- to 48/-, cauliflowers 7/- to 8/-, extra 10/- per doz., second 1/6 to 5/-, lettuce 4d. to 1/6, beet 2/- to 2/6, leeks 1/- to 2/6, radishes 4d. to 6d., rhubarb 1/- to 2/6, extra 3/- to 6/-, carrots 2/- to 2/6, parsnips 1/6 to 2/-, turnips 8d. to 1/- per bunch, scallions 3d. to 6d., thyme and sage 1d. to 2d., parsley 4d. to 6d. per tray, 1/- to 2/6 per bag, new potatoes 2/6 per stone, cucumbers 4/- to 8/- per doz., mushrooms 2/3 per lb., peas 1/-, gooseberries 3d. to 5d., and strawberries 4/3 to 7/- per box. Imported fruits in good supply, and met a fair inquiry at previous values, except oranges and grape fruit, which closed dearer, and tomatoes easier. Apples, New Zealand 12/- to 16/- per box, Newtowns 12/- to 14/-, Australian 10/- to 16/-, Winesaps 10/- to 12/-; oranges, Sunkist 25/- to 28/- per case, Brazilian 20/- to 27/-, Valencia 16/- to 22/-, lemons 18/- to 22/- per box, Hawell 18/- to 20/-; Cape grapes, black 12/- to 14/- per box, green 12/-, grape fruit 24/- to 27/- per case, pineapples 3/- to 5/- each, bananas 7/- to 9/- per box; tomatoes, English 8d. to 8½d. per lb., Dutch 6d., Canary 5/- per boat, 14/- per bundle; English cucumbers 6/- per doz. French pears 2/- to 2/6 per lb.; onions, Egyptian 11/- per bag, Spanish 13/- per case, French peas 14/- per bag, Italian cherries 7/6 per basket, and apricots 10/- to 12/- per box.

DUBLIN POTATO.—Supplies falling off, but arrivals sufficient for slow trade passing at 4/- to 4/3, extra 4/6 per cwt.

DUBLIN POULTRY.—There was a marked increase in supplies of poultry, both dead and alive Trade on the whole proved fairly good at current prices, which closed in buyers' favour in order to effect a clearance. Rabbits not so plentiful, but sufficient for requirements, buyers being in a cautious mood owing to warm weather and soft condition of many parcels to hand. Chickens 11d. to 1/1 per lb., smalls 1/6 to 2/- each; hens, large fat 1/6 to 2/-, others 1/-; best ducks 10d. per lb., smalls 2/- to 2/6 each, old 6d. to 1/-, rabbits and graziers 4d. to 6d. each.

DUBLIN BUTTER AND EGG.—Creamery supplies continue good, with demand fair at previous values for choice quality. Farmers' parcels show some increase, good sound quality being readily disposed of, but poor or badly handled arrivals rather difficult to place. Choice creamery 144/- to 147/-, faulty 141/- to 142/-, and farmers subject to levy deduction, 10d. to 1/- per lb. Egg supplies under average for season, especially extra heavy grades, which continue to form a very small percentage of arrivals. Cross Channel trade has slowed up somewhat. Continental buyers still cautious, but with local inquiry fairly good market on the whole showed little change since last report at—Extra heavy grades 8/9 to 9/3 case lots, ordinary and ungraded 7/4 to 8/4, mediums 6/6 to 6/9, trade smalls, etc., 5/- to 5/6, and ducks 6/6 to 7/- per 120.

LAND APPEALS TRIBUNAL

THE COMMISSIONERS' POWERS

MR. JUSTICE WYLIE, with Mr. Commissioner Browne and Mr. Commissioner Mansfield, sitting as the Appeals Tribunal, delivered judgment yesterday in the case of an appeal by David Rafferty, Richmond place, Clonmel, against a decision of the Land Commission acquiring 164 acres of the land at Acroboy for the relief of congestion under Section 24, Sub-Section 3, of the Land Act, 1923.

David Rafferty had been judicial tenant, and had the land vested in him in 1928 by the Land Commission.

Mr. Carson, K.C., who, with Mr. John Drennan (instructed by Messrs. J. F. Darcy and Co., solicitors) appeared for the tenant, contended that the land bought out under the 1923 Act could not be taken for relief of congestion, and that if the Land Commission wished to take the land for the relief of congestion, their remedy was by resumption before vesting, and the land, once vested, could not be resumed at all. He also contended that the lands were not untenanted lands at the date of the passing of the 1923 Act.

Mr. Jellett, K.C., with whom was Mr. T. D. Marnan (instructed by Mr. O'Reilly, Solicitor to the Land Commission), argued that lands bought out under the Land Purchase Acts are excluded from vesting by Section 24, Sub-Section 2A, of the Land Act, 1923, and, therefore, the powers given to the Land Commission to resume holdings applied to those excepted lands. It had been argued by Mr. Carson that there could be only one appointed day, and, therefore, the Land Commission may not fix another appointed day for acquisition to relieve congestion. The answer to that argument was that, under Section 70 of the Land Act, 1923, the appointed day should be such day or days as may be fixed by the Land Commission.

THE DECISION

Mr. Justice Wylie said that, in his opinion, the appellant, David Rafferty, held these lands under a Fair Rent Order, and he so held them at the date of the passing of the Land Act, 1923. On the 18th May, 1928, David Rafferty was registered in the Land Registry as full owner of the lands, subject to an annuity, and subject to equities. On December 7, 1934, a notice was served on Rafferty by the Land Commission setting forth that, unless cause was shown to the contrary within one month, the Land Commission intended to make a declaration in pursuance of Section 24, Sub-Section 3, of the Land Act, 1923, that the land was required for the relief of congestion. An application was duly filed by Rafferty on January 1st, 1934. This was heard by the Land Commission on 4th April, 1934, and was refused, and for this an appeal was brought. The lands were situate in a non-congested county.

These facts were admitted, and it was admitted by Mr. Jellett that this was tenanted land at the date of the passing of the Land Act, 1923.

WRONG ORDER

Mr. Justice Wylie said that what struck him was that at the date of the passing of the Act it could have had no reference whatever to the land in this case. Rafferty's land was not excluded land, and between the date of the passing of the Act and May 18th, 1928, the Land Commission could have made no declaration certifying it. The land was not excluded, therefore the Land Commission had no power to make a declaration. He expressed no opinion as to the question of the appointed day raised by Mr. Jellett, as, in the view he took of Section 24, it was not necessary.

In his opinion the order made by the Land Commission was wrong.

LAY COMMISSIONERS' POWERS

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

Mr. Justice Wylie, at the sitting of the Land Tribunal, gave an important decision affecting the 1933 Land Act. The case was one in connection with the Earl of Darnley estate, when Norman Potterton appealed against a decision of the Lay Commissioners of the Land Commission, resuming a farm near Kilcock.

Mr. Carson, K.C., who with Mr. Newett, appeared for the appellant, argued that the Appeal Tribunal and not the Lay Commissioners was the court which must decide whether or not a holding should be resumed, that there had been no hearing of evidence or decision by a competent court, and that his client could not be dispossessed without such a hearing or decision.

Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., T.D., who, with Mr. Marnan, appeared for the Land Commission, said that under the Act all that he was required to do was to produce the certificate of the Land Commission that the lands were needed for resumption.

Mr. Justice Wylie said that this was a very difficult and important point of law, in which was questioned the powers of the Lay Commissioners in resumption cases under the Land Act of 1933. Under Section 11 of the 1933 Act the powers of the Court were based on the Appeal Tribunal, and Sub-Section 3 said: "The Court shall agree to the claim of the Land Commission authorities to resumption of the holding, and shall authorise the Land Commission to enter into possession of the holding." They had in the same Act two sections, one purporting to confer on what purported to be a judicial body, what he thought clearly to be judicial powers hitherto exercised by a High Court Judge. These powers could dispossess a tenant, and destroy tenant rights. The other section, Section 31, of the same Act, proposed no provisions whatever for the hearing by any judicial body of any defence which the tenant might offer. The Supreme Court had held that the Lay Commissioners were not a judicial body. If Section 31 excluded the Appeal Tribunal from exercising any powers except that of fixing compensation a tenant might have a particularly reasonable defence to the application for resumption, and he could not have it heard by any Court. If it was on a point of law the tenant must appeal before he could have a decision by any Court.

ORDER REFUSED

"I cannot think," said Mr. Justice Wylie, "that the words in Section 31 would be the way the Legislature would have expressed its intention if they did intend that." If the two sections were contradictory he preferred the one which secured a necessary jurisdiction. There was, he thought, another and a more important argument against the Land Commission's contention. The powers of the Court prior to the 1933 Act were the powers of a Court—judicial powers—and if the powers were not now invested in the Appeal Tribunal, where, he asked, had they gone to. He was of the opinion that the suggestion that they were now invested in the Lay Commissioners was ultra vires Article 64 of the Constitution. He was accordingly of the opinion that the Land Commission had not the right to order or direct the Appeal Tribunal to make an order for resumption without any evidence being given or without giving the tenant an opportunity of being heard and making such objections as he thought fit to the resumption being effected. Accordingly he would not make an order in this case for resumption.

STRIKE NOTICES ON MILK FIRMS

Strike notices have been served by the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union upon two important dairy companies in the Dublin area. A conference in connection with one of the notices took place last night, and a second conference will be held on Monday. The questions at issue are wages and conditions of employment. Both firms specialise in supplying bottled milk.

SETTLEMENTS IN TWO ACTIONS

ACCIDENT AT ARDAGH CROSS-ROADS

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

A settlement was announced in an action in which Thomas Pollard, Aughnahowna, Ardagh, County Longford, was the plaintiff and John Brown, Peter street, Cork, and James Leavy, Cloonahard, County Longford, were the defendants. The action was for personal injuries received by the plaintiff while a passenger in a motor car the property of Leavy, which was in collision with a motor car owned by Brown, at Ardagh cross-roads on the 26th June, 1934.

The consent provided for the payment by the defendants to the plaintiff of £200 and £60 for costs.

Messrs. C. J. P. Farrell and Co. were the solicitors for the plaintiff, and Messrs. James O'Connor and Co. for the defendants.

AT ISLANDBRIDGE

A settlement was also announced in an action in which John Pyne, 9 Fitzgibbon street, Dublin, claimed damages from Richard B. Higgins, Abbeyderg, County Longford, for injuries sustained at Islandbridge road, Dublin, on the 30th January last. The plaintiff was cycling out of Islandbridge road when he collided with a motor car, the property of the defendant, in Conyngham road.

The consent provided for the payment of £225 damages and 30 guineas for costs.

WRIT OF PROHIBITION REFUSED

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

An application for an order of certiorari, and a writ of prohibition was made by Mr. Mooney (instructed by Mr. Charles S. Quinlan) on behalf of John Kelly, a farmer, Ballymorris, County Waterford, the respondents being the County Council of Waterford, and Pierce Durand, a rate collector of the Council of Waterford.

Counsel said that writ of prohibition was sought to prevent the execution of a decree for £23 9s. 11d., and costs for rates, granted by the Circuit Court of Waterford. He read an affidavit of the solicitor for the prosecution, which stated that, in making the decree, the Circuit Judge did not fix the amount of the costs. A demand had been received for the payment of the amount of the decree, with £4 0s. 6d. costs. These costs were not ascertained by the Judge, and must have been fixed by the County Registrar, acting as Taxation officer.

The prosecution complained that the taxation was made ex parte, without jurisdiction and in excess of jurisdiction, and the application was for an order prohibiting the executing of the decree and for an order of certiorari quashing the degree so far as it applied to costs.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne said that there was prima facie evidence on the order before him that the costs were fixed by the Judge, and he refused the application.

SOLICITOR STRUCK OFF THE ROLL

On the application of Mr. Phelps, K.C., (instructed by Mr. W. G. Wakely) on behalf of the Incorporated Law Society of Ireland, the Chief Justice yesterday made an order striking off the Roll of Solicitors, the name of John J. Tully, Dame street, Dublin, on the ground of Mr. Tully's having been convicted at the Circuit Court, Dublin, on 7th of last March, of the fraudulent conversion of £10 on 11th May, 1934, and of £150 on 18th May, 1934, and sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment.

HIGH COURT AND SYNOD'S POWERS

CHARGES AGAINST DUBLIN VICAR

IN the High Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice O'Byrne, Mr. Phelps, K.C., with whom was Mr. Cherry (instructed by Mr. W. J. M. Coulter), applied on behalf of Frederick Davis, The Orchard, Chapelizod, and others, petitioners in a petition preferring charges against the Rev. S. R. S. Colquhoun, vicar of St. John's Church, Sandymount, Dublin, for an order giving them liberty to intervene and show cause against a conditional order of prohibition which had been granted by Mr. Justice Sullivan on 29th March last, directed to the Court of the General Synod of the Church of Ireland, and prohibiting the Court from hearing and determining the charges.

The petition charged that the Rev. Samuel Colquhoun, on 18th June, 1933, 11th March, 1934, and on other occasions, in the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Sandymount, during a Service prescribed for the administration of the Lord's Supper, caused or permitted certain acts not prescribed in the Book of Common Prayer, as altered by the General Synod or the canons of the Church of Ireland.

The application for the conditional order had been made on behalf of the Rev. S. Colquhoun, and was based on the ground that the Court of the General Synod had no power to entertain or determine the charges.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne granted the application, and reserved the question of costs until the conditional order came before the Court for the purpose of being made absolute.

THE RESIDENCE OF THE LATE FREDERICK D. DARLEY, Esq.

Unusually attractive Residence, with 17 acres 3 roods 10 perches, situated about 5 miles from the city, on the main road to Bray, and having a frontage to that road of about 800 feet. The Residence is one storey in front and two storeys at the rear. It is approached through a lodge entrance by a beautifully timbered drive. It contains a spacious hall, off which are the drawingroom (a very charming apartment overlooking the lovely pleasure grounds, and having a door leading to them), spacious diningroom, library, morning room, and small sittingroom, seven family bedrooms, two bathrooms, three rooms for servants, kitchen and pantries. The House is lighted by acetylene gas. An easy staircase leads to the upper floor, and the House generally is in first-class order.

The grounds include a walled-in garden, tennis court, and a flower garden. The lawn in front of the House is shaded by fine old trees. The views include the bay and Howth on one side, and the Dublin Mountains on the other.

The frontage to the Stillorgan road affords valuable Building Sites, which could be utilised without interfering with the privacy of the Residence.

This attractive Residence is held for 150 years from 1st June, 1914, subject to the annual rent of £126. Possession will be given to a purchaser.

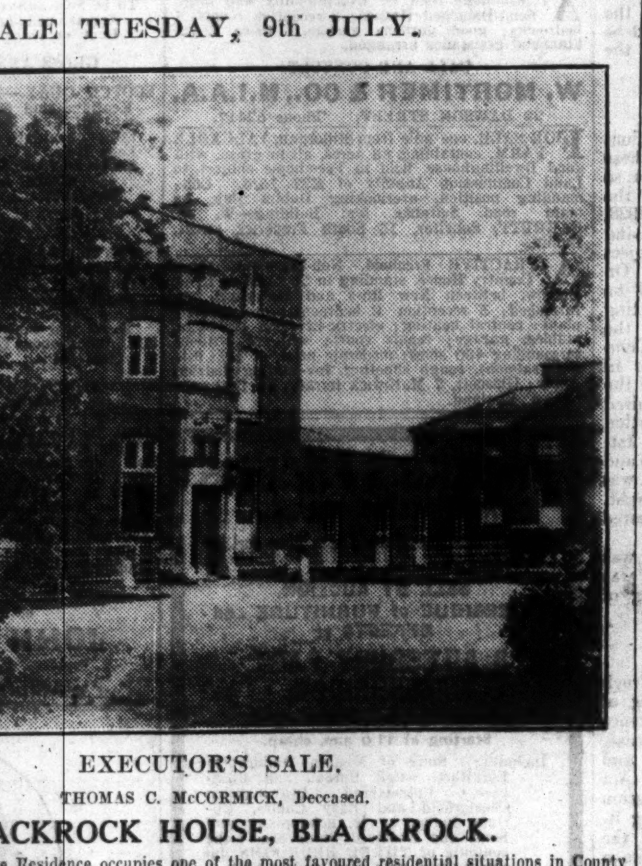
SALE TUESDAY, 9th JULY.



EXECUTOR'S SALE.

THOMAS C. McCORMICK, Deceased.

BLACKROCK HOUSE, BLACKROCK.

This charming marine Residence occupies one of the most favoured residential situations in County Dublin. The grounds, which contain 4½ acres, extend from the main Blackrock road to the sea, and include about 800 feet of picturesque rocky foreshore, with private bathing place, boating and small harbour. The plateau on which the Residence stands is about 75 feet above sea level, and slopes in tree-sheltered terraces, intersected by easy walks. The plateau connects with the seashore by two foot bridges across the railway. The grounds immediately adjoining the Residence are laid out in flower beds and tennis court, and there is a good walled-in garden.

The House is approached through an imposing entrance, with handsome granite pillars and Gate Lodge. A striking feature of the internal accommodation is the suite of four reception rooms, all communicating, and affording a vista 130 feet in length. These rooms overlook the pleasure grounds, and enjoy lovely views of the bay and Howth. There are, in addition, a study and boudoir. The reception rooms have fine old mahogany doors, and some of them have Adams fireplaces. There are eight family bedrooms, three bathrooms, cloakroom, ample servants' accommodation, modern sanitary appliances, domestic offices, Vartry water, main drainage.

The Out-offices include stabling, garage for three cars, lofts, etc.

Blackrock House offers residential attractions of the rarest kind. It is only five miles from the city, is served by train, tram and 'bus; and yet enjoys a very charming seclusion. The grounds are naturally beautiful, and the ownership of a long and diversified coastline is an advantage as unique as it is attractive.

The Property is held for ever, subject to only £18 18s. 9d. per annum. Clear possession will be given to a purchaser. Inspection by order from Auctioneers.

ATTRACTIVE INVESTMENT.

NOS. 18, 19 & 24 RAYMOND STREET, S.C. ROAD.

Three pre-war, brick-built Houses, consisting of 6 rooms each, outside lavatory. Large garden at rear and space for garage. Nos. 18 and 19 are let at £42 per annum each, landlord paying taxes. No. 24 is let at £36 4s. 0d. per annum, and is under-let by £4 odd under the Rent Restriction Act. The gross income is £120 4s. 0d. per annum; deducting rates, £40 7s. 7d., and head rent, £12 7s. 6d., we get a net profit rent of £67 8s. 11d.

Held for 999 years, subject to the entire head rent of £12 6s. 7d. per annum. P.L. Val., £16 each. This is an attractive proposition for investors, as the property is very sound, and in a convenient part of the city.

Messrs. HORAN & DEVINE, Solicitors having Carriage of Sale, 12 Dame street, Dublin.

REDLANDS, 65 KENILWORTH PARK.

A handsomely designed, pre-war, semi-detached, non-basement House, with bay window, porch entrance, brick front, two storey. The accommodation comprises:—Drawingroom, diningroom, 4 bedrooms, bathroom, hot and cold supply, wash-basin, and separate lavatory; tiled kitchen, pantry, scullery and outside lavatory. Garden front and rear; side entrance through covered passage. The House is conveniently situated, and should appeal to those who require a residence or investment.

Held for about 200 years, free of rent. P.L. Val., £21. Key with the Auctioneers.

CONDRY, 49 ANNAMOE ROAD,

VICINITY OF NORTH CIRCULAR ROAD.

SPLENDIDLY SITUATED HOUSE, IN A HIGH AND HEALTHY POSITION, DETACHED, TWO-STOREY, NON-BASEMENT, STANDING ON APPROXIMATELY HALF-AN-ACRE,

With a frontage of 50 feet to Annamoe road, approached by a wide entrance concreted to hall-door. The House has a verandah in front and porch entrance. Adjacent to the Navan main road; 'bus at door, 3 minutes' from tram, 5 minutes' to church, schools and shopping area; 2d. fare to city.

This House was specially built by the owner for his own residence, but he is now going abroad.

The accommodation comprises:—On the hall level: 2 reception rooms, kitchen with parlour range, scullery with double supply of hot and cold water, copper piping, hot press over boiler, built-in press for utensils. Upstairs there are 4 bedrooms, maid's room, full-sized bath with wash basin, separate lavatory. The staircase and landing are of pitch pine; oak-grained doors throughout, with mortice locks. The Out-offices comprise coal-house, lavatory, portable shed or workshop, and large fowl run; garage, 11' x 23' x 14' high, with electric light, water and inspection pit, roofed with 3 layers ruberoid. The garden is nicely laid out, and well fenced for 160 feet; remainder walled in. This House was built at great cost, which figures can prove, but as the owner is going abroad he is desirous of selling, and the reserve will be a reasonable one.

Seen on Order to View from the Auctioneers between the hours of 3 and 8 o'c., otherwise by appointment.

Held for 300 years from 1934, subject to £10 per annum. P.L. Val., £30. Remission of rates, two-thirds for 7 years, from 1934.

J. L. Byrne, Ltd.—In Voluntary Liquidation.
AUCTION, TUESDAY, 18th JUNE, at 1.30, IN SALEROOMS, 188 PEARSE STREET.
VALUABLE CITY BUSINESS PREMISES,

58 PARNELL STREET

(Corner of Moore street. Vacant Possession).

Also the adjoining Premises,

30A MOORE STREET

(VACANT POSSESSION),

And the tenanted Premises,

30 and 30½ MOORE STREET

(IN ONE LOT.)

All held under one lease for a term of 895 years from 1798 at £76 per annum, old currency (equivalent to £70 3/- p.a., present currency).

No. 58 Parnell street (Poor Law Val. £60) consists of an imposing building, containing compact shop (in which an old-established General Grocery and Provision business had been carried on until recently), basement and nine dwelling rooms, hot bath, hall door entrance. Vacant possession will be given Purchaser.

No. 30A Moore street (Poor Law Val. £21) consists of a lock-up shop, with office or small room and basement. Vacant possession of this lot will also be given Purchaser.

No. 30 Moore street (Poor Law Val. £20) and 30½ Moore street (Poor Law Val. £15) are business premises, let at a total weekly rental of £1 16/4, equivalent to yearly £94 9/4.

The head rent on the entire is, per annum, £70 3/-, and rates on the entire, at 15/8½, are £91 2/2, making a total of £161 5/2. After deducting the present incoming rental, £94 9/4, the net amount for head rent and rates is £66 15/10. It follows that the entire valuable premises would be subject, in respect of head rent and rates, to a trifling sum of about 25/6 weekly. The premises occupy a very important business position, and may be viewed daily by appointment. Conditions of Sale from
